Coyote and Police Dog.

HODGE, Cal., Jan. 9.

NEAR this ranch house a big coyote hangs by his hind feet waiting to be skinned. Those that let children play with police dogs should see this coyote. Its size, head, shape and color are those of a police dog, also its disposition.

BEFORE a bullet between the eyes ended his career, the trapped coyote barked and snapped in police dog fashion. The close resemblance between the two branches of the wolf family is amazing.

A DOCTOR of Manhattan, Kan., believes he has found a cure for pyorrhea. Mr. Gundlach, of Chicago, thinks he also knows a cure. A real cure of that curse could be worth fifty millions to its discoverer, and would be cheap at twice that.

MISS AGNES MAUDE ROYDEN, British evangelist, saves souls splendidly. But she also smokes, and moral ladies of Illinois having invited her to preach and save a few, cancelled the invitation, when they heard about the smoking.

THIS puzzles good Right Rev. A. F. Deane, lord bishop of Aberdeen, who says the date-cancelling ladies should be "thrown into the lunatic asylum."

THE bishop does not know human nature, and has not heard of a certain "left footer," or "black Protestant," who lay very drunk and entirely helpless in a ditch half full of water. A kind priest pulled him out, the particular Protestant opened one eye, recognized the clerical garb and shouted angrily, "throw me back in the ditch." Those Illinois ladies would rather go their sinful ways than be saved by a cigaret-smoking preacher.

MR. REMUS, who interrupted a bootlegging career to kill his wife, and was congratulated, rather strangely, by some of the jury that acquitted him, is to have "a period of rest under scrutiny." That's to see how his mind is, and decide about letting him loose to resume his business. His wife is having a longer "period of rest," under the ground.

AN EXPEDITION of the California Academy of Sciences returns from the mysterious Galapagos Island, bringing giant lizards, only survivors of the Mesozoic Age, and, more interesting to the youth of America, "flightless" cormorants, huge birds that have lost their power to fly, because they have not flown for so long.

WHAT applies to flying for yourself, applies to thinking for yourself. It's easy to lose that faculty. Darwin visited those islands more than 75 years ago, and would have liked to explore the inaccessible mountain tops that no one thus far has visited.

VINCENT ASTOR of New York proposes to see what, if anything, is up there, on his visit to the island this spring. He will carry a small airplane on his new yacht, and vary the monotony of yachting with flying to interesting inaccessible heights.

STOCK gamblers, badly frightened on Friday, threw over their stocks. Then they read President Coolidge's statement that heavy broker's loans were only another sign of prosperity, and Mr. Durant's statement that such loans within a year might reach five billions, profitably, for the country.

ON SATURDAY the same gentlemen rushed to buy back stocks unloaded the day before. Today or tomorrow something else may frighten them. Plato's men, sitting in the cave, their backs to the light, judging the real world by shadows of passing people cast on the wall of their cave, were like stock gamblers. Except that Plato's cave men formed their own opinions.

LOS ANGELES sets a good example to other cities, ordering rat proof features in all new buildings. It would be an excellent idea, and economical in the long run, to make old buildings also rat proof, the city paying the cost.

MODERN destructive gases might be used for rat, mouse and insect extermination including the destruction of the dangerous flea-carrying ground squirrels and gophers.

Jap Prince to Wed

SETSU MATSUDAIRA PRINCE CHICHIBU

Engagement of Prince Chichibu, 25, brother of the Emperor of Japan, and Setsu Masudaira, 17, daughter of Tsuneo Matsudaira, Japanese ambassador to the United States, was confirmed at Tokio Saturday. Negotiations for the engagement were started informally last July, Matsudaira declining the offer because he considered the honor too great for him and his daughter.

AIR ENVOY ENDS HIS TOUR

PANAMA, Canal Zone, Jan. 9.—(INS.)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, "America's favorite son of the air," virtually completed his Latin-American good-will tour today when he arrived here from San Jose, Costa Rica. Lindbergh landed in the Spirit of St. Louis at 1:50 p. m., having flown the 310 miles from San Jose in 5 hours 7 minutes. The trip was without incident.

By International News Service.

LEAVES SAN JOSE

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, Jan. 9.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh hopped off at 8:43 o'clock this morning for Panama.

Lindbergh had announced that he would hop off at 9 o'clock, but upon reaching the flying field and finding flying conditions so good he decided to leave a few minutes earlier.

The crowd at the field was orderly but enthusiastic and shouted continuous farewells while the motor was being tuned up. Then the plane started across the field, quickly rose in a long, sweeping upward swing and headed for Panama.

It was 8:55 when the plane disappeared from view.

The President of the Republic of Costa Rica went to the field to say goodby to the famous young American. Lindbergh thanked him for the generous reception he had received here and said he hoped to return some day for a longer visit.

Panama lies 310 miles southeast of San Jose. During this leg of his long Latin-American tour Lindbergh must fly over mountain ranges with smouldering volcanoes and wild, desolate forests inhabited only by Indians.

HILL DRIVE ON CRIME BEGUN

"Bring in every corner-loafer, poolroom habitue and other nondescripts unable to give a good account of themselves," was the order given to police of the Hill district by Inspector J. P. Clancy today in compliance with Supt. Peter P. Walsh's edict for a city-wide cleanup of suspicious characters as a result of the large number of holdups, purse snatchings and other offenses committed here during the past few weeks.

Twenty-five extra patrolmen have been assigned to the Hill district to work under Clancy's personal direction. The inspector has set up headquarters in the Center Avenue Police Station and every prisoner will be brought before him for questioning.

"We have done everything in our power to guard against crime," declared Clancy in speaking of the unusually large number of holdups, purse-snatching and slugging in the city lately. "Now we are going into this thing with the intention of running every undesirable character out of town. We will show no mercy to the man known to have a police record. He will be arraigned under the professional thief law which gives the police magistrate power to sentence him to the workhouse and those arraigned on suspicious person charges, unable to explain matters satisfactorily to the magistrate, will be given the option of a jail sentence or a stiff fine. We are out to rid the city of crime," he said.

Girl Admits Killing

OLGA PAWLISKAK

Olga Pawliskak, 17, a beautiful Russian girl, confessed to state police that she, yesterday, shot and killed Nick Anderson, 35, of Ambridge, in the kitchen of her home at Fair Oaks, near Ambridge. Police today worked on a theory that she is shielding Mike Poppowich, of Fair Oaks, her fiance, who is held with her in the Sewickley police station.

USES SWEETHEART'S GUN

In the kitchen of the Pawliskak home, Olga said, she drew a gun from her sweetheart's pocket and fired three bullets into Anderson. She declared he was paying court to her mother. At the left is a hole made by a bullet after it passed through Anderson's body.

SCENE OF MURDER

The Pawliskak home on Ambridge road, from where Anderson strode, yesterday, apparently unharmed only to fall a minute later.

Rob Runner Of $4,000

A satchel containing $4,000 in certified checks and an undetermined amount of cash was taken from Leo Wiseman, messenger for the Washington Trust Company, by two men, one of whom drew a gun and the other a blackjack, in Twenty-fifth street, between Penn avenue and Mulberry way shortly after 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Wiseman was beaten on the head by one of the thugs, while the other leveled a gun at him and threatened his life if he struggled. The bandits fled before persons in the vicinity realized what had occurred.

Wiseman was collecting funds from depositors in the Penn avenue district and had just left the Caplan Grocery Store at Penn avenue and Twenty-first street, where he obtained the checks and a small amount of money. It is believed he had other cash collected from other stores.

Wiseman, suffering from lacerations of the head, was taken to the office of a nearby physician. A squad of detectives was dispatched to the scene in an automobile.

The holdup marks the second time within two years that a messenger of the bank has been robbed.

25 Feared Dead in Mine

By International News Service.

WEST FRANKFORT, Ill., Jan. 9.—All but 20 or 35 miners have been taken alive from the Industrial Coal Company's mine No. 18 near here, although two are known dead in the lower workings, rescue workers said here this afternoon, as they penetrated the portion of the mine wrecked by an explosion shortly after the day shift of 700 men went to work this morning.

Many of the men rescued were overcome for a time by the gas, but there is no danger of them dying from its effects, officials said.

Gang Chief Riddled In Auto

Although he apparently was prepared for an attack and kept a revolver and shotgun at his side, Domenico Caputo, 30, of 8126 Frankstown avenue, was slain last night, his body riddled with bullets and slugs from a revolver and shotgun, as he sat in his automobile near Frankstown avenue and Tokio street. Police say he is another victim of gang warfare.

Vincent Zarra, 30, of 1052 Blackadore avenue, his brother-in-law, who was with him in the machine, escaped with a slight wound on the right side. The killers rode in another automobile and thrust their guns from the curtained machine as it passed Caputo's automobile. Although police gave chase and followed the machine for several blocks, they lost it.

LEADER, POLICE SAY

Zarra was arrested on a suspicious person charge and taken to the Frankstown Avenue Police Station. He could give little information that might lead to the apprehension of the slayers.

Caputo had been the leader of a band of gangsters in the East End, according to Detective Michael Tortorelli, and in 1924 was indicted on seven charges in connection with the bombing of Anthony Berardini's home in Homewood.

Sixteen others, including Zarra, alleged to have been members of the Caputo gang, also were indicted. They were freed at the subsequent trial after Caputo married Zarra's sister, Teresa, the government's star witness, Tortorelli said. The law does not compel a wife to testify against her husband.

Irate "Repairman" Leaves Church Organ Mute

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 9.—(AP.)—A discharged employe of an organ manufactory who is believed to have dismantled pipe organs of separate churches on two successive Sundays in his desire for revenge is being sought by police here today.

Yesterday the man appeared at St. Mark's Lutheran Church, representing himself as a repairman for the organ company, and told the pastor he had been sent there to do some work on the organ. The minister later found some of the parts had been removed and there was no music at the night service. Last Sunday he dismantled the organ of the Union Methodist Episcopal Church under the same pretext.

WINTER DIES IN CHAIR DENYING HIS GUILT

By CARL U. TURNER,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

WESTERN STATE PENITENTIARY, ROCKVIEW, Pa., Jan. 9.—"I didn't kill those children."

Scarcely had these last words left the lips of Raymond Winter, 33-year-old Pittsburgh street car conductor and World War veteran, than his life was snuffed out with one contact of current of the electric chair here at dawn today.

Winter, convicted by a jury of the brutal murder of little Alex and Helen Sabo, near Pittsburgh, in May, 1925, made good his promise to his aged mother and father to "die like a soldier."

As he was led into the stuffy death house he seemed in complete control of himself. He walked straight to the chair, uttered a final denial

MARINE CONTINGENT OFF FOR FRONT IN NICARAGUA

United States Marines are Nicaragua Bound

GIRL SAYS SHE KILLED; SHIELDING MAN, BELIEF

THEY SAILED TODAY

The thump of marching feet as detachments of Nicaragua-bound Marines, en route to Norfolk via Baltimore, brought back memories of the stirring days of 1917 to the people of the Maryland seaport.

MAJ. GEN. LEJEUNE

Maj. Gen. John A. Lejeune, commandant of the Marine Corps, sailed with today's contingent.

"SITUATION WELL IN HAND"

"The Marines have landed and the situation is well in hand," that dispatch which is now almost a part of the Marines' code, seems due to be repeated as these "Leathernecks" board their boat at Norfolk.

492 LEAVE ON NAVY CRAFT

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Jan. 9.—(AP.)—Nicaragua-bound, 492 officers and men of the United States marines corps sailed from here on the naval ammunition carrier Nitro at 9:15 a. m. today.

CHARLESTON, S. C., Jan. 9.—Primed and ready to sail, the cruisers Trenton, Raleigh and Milwaukee were anchored in Charleston harbor today with 300 Nicaragua-bound marines.

The contingent arrived early today from Parris Island and other southeastern points on a special train. Proceeding directly to the navy yard they boarded lighters and were taken down stream to the waiting cruisers.

Maj. Gen. John A. Lejeune, commandant of the corps, who will make a trip of inspection to the Central American front, and Brig. Gen. Logan Feland, who will assume command of the marines in Nicaragua, both boarded the Trenton.

ASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—(AP.)—The oft-recurring picture of American marines sailing for duty in foreign lands was afforded at three port cities today as reinforcements for the Nicaraguan campaigners assembled at San Diego, Cal., Norfolk, Va., and Charleston, S. C.

The bulk of the marine force from the east was at Hampton Roads, Va., where the mine layer Oglala put in to take 450 enlisted men and officers aboard. About the same number of men were assembled at San Diego, with the mine layer Argonne assigned as transport.

DUNLAP HEADS GROUP

The Norfolk contingent, comprising nearly half of the hastily formed Eleventh Regiment, is commanded by Col. Robert H. Dunlap. Most of the men are veterans, none being taken to Nicaragua who have less than six months of enlistment to serve.

Goodbye reminiscent of World War days were said at the marine base yesterday as the men and officers equipped themselves for a long campaign.

When the 1,000 marines from the east and west coasts unite with their buddies now on the scene, the force in Nicaragua will approximate 2,400.

Slashed Own Throat

PHILIP MAHLA

Despondent, Philip Mahla, 45, machinist, slashed his throat until he killed himself with two safety razor blades after locking himself in his room at 925 James street last night. His body was found stretched across his bed by police who broke down the door today. He had been separated from his family for six months.

Girl Held Apartment Prisoner

NAOMI SHAULIS

Naomi Shaulis, 17, of 2065 Chalfont street, Wilkinsburg, was held prisoner for four hours this morning in the restaurant of C. P. Trout, of 920 Penn avenue. Police rescued her from the roof of an adjoining building, where she was forced to hide.

Free Girl Found on Roof

Held prisoner in a room above the restaurant of C. P. Trout, 50, of 920 Penn avenue, Wilkinsburg, for four hours early this morning, according to her story, Naomi Shaulis, 17, a waitress, was rescued by police who found her cowering on the roof of an adjoining building where she was forced to hide by Trout, the girl told the officers.

The girl was employed by Trout, according to her father, Wesley Shaulis, of 2065 Chalfont street, Wilkinsburg, and when she failed to return home at the usual hour this morning, he appealed to police. Shaulis said his daughter was through work at 2 a. m. and was being held against her will by Trout, her employer. Lieut. Belmont Pugh and Patrolman Robert Elwood went to the restaurant and Trout slammed the door in the officers' faces when they sought admittance. They were compelled to force their way into the building an' after searching the upper floors, they found the girl on the roof near Trout's bedroom window. She wore no shoes, coat or hat and when questioned by the officers she said Trout had overpowered her when she went to the dressing room to get ready to go home. She said she had been compelled to submit to Trout's advances and when the police arrived, he shoved her through the window onto the roof.

Both Trout and the girl were lodged in the Wilkinsburg Police Station on suspicious person charges. They will be given a hearing before Justice of the Peace George B. Shields of Wilkinsburg.

RENAME POSTMASTER AT BROWNSVILLE

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., Jan. 9.—Postmaster William B. Edmiston, has been nominated for reappointment by President Coolidge, according to word received today from Washington. He has served one term under appointment of the present administration.

GIRL'S STORY THAT SHE KILLED DOUBTED

A shield for her sweetheart, was the state police opinion of the "murder" confession of Miss Olga Pawliskak, 17-year-old Russian beauty of Fair Oaks, being held in the Sewickley Police Station in connection with the slaying of Nick Anderson, 35, of Ambridge.

"Mike did it," a statement repeated several times by Anderson as he died yesterday in the Sewickley Valley Hospital from two bullet wounds in his stomach, incriminated Mike Poppowich of Fair Oaks, police say.

Poppowich was arrested in a room in the Pawliskak home with the girl after she, according to police, boasted she had shot Anderson because he molested her mother. Poppowich was silent as she repeated her story of the killing and produced the 25-caliber revolver with which the shooting was done.

The revolver belongs to Poppowich, police say.

Anderson was found lying in the mud near the Pawliskak home.

State Policeman Thomas Milligan, who, with two members of the Ambridge police force, investigated the killing, expressed the theory that the shooting occurred when Poppowich went to the girl's home early yesterday and found Anderson there.

They discredited the girl's story that Anderson, a former boarder in the Pawliskak home, had been paying attention to the girl's mother.

Miss Pawliskak is a waitress employed in an Ambridge restaurant. Poppowich is a structural steel worker.

Both were being held in the Sewickley Police Station, pending a further investigation of the case.

C. P. TROUT

C. P. Trout, 50, proprietor of a restaurant at 920 Penn avenue, Wilkinsburg, was taken into custody by Wilkinsburg police, who went to his living quarters above the restaurant at the instigation of Miss Shaulis' father, who said the girl was being held against her will. Trout is alleged to have overpowered the girl while she was changing clothes to go home and held her in his apartment for almost four hours.

ROOMER-THIEF SUSPECT HELD

More than a score of Pittsburgh rooming housekeepers, victims of bad checks and robberies, were called to the detective bureau today to look at James Hauser, 28.

Hauser was arrested in the postoffice today when he called for mail. A satchel he carried contained clothing stolen last night from a house in McKee place. Detectives John Dashback, Edward McIntee and Clarence Rader said he confessed. He is wanted in St. Louis, Akron, Wheeling and other cities, police said.

WINTER DIES IN CHAIR

of his guilt and a moment later the death sentence had been carried out.

As soon as his body had been removed to the mortuary in the same building as the electric chair, another condemned man, William Myer, paid the supreme penalty for slaying a Philadelphia policeman.

He, too, kept control of his emotions.

EXECUTIONER SPEEDS JOB

Twenty minutes after Robert Elliott, official state executioner, who is ready to execute the death sentence of Ruth Snyder and Judd Gray in Sing Sing Prison, New York, Thursday night, entered the death house, he emerged, his task performed without a hitch.

Elliott entered a car with a deputy warden and was whisked beyond the gates before the shrill scream of the prison whistle notified all that the execution had been completed.

With Elliott on his way, the 770 prisoners there were released for their daily tasks and 10 minutes later there was no surface indication inside the high barbed fences that two men had gone to their death shortly before.

CRIME AROUSED STATE

The Winter killing nearly three years ago roused the state as have few others in recent years. Because of the brutality of the slayer in luring the unsuspecting victims to their death after professing friendship by buying them candy, feeling against the killer soared to a high pitch during the trial.

Evidence against Winter was largely circumstantial, but he was identified by a merchant as the man who bought candy for Alex and Helen Sabo on the day they were killed.

This was so convincing to the jurors that they recommended the extreme penalty, and the state's highest courts sustained their verdict.

Friends of Winter and opponents of capital punishment brought up his war record in France in their repeated pleas for clemency. They said that shell shock might have caused temporary insanity, but the state sanity experts found Winter sane.

PROTESTS INNOCENCE

"I am innocent of the slaying of the two children," were Winters' last words.

He slept soundly until 5 a. m., though Myer remained awake through the night.

At 6 a. m., with but an hour to live, the condemned Pittsburgh man was served with a special breakfast, of which he partook heartily and with evident relish.

His last meal finished, Winter received the Rev. C. I. Osborne, the prison chaplain. The clergyman remained with him to the end.

At 7:01 Winter was strapped in the chair and a moment later, at 7:02, Executioner Elliott threw the switch which sent 2,000 volts at 12 amperes through Winter's body. Dr. C. J. Newcomb, the prison physician, pronounced him dead at 7:07 a. m.

The bodies of both men executed will remain in the little death house in the center of the prison yard until noon, when Dr. Newcomb will perform the autopsy.

This afternoon Winter's body will be taken to a Bellefonte undertaking establishment and there prepared for shipment to Pittsburgh. It will leave Bellefonte either late tonight or tomorrow and upon arrival in Pittsburgh will be received by his parents. It is understood here that he will be given a military funeral by the World War veterans who fought with him in France.

The body of Myer will be claimed here by his parents.

HISTORY OF CRIME

Raymond Winter was arrested the afternoon of May 28, 1925, an hour before the bodies of Alexander and Helen Sabo were found in a creek a half mile from their home in Mollenaur, their skulls crushed by a large stone. His arrest was occasioned by the fact that he was the last person to be seen with the children, who had disappeared the day before. Even before the bodies had been discovered by a searching party, a blood-stained conductor's uniform was found in Winter's home, detectives investigating the case said.

Five days later Winter was held on two charges of murder by the coroner's jury.

Winter entered a plea of not guilty when his trial was started March 22, 1926, before Visiting Judge A. B. Smith of Susquehanna county. Assistant District Attorney Harry A. Estep handled the trial for the prosecution and Attorney Charles B. Prichard was Winter's attorney. Many persons interested in the case were surprised when Winter entered his plea without the expected insanity pleading. Attorney Estep asked for a first degree verdict on both indictments.

FIVE DAYS TRIAL

The trial lasted but five days and it ended by the jury returning a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree, with the recommendation of the extreme penalty. This was the first verdict of its kind to be returned in the county since the passage of the Guerin act, which gives a murder jury the right to decide whether the person they convict shall be electrocuted or sentenced to life imprisonment.

Appeals for a new trial were taken immediately by Attorney Prichard, who made several attempts to obtain a new hearing. Last January 19 Winter was brought into court, after his appeals for new trials had been refused, and he was sentenced to die in the electric chair. Attorney Prichard carried his fight to the State Supreme Court, but that body upheld the conviction of the lower court.

Gov. Fisher last May fixed the date of Winter's electrocution for the week of May 23, 1927, but a month's reprieve was granted a few days later. A second reprieve was granted by Gov. Fisher, and a further stay was obtained when District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner asked that an alienist be appointed to examine Winter. A board was appointed to examine the defendant and the report was that he was sane. Several additional stays were granted until after the Pardon Board had refused to save the condemned slayer. A personal appeal to Gov. Fisher by Attorney Prichard also was in vain.

'Know Your Own Baby' Motto of Hospital

By Universal Service.

CHICAGO, Jan. 9.—To be certain that mothers will get their own babies at the Jackson Park Hospital here, a triple identification system has been put into effect, it was learned today.

An adhesive tape strip bearing the baby's name is put on the back as soon as the child is born. Lettered beads are put around its neck. Footprints are then taken.

"We fear no mix-up of babies at this hospital," said Col. Frank Dixon, the superintendent. "Our method is foolproof. Mothers can say, 'We accept no substitutes.'"

KIP'S SISTER SEEKS DIVORCE

By CHOLLY KNICKERBOCKER.

(Copyright, 1928, by New York American.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—Poor Philip Rhinelander!

The ancestral gentleman merits the sympathy of society in particular and the public in general. His son, Leonard Kip Rhinelander, brought notoriety to his patriarchal family, when he hung a dusky ' e on the otherwise spotless Rhinelander family tree.

Now, according to word which reaches me from several well-informed club-fellows recently arrived from Paris, the proud, but heart-broken Mr. Rhinelander has another family crisis to meet.

It falls to my lot today to announce, exclusively, that Leonard Kip Rhinelander's only sister, Mrs. Julien St. Charles Chaqueneau, the former Adelaide Kip Rhinelander, is making most important plans, plans that will end with her applying for a divorce. Her young husband bears a resemblance to the Prince of Wales that has frequently caused him to be the recipient of unusual attentions in Paris, where he and "Addie" have resided ever since the tidal wave of sensational publicity which followed Leonard's marriage to the New Rochelle maid.

Some six years ago, much against the wishes of her family, Adelaide Kip Rhinelander, then a belle of the smartest younger set, cast her optic across the Brooklyn Bridge and, to the accompaniment of numerous "oh's" and "ah's" announced she had decided to give all the social register "eligibles" that well-known "air" and would become the bride of a handsome, but socially unknown Brooklyn youth, John St. C. Shackno.

The "eligibles" were disconsolate and the Rhinelanders far from pleased.

Paris beckoned to the young couple and "Jack" made a business connection across the sea.

A short time later there was great amusement in town, up at Newport and down at Southampton, when the cables brought tidings that "Jack" had discovered, buried away in France, ancestors that vied with those of the Rhinelanders. He changed the spelling of his name from Shackno to the more French Chaqueneau, and it is under that cognomen "Addie," according to my information from abroad, will apply for her freedom.

Things have not been going so well, matrimonially, for the Shackno-Chaqueneaus for more than a year, and recently "Addie" came to this side of the Atlantic to discuss her affairs with her daddy. About a month ago she sailed back to Paris, accompanied by her brother, Philip Kip Rhinelander, and an attorney, rather expecting to have a difficult time with hubby. But from those who were in Paris at the time, I learn "Jack" was most agreeable and lived up to the gentlemanly standards of his recently discovered French progenitors. He wanted nothing from "Addie," and was especially scornful when the Rhinelander millions were mentioned.

So "Addie" is back in New York with her child, installed at her father's home in West Forty-eighth street and in the near future will depart for a certain Western divorce center.

MOVE RUTH TO NEW CELL

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

SING SING PRISON, OSSINING, N. Y., Jan. 9.—Ruth Snyder was placed under double guard today for fear she would attempt to commit suicide in an effort to cheat the electric chair in which she is to die Thursday night.

Matrons assigned to watch Mrs. Snyder were cautioned to keep her under the closest surveillance, and another guard was stationed to see that the matrons do not relax their vigilance for a moment.

These precautions were taken after the authorities had uncovered a smuggling plot by means of which Mrs. Snyder was able to send communications to the outside world.

CHANGE HER CELL

Mrs. Snyder's cell was changed as a precaution this morning. She was given new clothing and different furnishing and bed clothing were provided for her. The authorities were determined to put an end to her secret communication with her mother, Mrs. Josephine Brown, by putting notes in the matron's lavatory in the death house. Access to the lavatory has been refused to both Mrs. Snyder and Mrs. Brown.

A thorough search was made in the lining of the mattress in Mrs. Snyder's cot, as well as in the clothing she wore, for a weapon or contraband articles. Nothing was found.

An entirely new set of furnishings was put in the cell to which the condemned woman was transferred. She made no comment on the change.

Henry Judd Gray, accomplice of Mrs. Snyder, has arranged to make his will this afternoon. He is fully resigned to his fate. Unlike Mrs. Snyder, he has not the slightest hope that Gov. Alfred E. Smith or any one else will intervene.

TO REMEMBER WIFE

Gray, it is reported, will leave most of his property to his daughter, Jane. He will not entirely cut off his wife, Mrs. Isabel K. Gray, however, although she has visited him but once since he entered the death house.

Mrs. Snyder already has made her will. She left most of her belongings to her daughter, Lorraine.

Warden Lewis E. Lawes said this morning that Mrs. Snyder is bearing up well under the strain of the approaching execution. Her appetite is normal, although at times she has been highly nervous.

Gray maintains his stoical calm. His mother, Mrs. Margaret Gray, after visiting him, said:

"Judd has come to his right mind. He is again like the Judd that I know. My poor boy."

Mrs. Gray has repeatedly declared she has never been able to understand the Judd Gray who became infatuated with the blonde Mrs. Snyder, deceived his wife, forgot his daughter, his home and all his religious training and ended with murdering Albert Snyder, the home-loving husband, with a sash-weight.

Mrs. Snyder and Gray will not have to suffer the torture of seeing each other on the way to the execution chamber. Warden Lawes is determined upon that point. He is seeking a way to allow the woman to be the first to die, yet avoid their seeing each other.

The cell of Mrs. Snyder, in the women's section of "death row," is about 160 feet from the electric chair. It will take her about 30 or 40 seconds to traverse this distance—through two passages and four doors. Passing through the third door, Mrs. Snyder will walk past the six last-minute cells, where the men prisoners are taken just before they are electrocuted. In one of these cells will be Gray. Thus it would be inevitable that the former lovers would have a last tragic glimpse of each other.

Gray's electrocution may be delayed five or ten minutes to allow Mrs. Snyder to pass by empty cells in the men's row. And then, after she is dead, he could be taken to his last-minute cell.

Then, again, Warden Lawes may decide to have Gray die first. That was the plan as late as Saturday night, but no definite decision has yet been made.

Judd Begged Her to Take Blame for Murder—Ruth

Continuing her own "last story" written in the Sing Sing death house as she awaits electrocution Thursday night for the murder of her art editor husband, Ruth Brown Snyder makes the following revelations:

(Copyright, 1928, by New York Daily Mirror.)

That she had on several occasions before its murderous culmination attempted to break off her illicit romance with Judd Gray, her corset-salesman paramour.

That Judd, goaded, she says, by desire for money, steadfastly refused and flew into a violent rage at the suggestion.

That on the night of the murder, Judd Gray threatened to shoot her if she interfered with "his plans' to murder Snyder.

That Judd, after the murder, cringed before her and begged her to shoulder the blame in the event their "robbery" story fell through.

RIOT GUNS ARM VESTA COAL AND IRON POLICE

50-SHOT AUTOMATIC

Coal and Iron police serving eviction notices to striking miners living in houses at Daisytown owned by the Vesta Coal Company, carried a modern automatic rifle or riot gun, capable of firing 50 bullets at machine gun speed. Reports issued Saturday that Vesta police were armed with machine guns were denied.

FAMILIES FORCED INTO [illegible]

The families evicted at Daisytown, which is located near Charleroi, were forced to take living quarters in rough, unfinished barracks being built by the miners' union. The buildings are unfinished and wintry blasts and dampness sweep through cracks. Vesta police de[illegible]

20 ESCAPE BOMB BLAST OF CHURCH

LOCK HAVEN, Pa., Jan. 9.—(AP.)—The explosion of a dynamite cap at Hammersly's Forks, about 30 miles from here, at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, completely demolished the west wall of the Gospel Tabernacle while 20 women and children were attending Sunday school.

The explosion occurred when the janitor started to light the fire in the stove and was caused by dynamite evidently placed in the chimney flue. Bricks were thrown a distance of 200 feet, but no one was injured.

Jean, 7, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Willoughby, Grant street, Munhall, severely scalded both [illegible] today when she jumped into a t[illegible] where her mother was preparing the water for her bath. She is in Homestead hospital.

EXPLOSION WRECKS WASHINGTON STORE

WASHINGTON, Pa., Jan. 9.—An explosion believed to have been caused by gas resulted in a fire which destroyed the grocery store and residence of Antonia Provenzano, 621 North Main street, early today. The loss was estimated at $10,000. The store proprietor and his family are visiting in Ohio.

[illegible] HER STORE

Making change for a $10 bill, handed to her by one of two men purchasing cigarets in her confectionery store at 3622 Penn avenue at 10:30 o'clock this morning, Mrs. Josephine Kelly, 32, was set upon by the men, who beat her with their fists and escaped with $30. She gave police a good description of her assailants.

ALL QUIET AT VESTA MINE

CALIFORNIA, Pa., Jan. 9.—The nine families evicted from Vesta Coal Company houses at Daisytown Saturday afternoon have settled down to a more or less quiet existence in the partly finished union barracks, while 150 or more [illegible] households in the little [illegible] town are preparing to be [illegible]ed at almost any time.

[illegible]urday's evictions were the first [illegible] Vesta district and considera[illegible] [illegible]citement resulted among the [illegible] families when coal and iron [illegible] accompanied by a deputy [illegible] from Washington, Pa., began [illegible] notices to move. [illegible]ers at Daisytown had asked [illegible] a three-day stay in the execution of the eviction orders, according to officials of the United Mine Workers of America, because of the uncompleted barracks. This request was refused, they said, and they were compelled to move into a long wooden building hastily put together to give them immediate shelter. Additional barracks are being erected by the union, but they will not be completed before 15 days or more, it is said.

SEEK CAB DRIVER IN HOLDUP PLOT

Detectives hunted a taxicab driver today to find out why he took Mrs. H. J. Hunter of Detroit from Sixth avenue and Smithfield street to McKee Place where, last night in the darkness, a thug robbed her of a $2,800 mink coat, a $100 beaded bag and $60 in cash. Mrs. Hunter told police today that she entered the cab and directed the chauffeur to drive her to 245 Melwood avenue.

Mrs. Hunter and her 4-year-old son registered at a downtown hotel Saturday, stopping over here, she said, to visit Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Arnold, whom she met in Detroit and who told her they lived at the Melwood avenue address. Sunday evening she went for a walk about the city and at Sixth avenue and Smithfield street hailed a taxicab.

The driver stopped near 257 McKee place and, thinking it was the Melwood avenue address, she alighted and paid her fare. She started walking down the street when a man approached her from the rear, commanding her to be silent. He then took the coat from her and grabbed her purse.

PASSING AUTO SPITS LEADEN DEATH

As he drove out of a gasoline station at the corner of Frankstown avenue and Tokio street last night, Domenico Caputo, in inset, was killed by a volley of lead from a passing automobile. Another gang war victim, police said, as murderer's car sped away. The cross marks location of Caputo's car when he was killed.

LONDON FEARS NEW FLOOD

DANGER WILL CONTINUE 'TILL TUESDAY

LONDON, Jan. 9.—(AP.)—The surging waters of the angry Thames seriously menaced Westminster again yesterday at high tide, but the vigilance of an army of workmen averted serious damage.

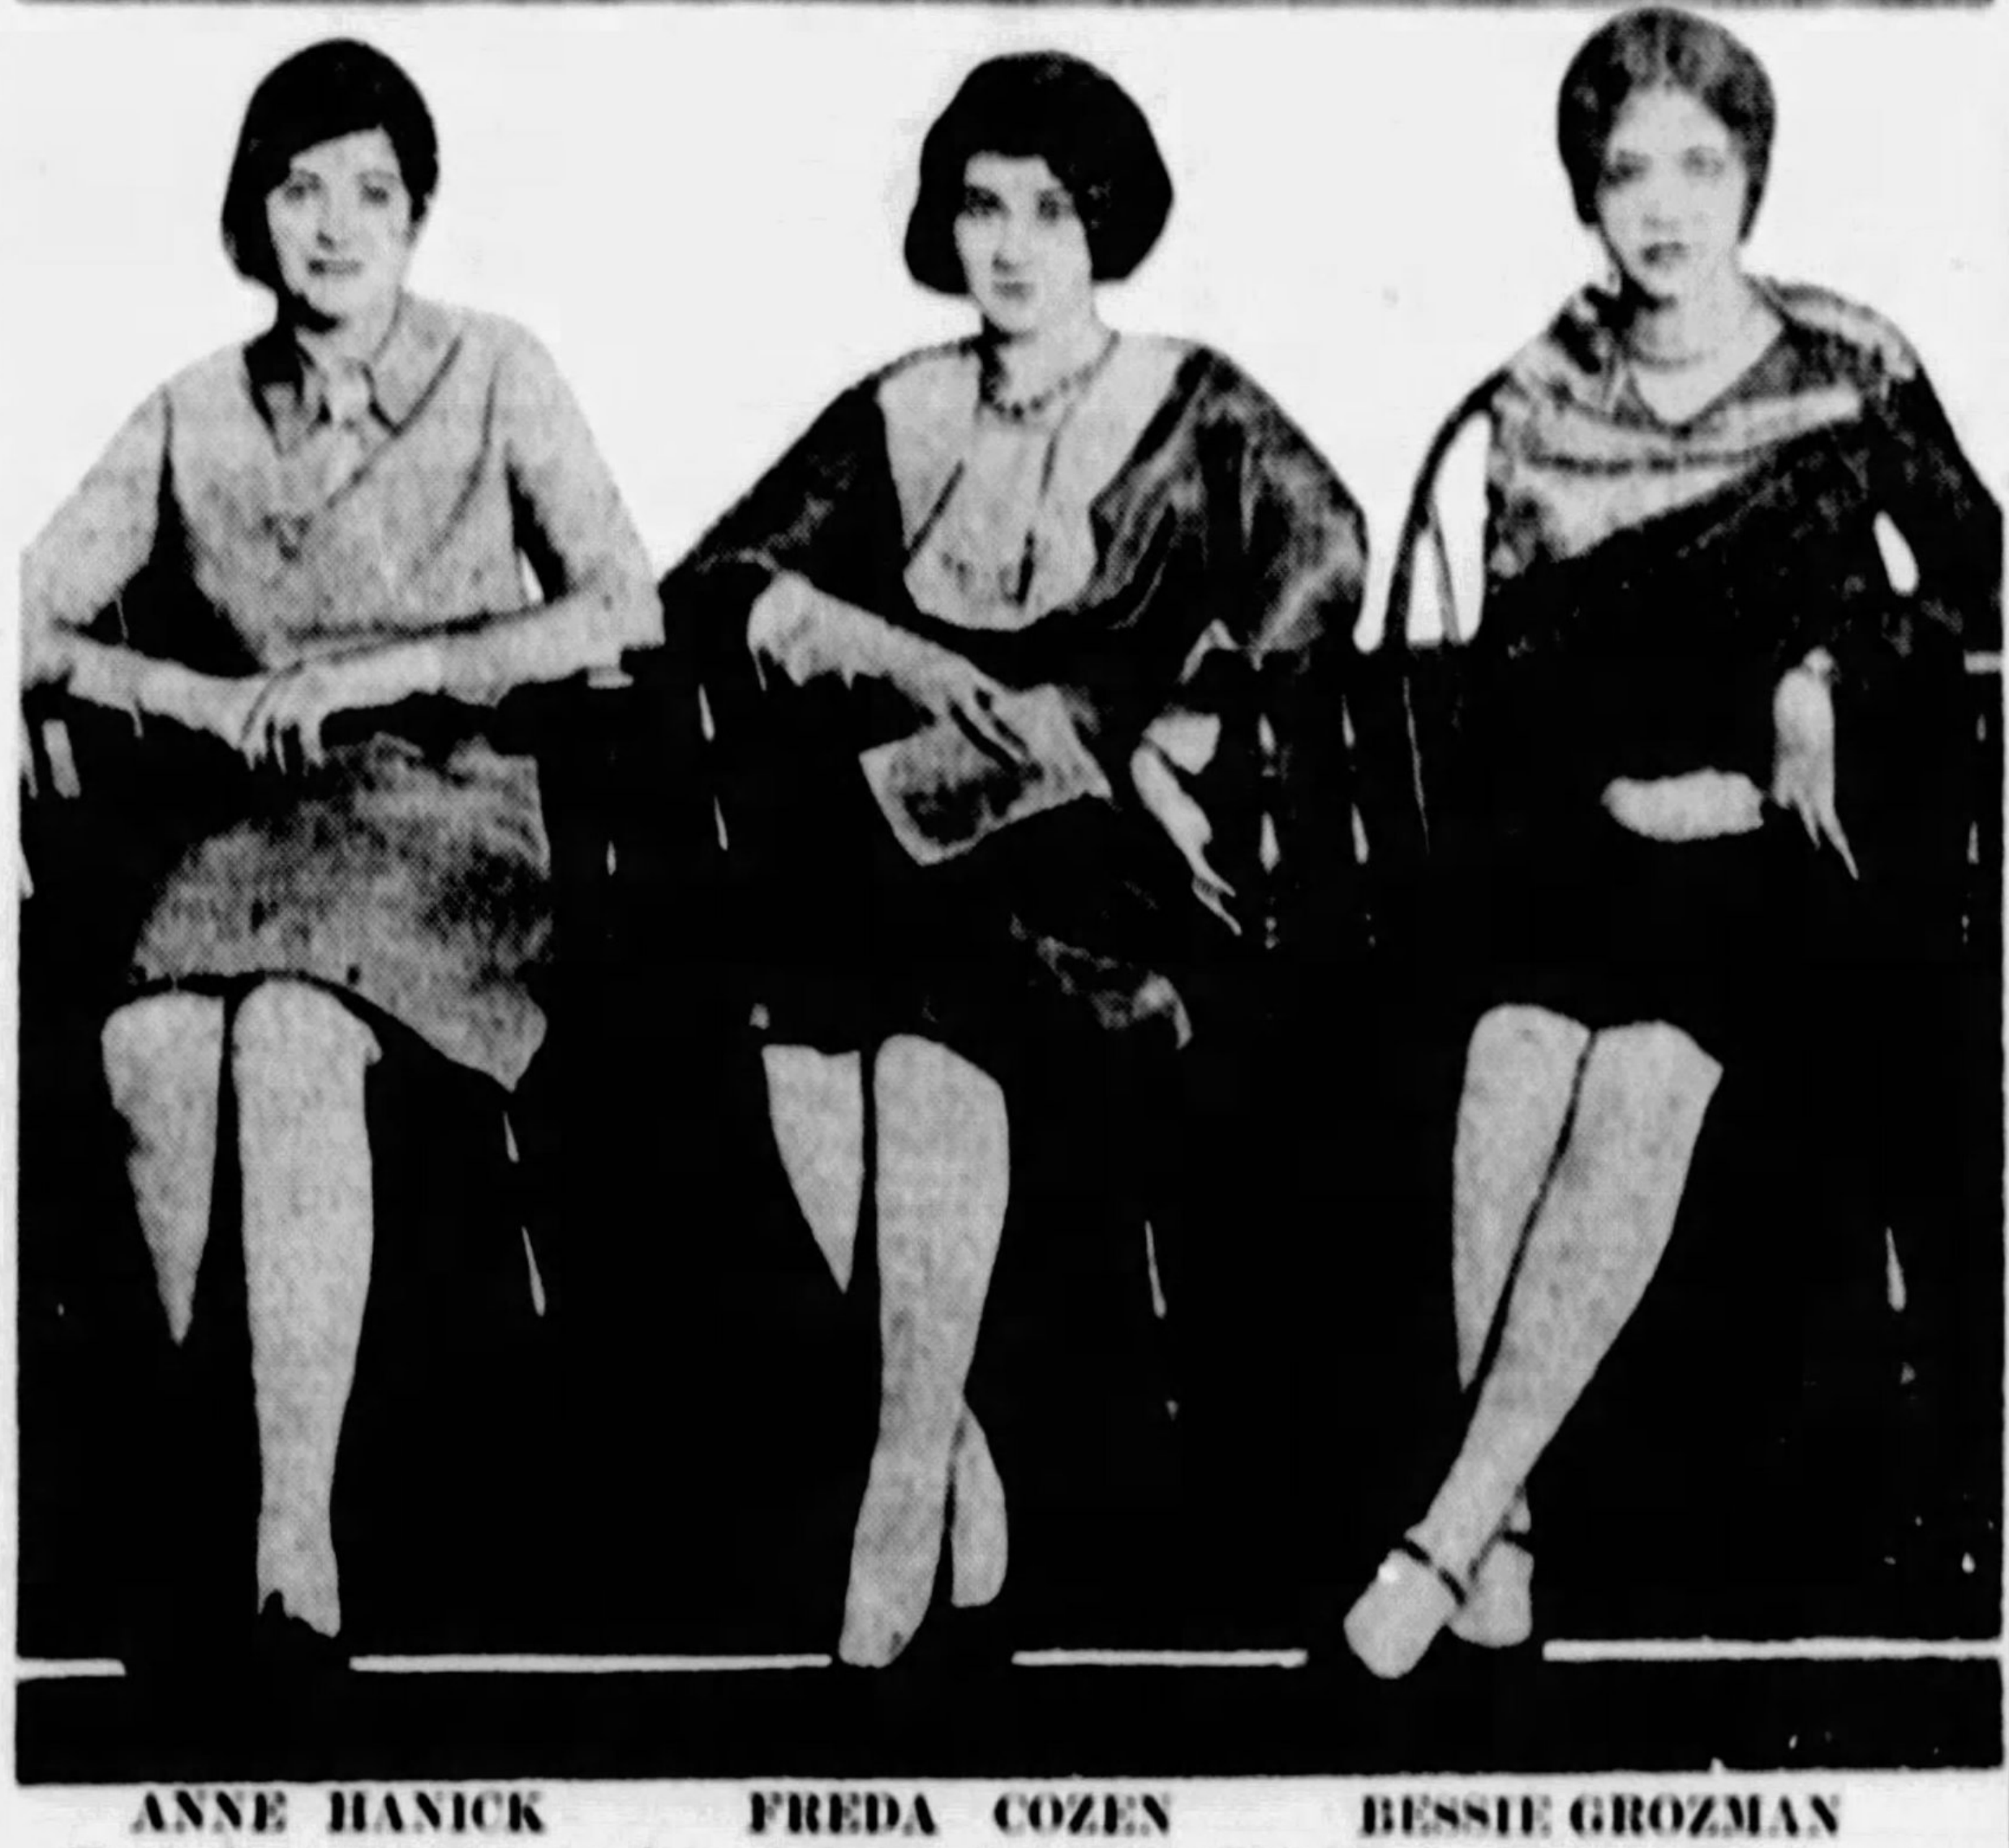
Sufficient water seeped through the sangbag barrier at the break in the river wall in front of the Tate Gallery to reach the curb, but prompt reinforcements prevented a repetition of Saturday's disaster, when art treasures to the value of millions of pounds sterling were ruined. The Tate Gallery is the national gallery of British art.

The Salvation Army Band, which played all the afternoon at a corner of the Tate Gallery to collect funds for the flood sufferers, conducted a thanksgiving service, when it was announced by officials that the danger for the day had been safely met. The army's large barracks nearby has been the relief center for flood victims since the first break in the river spread terror in the heart of London and caused the death of 14 persons.

The flooded area of Westminster was roped off to guard against disaster should the sandbag barrier fail to hold, but hundreds of thousands of people of all classes approached as near as possible. The Westminster and Vauxhall bridges were black with humanity watching the heroic efforts of the workmen to keep the Thames to its course. A slight and favorable wind materially aided in accomplishing this result.

The port of London authority has issued a warning that all tides will increase until Tuesday.

"IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE"



ANNE HANICK FREDA COZEN BESSIE GROZMAN

These three charming members of Ralph Schugar Club believe that advertising is a good investment. They're going to demonstrate it in Schenley High School auditorium Thursday night when they present the popular farce, "It Pays to Advertise," the first of several offerings planned for this season.

RAID CARLTON NIGHT CLUB

The Carlton Terrace, night club in Penn avenue and Tenth street, whose cabaret features were ordered suppressed because it "cheated" on police New Year's eve closing orders was raided late Saturday night. Its proprietors had chosen to run without the license which was revoked by Director of Public Safety James M. Clark, police testified in Central Police Court.

Three slot machines, three bottles of cordial and a half filled whisky flask were confiscated by Lieut. William Walsh who arrested two alleged proprietors.

John McPherson and Frank Huber, the proprietors, were arraigned in Central Police Court yesterday on charges of keeping a disorderly house. Huber was fine $100 and McPherson $25. Lieut. Walsh said the place has been under police supervision since its license was temporarily held up last week after the report of cheating had been made to Director Clark. The guests were not molested by the raiders, excepting to be ordered out.

Director Clark said he will lift the ban on the Flotilla Club, and managers of the resort say the cabaret program will be resumed Friday night.

49 PANHANDLERS ARE FINED $5 EACH

Forty-nine vagabonds arrested at Second avenue and Grant street Sunday for soliciting alms were fined $5 each with an alternative of five days in the workhouse by Magistrate George H. England in Central Police Court today. Stanley Smith, the fiftieth, was given four weeks after Lieut. John Calahan told of his objections to arrest.

PAIR IN AUTO ROB 2

Forced to the curb by two armed automobile bandits early yesterday morning, Frank Rapport, of 811 North Sheridan avenue, was robbed of $2,000, according to a report made to police. The robbery occurred in Hamilton avenue near Lang avenue. The highwaymen escaped in their automobile.

Robbers answering the same description a short time later attacked Harry Dokin, of 1712 Jancey street near his home and escaped with $60. He was walking in Jancey street when the machine pulled alongside of the curb and the men leaped to the pavement beside him.

Jewelry valued at between $2,000 and $3,000 was stolen Saturday night from the home of Mrs. M. Sussman, 743 North Negley avenue. The thieves also stole $125 in cash and clothing valued at $50.

FREE TWO WHO TRIED SUICIDE

Mildred Landman, 18, 710 Madison avenue, North Side, and Ina Cunningham, 17, no address, who, police say, attempted suicide December 31 by drinking iodine, were discharged from custody today by Magistrate A. D. Brandon in Morals Court.

The Landman girl, held for court on forgery charge, sought to escape it through death. She still faces the check charge. The Cunningham girl attempted to end her life rather than go to live with relatives in Iowa, according to police reports.

TRAFFIC NET ENMESHES 16

Motorists passing street cars on the left in Forbes street today passed right along to the Squirrel Hill Police Station, accompanied by one of a squad of motorcycle policemen under Lieut. William Burke. The officers, enforcing the new state law, arrested 16 violators within two hours at Forbes street and Woodlawn avenue. All were released on forfeits of $50 each for hearings in Traffic Court.

DANDRUFF A Sure Way to End It

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely, and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, silky, and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy never fails.

17 OF S-4 DEAD START LAST JOURNEY

By International News Service.

BOSTON, Jan. 9.—In flag-draped caskets and under military guard, bodies of 17 of the 40 dead recovered from the sunken submarine S-4 today were enroute to their homes or national cemetaries for burial or were for shipment from Chelsea Naval Hospital.

The body taking the longest journey was that of Mariano Tedar, mess attendant, second class. Crossing the continent to San Francisco, it will be carried by transport to the Philippine Islands to his sister Filimino.

With bared heads, hundreds of passengers stood in South Station last night as a guard of honor, consisting of 24 naval officers and men and a detail of police, escorted the bodies of Tedar and Charles Beresford Calcott, machinists' mate, third class, of Melrose Park, Ill., to the Buffalo express, and the bodies of Alfred Eugene Seaton, quartermaster, third class, of Norfolk, Va., and Charles A. Ford, civilian draftsman of the board of inspection and survey, to the Federal express for Washington.

These four bodies were among the 19 recovered on Saturday. The others, all identified by means of Naval fingerprint records and otherwise, follow:

Machinists' Mate John J. Fennell, Lowell, Mass.

Seaman Charles F. Burrell, Tamaqua, Fla.

Fireman J. H. Long, Gainesville, Tex.

Engineman Clarence F. Bethke, Wisconsin Rapids, Wis.

Machinists' Mate Peter Haaland, Ada, Minn.

Machinists' Mate Arthur F. Hodges, New London, Conn.

The other seven bodies recovered previously left here last week.

Divers operated off Provincetown all day Sunday, but recovered no more bodies, spending most of their time clearing the wreckage from the passageway to the control room.

Salvage officials said that divers may not be sent into the other compartments to recover bodies, but may give their attention to raising the hulk to the pontoons.

GIMBEL • CLEARANCE K&B STOCKS

So fast are K. & B. stocks moving out in this GIMBEL clearance that we often find certain interesting lots entirely closed out before we can advertise them. Every day we bring forward new lots to take the place of those disposed of the previous day. But the sale prices are so irresistible that each lot would necessarily be tremendous in quantity to hold out for many hours selling.

However, there are still huge stocks to clear in the brief time that we have left. For we are determined to dispose of Kaufmann & Baer stocks before February first, when nothing but new fresh goods of GIMBEL standard are to be on our shelves and counters.

While size, color and style assortments are not always complete, the values are so extraordinary that one is compensated. Every department participates in the sale. Many lines are being discontinued altogether. The opportunity is, indeed, really outstanding.

U. S. MINE ENGINEER FLEES MEXICAN BANDITS

CHURCH RISE RELATED IN ADDRESS

While no church in Pittsburgh was chartered until 1787, Presbyterianism had flourished here since 1758 and Roman Catholicism even earlier, Dr. Samuel B. McCormick said today in an address before the Chamber of Commerce "Old Meeting Houses and Penn's Grants to Them."

The address, twenty-first in a series of "Pittsburgh and the Pittsburgh Spirit," covered the religious history of the times, beginning with the "Message of Calvinism" delivered on Thanksgiving, 1758, by the Rev. Charles Beatty, Presbyterian chaplain of the Fort Duquesne regimental headquarters. From then on, Dr. McCormick said, church services were held at intermittent intervals, predominantly Presbyterian, until in 1787, when charters were granted to German Evangelical Protestant, Presbyterian, now the First Presbyterian Church, and the Protestant Episcopal. By 1808 there were "seven societies of Christians in Pittsburgh, Presbyterian, Episcopal, Covenanter, German Lutheran, Roman Catholic, Methodist Episcopal and Baptist."

The grant for the German Evangelical Protestant Church, as in the other two, carried a grant similar in phraseology from "John Penn, Jr., and John Penn, of Philadelphia, late proprietors of Pennsylvania." It granted "two and one-half lots" bounded by Smithfield street, Sixth avenue, Miltenberger and Strawberry way. The congregation, however, dates from 1782 when the Rev. Johann Wilhelm Weber visited the settlement of "60 wooden houses and huts and one stone house" in which there lived about 100 families.

GERMANS GET START

The Rev. Weber called the German people together for services in a lot at Wood and Diamond streets and not until 1791 was a church erected on the Penn grant.

The Presbyterian grant was in Sixth avenue, Wood street and Virgin avenue (now Oliver avenue). The first pastor was Rev. Samuel Barr, sent here with supplies by the Presbytery of Redstone. He remained until 1789 and from then until 1800 there were only occasional supplies. A log church, with squared timbers, was erected on this grant.

The Episcopal grant adjoined that of the Presbyterian congregation. The trustees named in the grant were John Gibson, former commander of Ft. Pitt; John Ormsby, whose descendants live here today; Devereux Smith and Dr. Nathaniel Bedford.

Dr. Bedford's headstone stands in Trinity churchyard today. He was the first physician in Pittsburgh.

The real beginning of the Catholic church in Pittsburgh was in 1808, according to Mr. McCormick, which now has 82 churches and an exceedingly large membership. The Methodist Episcopal dates from 1809 with services in the houses of adherents as early as 1785. The second congregation was organized in 1817.

The Lutherans date from 1836, the year they separated from the German Evangelical and now number 114 churches and 35,160 members. The Baptist date from 1812 and now has 26 churches and 8,319 members. The followers of Campbell(Christian church) have 26 congregations and 10,000 members. Altogether there are today in Pittsburgh 556 Christian churches and 26 Hebraic congregations, the latter with 45,000 members.

Urges Foaming Brew as Relief For Farmer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Beer with a kick was proposed today as one solution of the perplexing farm problem by Col. James C. Waddell, former supervisor of alcohol and brewery control in the prohibition bureau.

"Everybody wants to discover a panacea for the revival of agriculture," Waddell said.

"One way of getting it, although it may not be all that agriculture needs, is the restoration of the market for barley and hops.

"These crops were worth over $300,000,000 per year before prohibition. If they were returned, they probably would be worth $500,000,000 now.

"Legalization of 2¾ per cent beer—regarded as non-intoxicating and therefore no violation of the eighteenth amendment—would restore the barley and hops markets."

YOUTH IS SAVED BY POLICE

The arrival of police early Sunday probably saved George Zisnick, 18, of 2808 Jane street from serious injury at the hands of Nick Bonch, 40, of the same address, who, armed with a large knife, was fighting with young Zisnick in the rear of the Jane street house.

Zisnick had been cut on the left hand, police say. The two were arrested, as was Mrs. Mary Foell, 45, residing on the second floor of 2808 Jane street, and Jack Gordon, 26, who was in the place at the time. Yesterday in South Side Police Court, Gordon and the Foell woman were fined $100 each and Zisnick and Bonch were fined $10 each.

KILLS 4 GUARDS IN FIGHT FOR FREEDOM

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 9.—(AP.)—Becoming desperate when he overheard that he was to be killed Tuesday, Lyman F. Barber, American mining man attacked and killed four of his bandit guards Saturday night and escaped from the band of outlaws who have been holding him for ransom since December 17.

Using stones and bottles for weapons, Barber, whose home is in Los Angeles, overpowered the four men who were guarding him and fled from the bandit camp in the mountains in the State of Mexico, about a half day's journey from Cuernavara.

Barefooted and raggedly clothed, he made his way all Saturday night through the cold, wild mountain region and reached his Mexico City home last night in a state of physical and nervous exhaustion.

Barber, who was held for $15,000 ransom, had traveled with his captors for more than three weeks and apparently had not been mistreated, although suffering many hardships because of the constant traveling of the outlaws seeking to escape pursuing federal troops. Saturday night, however, he overheard the bandit chieftain say that he would be killed Tuesday unless the ransom was paid by that time. He then resolved upon his desperate attempt for freedom.

Mrs. Barber, who before her marriage, was Miss Esther Shepherd, of Whittier, Cal., informed the United States Embassy this morning of her husband's escape.

The American Embassy immediately notified the Mexican government. President Calles and Secretary of War Amaro at once sent a request to Mrs. Barber not to make any statement for the present lest she interfere with the government's plans to pursue and capture the bandits.

At the Barber residence, Mrs. Barber told correspondents that her husband was in bed and was unable to see anyone because of his physical condition. She herself would not talk because of the request of the Mexican government.

SLAYER OF MOTHER TO FACE GRAND JURY

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., Jan. 9.—The slaying last month of Mrs. Nick Dyken, 35, by her son, Andy, 15, will come before the Belmont county grand jury Thursday. The boy's father, brother and a farm hand have been summoned to testify. The youth said he mistook his mother for his father against whom he bore a grudge for alleged mistreatment.

NOT SO BAD AFTER HIS BULLETS FAIL

By Universal Service.

CHICAGO, Jan. 9.—A "Wild West" bad man was softened up considerably by four victims he had lined up against the wall of a restaurant yesterday. When they got through with him, he was fit for a hospital.

"I'm a hard, shooting hoodlum," Frank Lauder said, after holding up the four men in the restaurant. "I'm tough and a dead shot."

With their money in his pocket, he proceeded to demonstrate his marksmanship. He plugged a dishpan, a coffee pot and splintered three dishes. After that his bullets were gone.

When his victims heard the hammer fall upon an empty shell, they pounced upon the "Hard Hoodlum." Lauder was a sorry sight as he was turned over to authorities.

TRAINS STOP TO HONOR HUGHITT, RAIL HEAD

CHICAGO, Jan. 9.—(AP.)—Every train on the Chicago and Northwestern Railway system will pause for one minute during the funeral services of its former president, Marvin Hughitt at 11:30 a. m. today. Services will be conducted at the Lake Forest Presbyterian Church. Mr. Hughitt died last Friday morning.

ONE-MAN CLUB HELD UP

Shots were fired through the door of a "one-man club" in an unnamed alley between Federal and East Diamond streets early yesterday by two "members" who held up the place after ordering drinks.

A small amount of cash was obtained by the robbers, who lined up the bartender and customers against a wall. The shots were fired from the outside to cow the victims.

Gust Neibauer, 26, and George Broaderst, 29, both of 14 East General Robinson street, arrested as suspects, were identified by victims, police say, although both deny the charges.

REMUS CALLED MODEL INMATE

LIMA, O., Jan. 9.—(AP.)—A model inmate, proving popular with other members in his ward, quiet and congenial and apparently resigned to his fate, is the way W. H. Vorbau, superintendent of Lima State Hospital for the Insane, today described George Remus, acquitted by a Cincinnati jury of slaying his wife, Imogene, and committed to the hospital here.

Superintendent Vorbeau has denied all visitors to see Remus except his attorneys, stating Remus is under a severe mental strain and must have privacy.

Remus spent his first Sunday in the institution in reading newspapers, showing particular interest in his own case, Dr. Vogbau said. He also joined the choir and sat through the sermon facing the other seats in the chapel, apparently intensely interested in the services, asking whispered questions of the man on his right and joining lustily in the singing of hymns.

OIL TRIAL DELAYED BY FALL'S ILLNESS

New Lightweight Wool Dresses

Are Being Worn Under Fur Coats

Not because they are warm, my no! But because woolens, in their new, feather-weight, transparent loveliness, are the rivals of silks; and are to continue so, far beyond the fur coat season.

Some of the most effective models are dresses and compose effects in the women's Tailor-Type section. Of sheer composette in soft-toned stripes and checks; of cobwebby wool georgette, plain or metal-embroidered; and of featherweight tweeds. Gray, grayed blues and greens, to wear with gray or black fur coats; tan and brown tones to go with furs in those shades.

• • • •

Tailor-Type dresses of tailleur silks include smart, new, sophisticated models of crepe jolie, in spiral tier and tunic effects; severe types of dunwoodie crepe; and dresses of sheer georgette crepe, tailor-bound with satin. All these, at $39.50.

BOOTLEG HEAD SENT TO ATLANTA

NEW YEAR'S RESOLUTIONS -:- OF CAR RIDERS -:- FAIL TO TAKE HOLD

VALUABLE ARTICLES JAM SAFE

New Year's resolutions to lose no more bundles on street cars have failed dismally, it is shown by records of the "lost and found" department of the Pittsburgh Railways Company. Cash, jewelry, watches, radio tubes, bond coupons and other valuable articles have been recovered in trolley cars since New Year's Day.

ONE DAY'S TREASURE TROVE

It is hard to believe that all of these articles and many more were left behind by the passengers riding on one line of East End cars in a single day. Umbrellas, tool chests, musical instruments, goloshes, overcoats, baskets of food and other bulky packages found on the line of cars are kept at the car barns. All are advertised daily in the Sun-Telegraph classified columns.

VALUABLES RETURNED PROMPTLY

Claimants of lost articles file into the Philadelphia Company building all day long to recover their property left in street cars. Upon giving proof of identification and a description of the articles restoration is made immediately and without charge. After three months unclaimed articles are donated to the Salvation Army and other institutions. Miss Dolores Graser, seated at the desk, is the "angel of the lost and found."

RING MEMBERS GIVEN HEAVY SENTENCES

Charles Friedman of Versailles was singled out today by Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker as the leader of a huge bootleg whisky ring that operated in McKeesport and vicinity, when he sentenced him to serve two years in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta, Ga., a much longer term than imposed on any of the other 19 defendants who appeared before him for sentence. Six paroled pleaded guilty at the trial in November and testified in behalf of the government, giving damaging testimony against Friedman and other leaders in a conspiracy to violate the national prohibition law.

Harry Markowitz, Harry Moskowitz, David Klein, alias "Big Dave," and Morris Shamowitz were each sentenced one year and a day in the Atlanta penitentiary; Louis Klein was sentenced six months in jail; Jake Guttman, three months; Andy Leahocky, two months, and John Pyechor, Sr., two months. Frank Stephanik, Sam Pirona and Glenn J. Barrows were fined $500 each, and the following paroles were imposed: Harry Campbell, five years; John Pyechor, Jr., three years, and Paul Kovac, Mike Benik, Henry Lebowitz, Lottie Moffard, Frank Moffard and Joseph Potocsnak, three years each.

Of the 29 persons indicted, only one, Mrs. Emma Greenwalt, escaped conviction.

GRAND JURY GETS VELMA'S CASE

By Universal Service

PAINESVILLE, O., Jan. 9.—The Lake County grand jury will hear testimony today in the case of Velma West, hammer slayer of her husband, T. Edward West, in their bungalow at Perry, five miles from here.

Mrs. West has been held for a month on a charge of murder in the first degree. Her attorney, Francis Poulson of Cleveland, said he expects the grand jury inquiry to result in her indictment for first degree murder. He said she probably would go to trial February 10.

A double defense is contemplated. One phase will center around the girl's story she struck to protect herself after her husky husband had slapped her, following a dispute over his refusal to accompany her to a dance and card party in Cleveland.

In the second phase, the defense will try to establish insanity resulting from mishaps and ailments beginning when Mrs. West was less than a year old.

Mrs. West, who thought at her first arraignment that she was to be executed immediately and collapsed in court in terror, has become resigned to her situation and is described as sleeping and eating well and reading magazines.

OLDEST TWIN VETS

JOHN W. AND THOMAS R. BOOKHAMER

John W. Bookhamer, of Tyrone, and his twin brother, Thomas R., of Roaring Spring, Blair county, believed the oldest surviving twin veterans of the Civil War, recently celebrated their joint 85th birthday anniversary at the latter's home. They were born at Lemm's Furnace, King's Forge, Bedford county, sons of Jacob and Christine Bookhamer, each of whom, oddly enough, was a twin child. Thomas ran off to enlist with the Union forces.

SCOTT PLANS CLEANUP

Alderman William Scott, of the Tenth ward, who received his commission Friday and conducted 11 raids Saturday on Butler street stores in which he charges gambling machines were operated, has issued a circular letter to the voters announcing his intention to clean up the ward. He arraigns Loke Sullivan, member of the Legislature, and Police Inspector Joseph Elsner as responsible for the alleged prevalence of vice in the ward.

MORGANTOWN VOTERS BAN DAYLIGHT SAVING

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Jan. 9.—Daylight saving has been put on the shelf by Morgantown. A proposal to establish the system next summer was defeated by a vote of 1,684 to 849.

Chubby Co-eds Found Most Studious

TUCSON, Ariz., Jan. 9.—(AP.)—Chubby built co-eds are the most studious, Miss Ina Gittings, director of physical education at the University of Arizona, declared today. Reporting on the physical and mental welfare of freshmen girls, Miss Gittings said the slender co-ed is more popular socially, and therefore more frequently distracted from studious pursuits.

TEST GASES IN ARMSTRONG TUBES

Carrying vacuum tubes, experts of the United States Bureau of Mines climbed to the ceiling of the Armstrong twin tunnels this afternoon to test the presence of noxious gases on a dank, oppressive day.

L. B. Berger, of the gas laboratory of the mines bureau, had charge of the group. The principal object is to determine whether exhaust gases, including carbon monoxide, are present in dangerous quantities under unfavorable ventilating conditions.

Traffic in the tubes, three-quarters of a mile long, is increasing, and the County Commissioners ordered the test as a precautionary measure.

TROOPER'S CAR STRIPPED, NAB 2 SPRINGDALE BOYS

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., Jan. 9.—When two Springdale boys stripped an automobile of accessories yesterday, police say, they did not know the machine belonged to Sergt. Annich of the state police.

MURDER IS LAID TO SHOT IN HEEL

In a pool of blood with two bullet holes in his head and with his mandolin clutched in his hand, the body of Raymond Carbonia, 31, of 31 Fleming avenue, Stowe township, was found yesterday morning in Park way, Stowe township.

In the county jail, charged with the murder, is the dead man's cousin, Mario Mules, 25, of the same address. According to county detectives Mules confessed to the shooting. Frank Padda, the victim's half brother, also is under arrest as a material witness.

That the shooting is the final ending of a grudge between the dead man and his cousin is the theory of county detectives and Stowe township police. A month ago, detectives learned, Carbonia and Mules were attending a dance, and, when Mules refused to dance, Carbonia is alleged to have drawn a gun and fired several shots at his cousin's feet, one of which lodged in Mules' heel.

Saturday night, according to the story told detectives by Padda, the incident became the subject of argument when the three were drinking wine in the Fleming avenue house.

Padda said the two men left the house about 1 o'clock. Shots were heard about that time by persons on Park way who notified police.

Failing to find Mules at home, police and County Detectives Michael Ford and John Carmichael went to a boarding house of Tony Papli, 21 Fleming avenue, where Mules was found in bed. He told police that he had been in bed since 9 o'clock, and denied implication in the murder. His heel was swathed in bandages, and when questioned by detectives, he said he had accidently shot himself there some time ago.

His story was confirmed by Papli. Having heard the other version of the story from Padda, Papli was then arrested as a material witness.

Carbonia's body is at the morgue.

PAW PAW'S CLEANUP MAYOR IS RE-ELECTED

PAW PAW, W. Va., Jan. 9.—Paw Paw's "Clean-up" Mayor, George S. Filler, was re-elected, receiving 189 votes to 100 split among two opponents.

PITTSBURGH WIFE SUES STINSON

MR. and MRS. EDDIE STINSON

FAMOUS FLIER'S WIFE SEEKS DIVORCE

Mrs. Bella Judy Stinson, former Pittsburgh girl and wife of "Eddie" Stinson, noted aviator and airplane designer, has filed suit in Detroit asking for divorce. Judge A. F. Marschner issued an injunction forbidding Stinson from disposing of any of his assets in the Stinson Aircraft Corporation, of which he is president, or of any of his real property or bank deposits. "Our whole married life has been one series of misunderstandings," Mrs. Stinson said today.

Lupe Velez, Mexican Actress, Moves Her Schoolbooks Over To Studio of United Artists

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS,

Motion Picture Editor of Universal Service

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 9.

LUPE VELEZ, the little Mexican spitfire, is moving her schoolbooks over to the United Artists lot. The youthful leading lady of "The Gaucho" was slightly hampered when working on that picture by the necessity of attending school in her spare moments. She liked her textbooks so well that just the other day she paid Frank Woodyard a tidy sum for the privilege of remaining a minor. But enough of that.

United Artists apparently has faith in the rumor that Miss Velez is an embryo Del Rio, for they have put the young lady under contract. Her first picture will probably be "The Battle of the Sexes," with David Wark Griffith directing.

Lupe Velez suffered, I think, from over-heralding in "The Gaucho," and her work, as is so often the case, did not measure up to predictions. It will be interesting to see what Griffith and United Artists will do with her.

Alice Joyce waved a cheery goodby to Lady Liberty Saturday. By that I do not mean matrimony, but an ocean voyage with London as a goal. While Miss Joyce was vacationing at Palm Beach, she received an invitation by wire from the Westminster Film Company to star in "The Rising Generation," a well-known London stage play. Needless to say, she accepted with pleasure and plans to arrive in London January 14, in time to start work on the 16. Harley Knoles, one of the best known of British directors, will handle the megaphone. The story deals with a father and mother who neglect their children—with the usual effect on the children. Miss Joyce plays the irresponsible mama.

From now on there will be no need to confuse Ken Maynard, First National star, with his younger brother, Kermit Maynard. Kermit, who has just finished a series of western pictures for Rayart, has changed his name. Hereafter he will be known as Ted Austin. His sponsors prophesy a great future for him and I suppose in living up to these expectations he wants to feel he is reaching his goal on his own and not by any influence his famous brother's name might have. The independence of some of these youngsters is amazing.

When the Jack Warners and the Darryl Zanucks left for a business-pleasure trip abroad and closed down the Warner Studio until March, they also went into the "farming" business on the side. Leila Hyams, one of their leading contract players, was loaned to the Fox Studio for a picture. Having completed it, she was promptly re-signed for another and will assist Estelle Taylor and George O'Brien in Al Green's production, "Honor Bound." This is the melodramatic story of convicts and mines, for which Mr. Green gathered atmosphere during his recent survey of mining conditions in Alabama and Tennessee. Leila Hyams won her first screen recognition in "Summer Bachelors," which starred Madge Bellamy. Following this, Warners put her under contract.

Dorothy Farnum, well-known scenario writer, who with her husband, Maurice Barber, is sojourning in Europe, writes from Italy to say that they are enjoying their visit immensely. Says she: "We've taken a villa in the mountains above Florence for our headquarters—all furnished in antiques, with a chef, an elaborate retinue of servants—and costing next to nothing. Everything the heart desires is here but friends to share it!" Well, I suppose we can't have everything.

A man's worth is usually gauged by past performances. That's why we look with some interest toward James T. O'Donahue's "Cream of the Earth." You see, he wrote the continuity for "What Price Glory" and "Two Arabian Knights," neither of which need any comment in this column. They speak for themselves. "Cream of the Earth" is an original story by Mr. O'Donahue and was written with Marian Nixon in mind. She is considered a valuable asset by Universal.

A man of Edmund Goulding's talents would naturally, once in a while, feel a yearning toward his first love—writing for the stage. He has been with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer for two years, during which time he has written scenarios and directed. Now he is leaving M-G-M to spend his time writing. He may, in the interim, direct for some producer, providing he has a story that appeals to his sense of drama. Eddie wishes it known that he and Irving Thalberg have parted the best of friends and there was no trouble whatsoever when he decided to pack up his typewriter and leave the lot. He is the director responsible for "Love," the latest Jack Gilbert-Greta Garbo picture. I still write the word "Love" with some hesitancy since I think "Anna Karenina" is a far better title.

Now that Harold Lloyd has finished filming the "gag" sequences in "Speedy," he feels that it is time to give the story itself a little attention. It's always a good idea, I suppose, to get the most important part of anything out of the way first before the enthusiasm has a chance to lag—and, after all, it's the "gags" that make or break a comedy. Probably, Harold realized this himself when he took those shots first. I am told there is another month of shooting on "Speedy," but since an Easter release is planned there should be plenty of time left for cutting the picture and all that. Bert Woodruff, as Harold's grandfather, and Brookes Benedict as the heavy, are the latest additions to Mr. Lloyd's supporting cast.

COMEDY, SATIRE ON STAGE

Opening in the Pitt tonight, Holbrook Blinn and his company are to appear in "The Play's the Thing," comedy adaptation by P. G. Wodehouse from the Hungarian of Ferenc Molnar. Supporting Mr. Blinn are Martha Lorber, Hubert Druce, Gavin Muir, Ralph Nairn and others. The usual Thursday and Saturday matinees will be given.

Francine Larrimore will be seen tonight in the satirical comedy, "Chicago," in the Alvin. "Chicago" is announced as a laughing travesty on the growing tendency of American juries to allow a pretty woman, coached like an actress in a part, by a smart lawyer, "to get away with murder."

With matinee and evening showings, "King of Kings" begins its second week in the Nixon today. H. B. Warner appears in the central role and many other popular film players, as well as thousands of "extras," are seen in the picture.

Frank McIntyre, Lynn Overman, Jeannette McDonald, Billy B. Van, Carl Randall, in the new musical comedy, "One Sunny Day," with Rosalie Claire, Audrey Maple and a company of 100, come to the Nixon theater for one week's engagement Monday night, January 16. "One Sunny Day" will go direct from Pittsburgh to New York.

Thurston, famous magician, will play his annual engagement here in the Pitt, opening Monday evening, January 16, with the usual Thursday and Saturday matinees. He announces he has many new mysteries with him which he will perform here.

"Gay Paree" comes to the Alvin, Monday, January 16. Charles "Chic" Sale remains at the head of a cast which includes Rita Gould, Douglas Leavitt, Frank Gaby, Alice Boulden, Lorraine Weimer, Jennie Beach, Irene Cornell, Ruth Lockwood, Esther Sterling, Ben Holmes, Kelo Brothers, Eric Titus, Paul Davis and William Montgomery.

Griffith Believes His New Film Is Best

With a flow of enthusiasm not equalled since he made "Broken Blossoms," D. W. Griffith announces that he has put the final finishing touches to what he considers the best photoplay of his more than 20 years of active pioneering in motion pictures.

Tentatively titled "The Drums of Love," the picture is said to be so far advanced in the realms of sheer beauty and dramatic strength that no comparison can be made with any modern screen production.

It is seldom that Griffith grows enthused. Twenty years of bitter struggling in bringing an infant industry to the plane of an art—more reaching and universal even than the graphic arts—has tempered whatever of self laudation he might have possessed.

JOHNNY JONES DANCES TO BEGIN FOURTH YEAR

The "Old Tyme" dances, conducted by Johnny Jones for the last three years, are to be resumed tonight in Barth's Crystal Gardens, 818 Liberty avenue. Joseph Kaine and his orchestra have been re-engaged to furnish music for the dancers.

She's No Magician

JACQUELIN GADSEN is not doing a sleight-of-hand trick. The baggy sleeves of her new coat are purses for coin, hanky, lipstick and such like feminine personal furniture. Jacquelin is a popular Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer player.

GIVE MILLION TO FIGHT DISEASE

By Universal Service.

CHICAGO, Jan. 9.—To help the fight of the human race against the inroads of disease, especially degenerative diseases incurred when past 50, A. D. Lasker, head of Lord, Thomas & Logan, and many big industrial enterprises, and Mrs. Lasker, have given $1,000,000 for endowment, to the University of Chicago, it was announced yesterday.

The endowment will be known as the "Lasker Foundation for Medical Research." It will be operated in conjunction with the medical department of the university.

It will specialize in determining the causes of death from cardio-vascular ailment, cancer, and Bright's disease.

These are the three diseases which took 1,285,927 lives in 1926, in the United States alone.

BIG GLASSWARE ORDERS COME TO CITY

Orders for tableware products aggregating more than $40,000,000 will be given to manufacturers in the Pittsburgh district by buyers from all parts of North America who are attending the forty-eighth annual exhibit of the Associated Glass and Pottery Manufacturers which opened today in the Fort Pitt Hotel. The styles in glassware have been revolutionized in the last two years and it is declared by the manufacturers and jobbers that there are prospects for an exceptionally large output of the newer designs.

Cut glass, the dealers declare, is regarded as gone with the long skirt and the mustache cup. Housewives now want decorated glass or something in colors, preferably amber or green. In clear glass, rock crystal has the call. Individual decorations of fancy monograms, the twining of a favorite flower or the embellishment of a family crest or coat of arms, place some of the new styles in the class of expensive luxuries.

Sixty-five exhibitors have their stock on view, more than 100 suites in the hotel being given over to the display of the new ideas in tableware and pottery.

OAKMONT DRUG STORE IS ROBBED OF $60

Thieves stole $60 and a suitcase from the drug store of W. L. Calhoun, 642 Allegheny avenue, Oakmont, last night. A rear window was forced open to gain entrance.

The Death Roll

Mrs. Elizabeth D. Fry.

Mrs. Elizabeth D. Fry, 65, formerly of Pittsburgh, died yesterday in her home in Philadelphia. She was the widow of Charles Fry, who died last week at his home. Mrs. Fry was born in Pittsburgh, a daughter of the late William and Sarah Davis, of Bellefield avenue, and was for more than 20 years a teacher in the Bellefield School. She was formerly a member of the old Fourth Avenue Baptist Church, now the First Baptist Church. She leaves two sisters.

Mrs. Elizabeth Dean.

Mrs. Elizabeth Leavis Dean, 94, died yesterday in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Robert Steele, 918 Adelaide street. She was born in Ireland and was a member of the Schenley Heights Methodist Episcopal Church. She leaves five daughters, three sons, 12 grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

William Lavine.

William Lavine, 51, owner of an Oakland variety shop, formerly in the cigar business in Steubenville, O., died last night in the home of his mother-in-law, Mrs. M. Soupcoff, 5732 Hobart street, Squirrel Hill. Mr. Lavine was born in Steubenville. He came to Pittsburgh three years ago. He leaves his wife, Eva Soupcoff Lavine.

Thomas D. McGowan.

Thomas D. McGowan, 51, died yesterday in his home, 1035 Welfer street. He was born in Jersey City, N. J., and had been a resident of Pittsburgh 50 years. He was a member of Orient Lodge F. & A. M. He leaves his widow, one son, three daughters and three sisters.

ROBBERS SHOOT AS MAN RUNS

Running from two armed Negroes who stopped him in Joncaire street early today, Domonick Tazhilles, of Joncaire street narrowly escaped injury or death when the highwaymen fired several shots at him. Neighbors aroused by the shooting called police at the Oakland station, but no arrests were made.

Tazhilles told police the Negroes stopped him and demanded his money. Ignoring their threats and the revolvers they pointed at him, he ran.

SUGGESTS NEIGHBORS SETTLE OWN QUARREL

On the ground he lacked jurisdiction, Judge Richard W. Martin of Common Pleas Court today refused the application of Anthony S., and Paulina Kowronski for an injunction to restrain their next door neighbors, Marian and Martenna Lewalski, 488 Sterling street, from throwing rubbish on the Kowronski property and to compel them to remove a spite fence. A story of quarreling between the two families over a long period of years was related. Judge Martin urged attorneys to bring the neighbors together in an effort to adjust their differences.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Society Folk Here Lcok Up Train Schedules as Season's Activities Draw to a Close

IT'S perfectly natural for society folk to be interested in family affairs and gatherings of intimate friends during the holidays and to be interested in the "coming out" parties and entertainments given by their own set the early part of the season. After being engrossed thrughout the fall and the Yultide in the Pittsburgh season, now ending, they are now, as usual, beginning to be attracted by the social life of their friends in the South, in the East, everywhere. For Pittsburgh society folk have wide acquaintance with the social sets of all the leading cities.

Now with the exception of a few, but very important January and February weddings here, Pittsburgh society folk are beginning to assume their social obligations outside the city.

One of these weddings will take place this week, on Saturday, in fact, that of Dorothea Chess, daughter of Mrs. Walter Chess of Bennington avenue, and Robert Markham Marshall. There will be a number of entertainments this week for Dorothea. Tomorrow there will be a luncheon, which Mrs. Phillip S. Chess will give in her home, "Rose Hill," Beechwood boulevard. And Thursday Dorothea will be honor guest at a dinner the Oliver Ledlie Smiths will give in their home on St. James street. Of course there will be a reharsal and a dinner even though the wedding is to be small. Mrs. Chess will give the rehearsal dinner in her Bennington avenue home Friday evening.

Simon Patterson, by the way, is to be Mr. Marshall's attendant at the wedding, and little Cynthia Stowe Heffron, daughter of the John M. Heffrons of Greenwich, Conn., will be her aunt's only attendant, you recall.

Quite a number of Pittsburgh's younger set have been asked to be attendants at many out of town weddings. Martha Brooks, daughter of the Frank F. Brooks of Sewickley Valley, is leaving next week for New York. On January 19 she will be one of the bridesmaids at the wedding of her school chum, Cornelia Neilson Simmons, daughter of E. Henry H. Simmons and the late Mrs. Simmons of New York, and Theodore Cole Romaine, son of Mrs. Louis T. Romaine and the late Mr. Romaine, both of New York. The wedding will take place in St. Bartholomew's Church, New York, and a reception at Sherry's will follow.

The bride-to-be is well known in Pittsburgh society circles, for she has often been the guest of Martha Brooks and her parents.

WILL ADDRESS CLUB

Miss Mary B. Gilson will address the Friday Morning Club in Carnegie Music Hall this week.

MISS MARY B. GILSON

Thomas B. Evans II was one of the ushers at the wedding of Martica Gookin Sturges, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Baker Sturges of New York and Sasco Point, Southport, and Herman David Ruhm, Jr., of New York, which was an event of January 7. Mr. Evans and the bridegroom were school friends at Yale.

A number of Pittsburgh's society set are being attracted to New York, where the social season, always longer than that in Pittsburgh, is still "going strong." One of the most colorful events this year of New York's season, to be attended by society folk from all over the States, is the gala ice carnival, "A Night in St. Mortiz." It will be staged at Madison Square Garden, New York, Wednesday night for the benefit of the New York Music Week Association.

Eben M. Byers of Ridge avenue, North Side, where a good many of Pittsburgh's oldest families still live, will entertain a party at the carnival. A number of his guests, I hear, will be from Pittsburgh. Mr. Byers is already in New York.

* * *

The James W. Henrys of Bigelow boulevard are among those Pittsburghers who prefer the Mediterranean to Florida. They will sail January 28 on the Roma for Italy. They expect to spend some time on their way at Madeira, Gibraltar and Algiers. After a sojourn in Italy they will spend two weeks in Austria before sailing home from France in Mach.

Florence Carroll, one of the most charming buds of this season, daughter of the Walter Cockrill Carrolls of College avenue, and Elise Whittemore of St. Louis were honor guests at a bridge Mrs. Samuel McClay and her daughters, Cora and Ellen, gave Thursday afternoon in their home off Devon road. Elise is the house guest of the McClays. Besides the honored ones, the guests included the debutantes of this and of last year.

The luncheon and theater party which Mrs. William T. McCullough of Bennington avenue will give for two buds of this year, Mary McClung and Anne Marshall, has been postponed from January 11 to January 12. This entertainment is, I believe, the "swan song" for the debutantes, who were much feted through November and December.

* * *

Mrs. John M. Taylor, of the Fifth Avenue apartments, has announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Louise Agnes Taylor, and George H. Webb, of this city, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Webb, of Bartlett, N. H. The wedding will take place in June. Mr. Webb is a graduate of the University of Maine.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. James Brown, of Irvine avenue, Swissvale, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Rose Angela Brown, and Frederick Stephen Opperman, of Connellsville, which was solemnized last Thursday morning in St. Anselm' Catholic Church, Swissvale.

* * *

Girls who have returned to the Washington Seminary after the holidays include Miss Betty Dunn, Miss Margaret Baker, Miss Majorie Jackson, Miss Margaret Snyder, and Miss Hannah Grace Johnston, of Pittsburgh, and Miss Mary Gilbert, of Sewickley.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Scott, of Elgin avenue, announce the engagement of Mr. Scott's sister, Miss Lou Scott, to Barton Stevenson, of Pittsburgh.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Clara E. Dreier, daughter of Mrs. Mary A. Dreier, of Bellevue, and Boyd E. Barker, of New Castle, which was solemnized last Monday at 3:45 o'clock in the Bellevue Methodist Episcopal Church by the Rev. Dr. Ralph B. Urmy. Miss Viola Stuart was maid of honor and George L. Arnold was best man. The ushers were Russell W. Short, nephew of the bride, and Alden G. Klein. A dinner in the bride's home followed. Mr. and Mrs. Barker have left for a trip to California and after March 1 will be at home in New Castle.

* * *

Mrs. William J. Wiseman, of Denniston avenue, entertained with a bridge luncheon in her home Saturday afternoon in honor of her daughter, Miss Margaret Gertrude Wiseman, whose engagement to Dr. J. Barton Johnson, of Ligonier, has been announced.

* * *

Gardner Steel, of Parkman boulevard, will sail January 24 on the Empress of France for a cruise to South America and South Africa. He will remain until late spring.

* * *

N. Lowell Jackson Chapter No. 416, O. E. S., will hold a card party Wednesday afternoon, January 18, in Oppenheim-Collins' auditorium. Mrs. Anna J. Austin, worthy matron, is in charge.

* * *

Dr. and Mrs. Homer C. Neale, of the Alder Court apartments, are in St. Petersburg, Fla., for the winter.

* * *

Mrs. Jerome Hill of Pembroke place has been in New York for several days.

Patricia Pitt

CLUB MAKES CHANGE IN LECTURE DATES

An interchange of dates has been made for the Friday Morning Club lectures in Carnegie Music Hall. Instead of Dr. Edward Aylesworth Ross, scheduled to speak Friday of this week, the audience will hear Miss Mary Gilson, Dr. Ross having changed for her scheduled date, January 27.

Miss Gilson, who graduated from Wellesley College, had had a wide and varied experience in the industrial relations for various firms and is now a member of the staff of Industrial Relations Counselors, in New York City. Miss Gilson was one of a staff sent by this organization to the Hawaiian Islands in 1924 to make a study of labor relations on the sugar plantations. During the summer of 1926 she was in England and Scotland and had many opportunities to study the British coal strike first hand. At present she is engaged in a study of employment compensation plans in American industry. Her subject on Friday will be "The Hours We Work."

The Cathedral Sodality will hold its annual card party Monday night, January 16, in the Cathedral High School. Miss Nell Geagin is in charge of bridge; Miss Julia Schubart, "500;" Miss Margaret McAteer, eucher; Miss Mary Byrne, refreshments; Miss Winifred Standley, checkroom; Miss Katherine Ford and Miss Margaret McCoy, door.

The New Era Club will hold a social meeting Wednesday in the home of Mrs. Louis W. Sperber, Rebecca avenue, Wilkinsburg, and on January 25, under the leadership of Mrs. Frank Killen, will meet in the Congress of Clubs. Harold A. Nomer, headmaster of Shady Side Academy, will address the latter meeting, and Mrs. Robert Weiss will sing.

Under its American home department the Congress of Clubs will have a table at the luncheon which the Advertising Club of Pittsburgh will give tomorrow in the Chamber of Commerce. The speaker, Mrs. Edith McClure Patterson, will speak on "The Purchasing Power of Women."

* * *

The Norwegian Society will hold a dance next Friday night in the Edgewood Club. Helge Willoch heads the committee in charge.

A theater party has been arranged for members of the Pittsburgh Drama League for January 18 in the Little Theater of Carnegie Institute of Technology. Members will witness a special performance of "The Tidings Brought to Mary" one of the great dramas of modern France, written by Paul Claudel, French ambassador to Washington. The distribution of tickets will be in charge of Mrs. Joseph Kunkel, North Craig street.

* * *

A meeting of the Ladies' Community Organization of Ingomar will be held at the home of Mrs. Thomas Beardsley, Franklin road, tomorrow afternoon.

* * *

Election of officers will take place tomorrow at the meeting of the St. Clair Ladies' Community Center in the Spring Lane school.

ONE DEAD IN AUTO CRASH

When the automobile in which he was a passenger collided with a truck in East street today, G. E. Brown, 50, of 503 East Ohio street, suffered a fractured skull and died before he arrived at the Allegheny General hospital.

Brown was riding in a car driven by Nicholas Kiefer, 30, of 1069 Evergreen road, Millvale. The truck was driven by Clarence Moeller, 22, of 4601 Pennsylvania avenue. Kiefer, Moeller and Joseph Mavis, 42, of 230 Isabella street, another passenger in the Kiefer machine, were arrested.

Will Says Kansas Unhappy Over Convention

WILL ROGERS

NEWTON, Kan., Jan. 9.—Been passing all day through Kansas, and reading Kansas City papers. They are pretty sore about having the Republicans coming there next June and mangling the town all up. I guess at the Jackson Day dinner in Washington we will draft some town to hold the Democratic one in. Nobody has applied for it; naturally I certainly hope Claremore don't draw it. We are just getting on our feet good there now. I am going through Senator Curtis' range now. He will be hard to beat in this roasting car belt.

Yours,

WILL ROGERS.

BEATEN BY THUGS, MAN LEFT TO DIE

Unconscious for 12 hours after a beating by two thugs in Penn avenue, near Twenty-fifth street, last midnight, Carl Kunze, of 218 Cedarville street, at noon today gave police a description of his assailants. Kunze said he had been robbed of a diamond ring worth $150, a $250 stick pin, a gold watch and a small amount of money.

"Every winter I used to get sore throat"

"Try Formamint! a friend suggested. Our family doctor said, 'Excellent: contains an effective, safe antiseptic.' Now there's always the little metal pocket case filled with Formamint, in my handbag."

Formamint cannot take the physician's place. For bad sore throat see him at once. But, at the first sign of raspiness, begin with Formamint. Unlike gargles, it can be used anywhere. In crowded places, too. It continuously releases its germ-killing agent.

To treat sore throat, one tablet every hour; as a preventive, one every two hours. All druggists.

Keeps Job

WILLIAM F. BRENIZER

With his 90th birthday behind him, Brenizer, government employe at the Army Medical Museum, still refuses his pension. He is such a valuable worker that Uncle Sam hopes he won't change his mind. Brenizer is a cabinet maker.

DOUBLE BRAKE LAW MAY HIT NEW MODELS

C. H. Roth, secretary of the Pittsburgh Motor Club, directed attention today to the section of the new Pennsylvania motor vehicle code which requires automobiles to be equipped with two sets of brakes "so constructed that no part which is liable to failure shall be common to the two." The question has been raised if certain new model cars, both in the high-priced and low-priced fields, comply with the requirement.

Roth wrote to Benjamin G. Eynon, registrar of motor vehicles, regarding the matter. Eynon replied that, while the department was at present issuing certificates of title and registration to all models of the cars in question, an investigation was being made of braking systems of all makes of automobiles and until it has been completed he could not say what the department's course would be.

MAN ENDS LIFE WITH RAZOR

With his throat slashed from ear to ear, Philip Mahla, 45, machinist, was found dead across the bed in his third floor room at 925 James street at 8:30 o'clock this morning. All doors to the room were locked and police said it was a case of suicide. Two safety razor blades were found under the body.

Mahla, police were told, was separated from his wife and family, who reside in the Beechview district. He had been rooming at the home of Mrs. Violet Robb for the past six months and had been drinking heavily recently, Mrs. Robb told police.

"Poison Shooters" Pay Malone Honor

The Royal Order of Poison Shooters established a precedent in Pittsburgh Saturday, it was learned today, when around their festive board six members of City Council gathered without argument, without speech, even.

Ralph Smith, assistant United States attorney, was toastmaster at the dinner served in honor of Councilman James M. Malone, to celebrate his election as president of the city governing body. The only speeches allowed were by Ben L. Anderson, secretary to County Commissioner E. V. Babcock and Ben Lencher, former assistant district attorney. About 100 were present.

The Poison Shooters is an organization dedicated to fulfill principles in antithesis to the name of the order. Its object is to promote the Golden Rule.

Mr. Anderson expressed his sentiments in a poem reviewing the struggles and accomplishments of President Councilman Malone in which he divulged the qualities of human love and fellowship "which gave him warm friends in all colors, races and creeds."

LEVIATHAN SKIPPER GUEST HERE TONIGHT

Commodore Herbert Hartley, senior ranking officer of the American Merchant Marine and master of the Leviathan, flagship of the United States Lines fleet, will be the guest of honor at a dinner to be held tonight at the William Penn Hotel, given by W. W. Davidson, general agent of the United States Lines in Pittsburgh, to celebrate the opening of new offices in the Clark Building. About 150 Pittsburgh business men have been invited to attend. Accompanying Commodore Hartley will be William Lynn, chief steward and James Summitt, purser of the Leviathan.

SILKS-SPECIAL SELLING

10,000 Yards Newly Arrived!

39-inch Flat Crepes
36-inch Satins
1.39
36-inch Chiffon Taffetas
40-inch Crepe Meteor

The wanted weaves! Unusual savings in price! This special selling is of the utmost interest to Pittsburgh women. Spring fashions prophesy just these kinds—for street, afternoon, evening. Silks that drape graciously, silks for bouffant styles, silks that tailor. The quality here is dependable. Full range of popular shades. The prices are remarkably low!

Black Silks 1.95

Qualities that have heretofore sold at 2.95 and 3.50 yard. The selection includes satins, Canton crepes, crepe faille, French Fulgerants, and extra heavy flat crepes. Types suitable for every occasion. Savings are most apparent. 40 inches wide.

Printed Crepes 1.65

The newest Spring prints. The patterns are an inspiration to frocks—the price an incentive to thrift. Floral and conventional patterns — gayly multi-colored in modernistic effects. 40 inches wide. See these prints tomorrow and select from great variety.

Men's Manhattan Shirts

Semi-Annual Sale—Tuesday

Only twice a year are we privileged to offer "Manhattan" Shirts at these reduced prices—and so well known are these semi-annual clearances that men need only read the announcements in order to appreciate the savings they represent. And, as we are the largest "Manhattan" distributors in this vicinity, our Clearance assortments are the largest, the most widely varied.

For five days, beginning tomorrow, these reductions will remain. Choose early, for the sake of better choice, from scores of attractive patterns; from neckband, collar-attached and collar-to-match styles.

Regularly	Sale Price	Regularly	Sale Price
2.15—2.50	1.85	4.50 and $5	3.65
2.85—3.00—3.25	2.25	6.00	4.65
3.50—3.85—4.00	2.85	10.50	8.35

Owner and Pilot With a "Jenny" for Vehicle

"Lindy" Buys an Airplane And Makes His First Solo Flight—Wings Homeward

In the opening installment of "We," in the Sunday Sun-Telegraph yesterday, Col. Lindbergh told of how his interest was always along scientific and mechanical lines. He related his early days in school, and how he became interested in aviation while a student at the University of Wisconsin. His first actual flying experience was in 1922 when he enrolled in a flying school. At the age of 20 he took his first flight and soon he was "wing-walking" in the skies. He had only eight weeks of aerial experience when he undertook a thrilling parachute jump from a plane that nearly ended fatally.

In the Air Alone for the First Time

CHAPTER II.

SINCE I had first started flying at Lincoln, the year before, I had held an ambition to own an airplane of my own. So, when I took my last flight with Lynch in Montana and started down the Yellowstone, I had decided that the next spring I would be flying my own ship.

Consequently, when April arrived, I left Miami and went to Americus, Ga., where the Government had auctioned off a large number of "Jennies," as we called certain wartime training planes. I bought one of these ships with a new Curtis OX-5 motor and full equipment for five hundred dollars. They had cost the Government nearly twice as many thousands, but at the close of the war the surplus planes were sold for what they would bring, and the training fields were abandoned. Americus, Ga., was a typical example of this. The planes had been auctioned for as little as fifty dollars apiece the year before. A few days after I arrived the last officer left the post, and it took its place among the phantom airports of the war.

I lived alone on the post during the two weeks my plane was being assembled, sometimes sleeping in one of the 12 remaining hangars and sometimes in one of the barracks buildings. One afternoon a visiting plane arrived and Reese stepped out of the cockpit. I had not heard from him since we had traded planes in Montana, and he stayed with me on the post that night while we exchanged experiences of the previous year.

Want of Money Handicap

One of the interesting facts bearing on the life of aviators is that they rarely lose track of one another permanently. Distance means little to the pilot, and there is always someone dropping in from somewhere who knows all the various fliers in his section of the country, and who is willing to sit down and do a little "ground flying" with the local pilots. In this way intimate contact is continually established throughout the clan. ("Ground flying" is the term used to designate the exchange of flying experiences among airmen).

I had not soloed up to the time I bought my Jenny at Americus, although at that time the fact was strictly confidential.

After my training at Lincoln I had not been able to furnish the required bond, and although I had done a little flying on cross-country trips with Bahl and Lynch, I had never been up in a plane alone. Therefore, when my Jenny was completely assembled and ready to fly, I was undecided as to the best method of procedure. No one on the field knew that I had never soloed.

I had not been in a plane for six months, but I did not have sufficient money to pay for more instruction, so one day I taxied to one end of the field, opened the throttle and started to take off. When the plane was about four feet off the ground the right wing began to drop, so I decided that it was time to make a landing. I accomplished this on one wheel and one wing skid, but without doing any damage to the ship. I noticed that the wind was blowing hard, and suddenly decided that I would wait for calmer weather before making any more flights and taxied back to the hangar.

"Up" Alone at Last

A pilot who was waiting for delivery of one of the Jennies offered to give me a little dual instruction, and I flew around with him for 30 minutes and made several landings. At the end of this time he taxied up to the line and told me that I would have no trouble and was only a little rusty from not flying recently. He advised me to wait until evening, when the air was smooth, and then to make a few solo flights.

When evening came I taxied out from the line, took one last look at the instruments and took off on my first solo.

The first solo flight is one of the events in a pilot's life which forever remains impressed on his memory. It is the culmination of difficult hours of instruction, hard weeks of training and often years of anticipation. To be absolutely alone for the first time in the cockpit of a plane hundreds of feet above the ground is an experience never to be forgotten.

After a week of practice flights around Southern Field I rolled my equipment and a few spare parts up in a blanket, lashed them in the front cockpit and took off for Minnesota.

This was my first cross-country flight alone, less than a week after my solo hop. Altogether I had less than five hours of solo time to my credit. I had, however, obtained invaluable experience the year before while flying around in the western states with Biffle, Bahl and Lynch.

In Bad Flying Land

While learning to fly in Nebraska the previous spring I discovered that nearly every pilot in existence had flown in Texas at one time or another during his flying career. Accordingly, I decided that at the first opportunity I would fly to Texas myself and, although I travelled a rather roundabout way from Georgia to Minnesota, my course passed through Texarkana en route.

The first hop was from Americus to Montgomery, Ala., and passed over some fairly rough territory, of which both Georgia and Alabama have their share.

I had been warned before leaving the field that the airline course to Texas was over some of the "worst flying country in the South" and had been advised to take either a northern course directly to Minnesota or to follow the Gulf of Mexico. This advice served to create a desire to find out what the "worst flying country in the South" looked like. I had a great deal of confidence in my Jenny with its powerful OX-5 engine, and it seemed absurd to me at that time to detour by airplane. Consequently, I laid my route in the most direct line possible to conform with my limited cruising range with 40 gallons of fuel.

The flight to Montgomery was uneventful. I landed at the army field there before noon, filled the fuel tanks and took off again for Meridian, Miss.

I arrived over Meridian in late afternoon and for the first time was faced with the problem of finding a suitable field and landing in it.

Value of Experience

An experienced pilot can see at a glance nearly everything necessary to know about a landing field. He can tell its size, the condition of the ground, height of grass or weeds, whether there are any rocks, holes, posts or ditches in the way, if the land is rough and rolling or flat and smooth; in short whether the field is suitable to land in or if it would be advisable to look for another and better one.

In fact the success of a barnstorming pilot of the old days was measured to a large extent by his artfulness in the choice of fields from which to operate. Often, in case of motor failure, the safety of his passengers, himself and his ship depended upon his alertness in choosing the best available landing place and his ability in maneuvering the plane into it. If his motor failure was only partial or at high altitude, time was not so essential, as a plane can glide a great distance, either with a motor which only "revs" down a couple of hundred R. P. M. or without any assistance from the engine at all.

The average wartime machine could glide at least five times its height, which meant that if it was 5,000 feet above the ground the pilot could pick a field to land in five miles away with safety; but if the failure was soon after the take-off then instant decision and immediate action were necessary.

Down in Soft Ground

An amateur, on the other hand, has not overcome the strangeness of altitude, and the ground below looks entirely different than it does from the air, although there is not the sensation, in an airplane, of looking down as from a high building. Hills appear as flat country, boulders and ditches are invisible, size are deceptive and marshes appear as solid grassland. The student has not the background of experience so essential to the successful pilot, yet his only method of learning lies in his own initiative in meeting and overcoming service conditions.

There was no regular airport in Meridian in 1923, and few fields available for a reasonably safe landing. After a half hour's search I decided on the largest pasture I could see, made the best kind of a short field landing. I knew how by coming down just over the tree tops, with the engine wide open, to the edge of the field, then cutting the gun and allowing the ship to slow down to its landing speed. This method brings the plane in with tremendous velocity and requires a much larger landing field than is necessary, but until the pilot has flown long enough to have the "feel" of his ship it is far safer to come in fast than too slow.

It had been raining at Meridian and the field was a little soft, so that when my "Jenny" finally did settle to the ground it had a very short roll and there was still some clear ground in front.

TWO KILLED IN THEATER HOLDUP

CHICAGO, Jan. 9.—(AP.)—A woman scorned last night tipped off the plans of her former sweetheart and his two companions to hold up a West Side theater manager with the result that three detective squads ambushed and killed two of the robbers and probably wounded the third, who escaped.

The men, who were almost instantly killed when they attempted to shoot their way out of the cross fire of a machine gun and shotguns, manned by concealed detectives, were known to the police only as John Bunk, alias Jack Rabbit, and "Punk." They, as well as the third who escaped amidst a fusillade, were recent convicts at Pontiac, Ill., the police said.

The woman, whose name was not revealed, gave her information to the State's attorney's office yesterday afternoon. Sergeant Andrew Barry and three detective squads posted themselves at vantage points about the theater some time before the appointed holdup attempt, and apprised the theater manager.

As the three men held up the manager, E. S. Halquist, they were greeted with a veritable rain of bullets from a hand machine gun manned by Barry and the shots of his detective aides. Realizing they were ambushed, the men started to shoot their way out. One was struck several times by the machine gun bullets and died almost at the feet of Halquist. Another, firing, as he retreated, was killed as he crossed the street. The third, firing wildly, jumped into their waiting automobile, and started to drive away. The hail of bullets, however, apparently blinded or wounded him, and he lost control of the car which careened against a telephone pole. He leaped from the car and ran into a railroad yard.

SLUGGER STRIKES AGAIN

Another slugger of women has been brought to the attention of the police with the attack yesterday afternoon upon Bessie Fernandez, 23, of 12 Third avenue, beaten unconscious in Center avenue near Miller street by a Negro, who dragged her into an alleyway and then fled with her purse containing $40, police say.

This was the second attack upon women in that district within a few hours, Miss Anna Jacobs of 200 Brackenridge street having been slugged and robbed early yesterday in Fullerton street. Miss Jacobs said two Negroes beat her and robbed her of $3.

MOURNING PARTY RUNS DOWN CHILD

YORK, Pa., Jan. 9.—(AP.)—An automobile containing relatives summoned to this city after the death of Harold Strebig, who was fatally injured while fighting a garage fire here Saturday night, ran down and seriously injured an 8-year-old boy on the Lincoln highway seven miles east of here. The victim of the second tragedy in the Strebig family is Carold McClane of Kreutz Creek. He is in a critical condition. The automobile was driven by Roy Kinard of Wrightsville, a cousin of Strebig.

COUNTY CHURCH DRIVE BRINGS RESULTS

District leaders of the visitation evangelism campaign launched in Allegheny county yesterday were informed at a luncheon at the Fort Pitt today that the drive had already procured 19 new members for a little country church which had employed a professional evangelist for four years with a total gain of only three members.

A dozen out-of-town clergymen attended the luncheon. The Rev. Dr. R. F. Galbreath presided and the Rev. Dr. A. Earl Kernahan gave a talk to stimulate the workers.

A campaign dinner will be held tonight in each of the 28 districts into which the county has been divided, and immediately afterward 10,000 workers will set out to visit the homes of "prospects." The campaign will end Friday night.

RESORT OWNERS FINED AFTER WIFE'S STORY

Raided after a woman had complained her husband was spending too much money in the places, Nick Rumbroyski, 1221 Beaver avenue, and Louis Lipshitz, 2052 Beaver avenue, restaurant keepers, were each fined $100 by Magistrate E. M. Hough in North Side Police Station today. Moonshine and a slot machine were found in Rumbroyski's place, while two slot machines were found in Lipshitz's restaurant.

NEW JOB FOR TOP

ADRIAN A. DOWNING

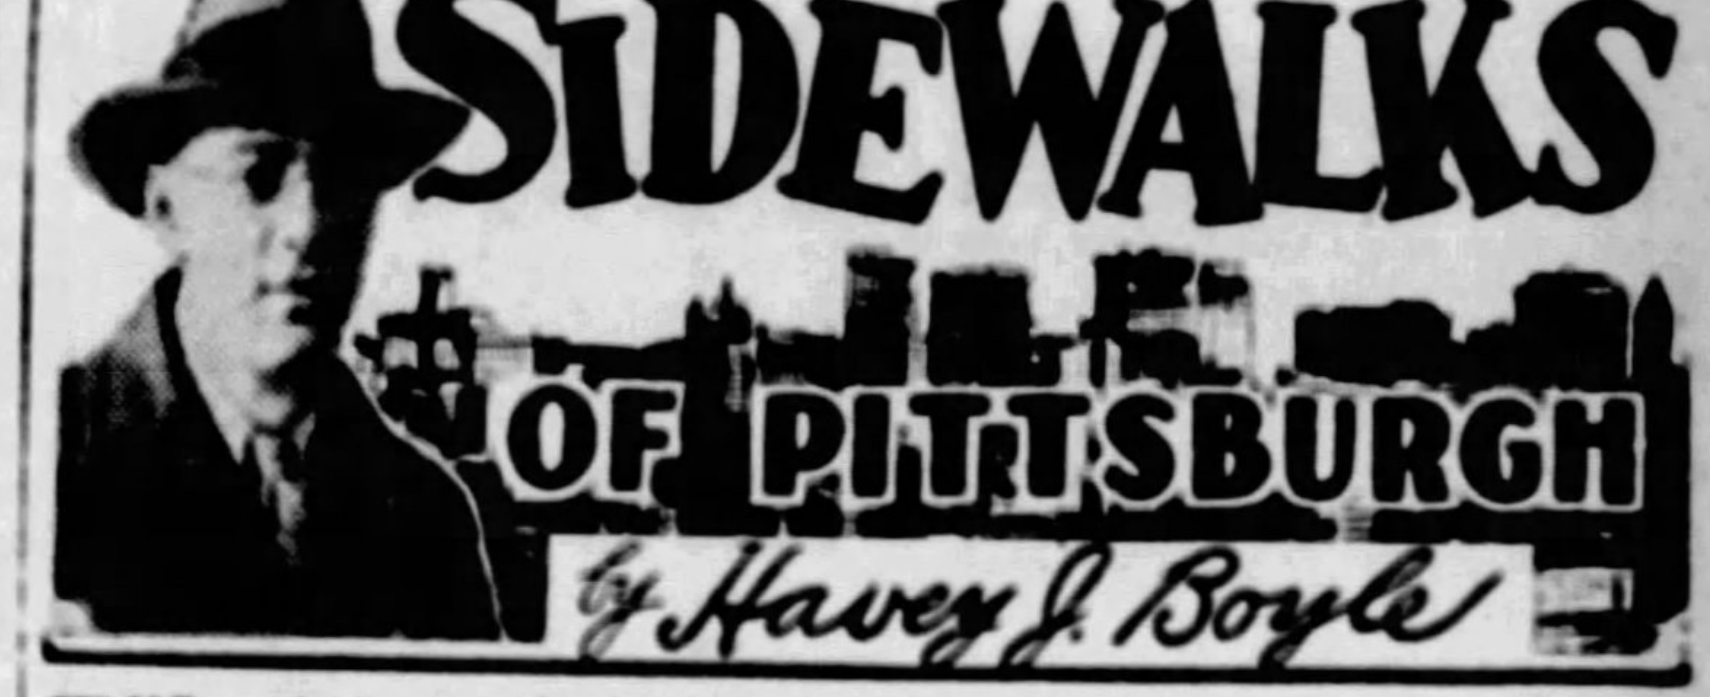
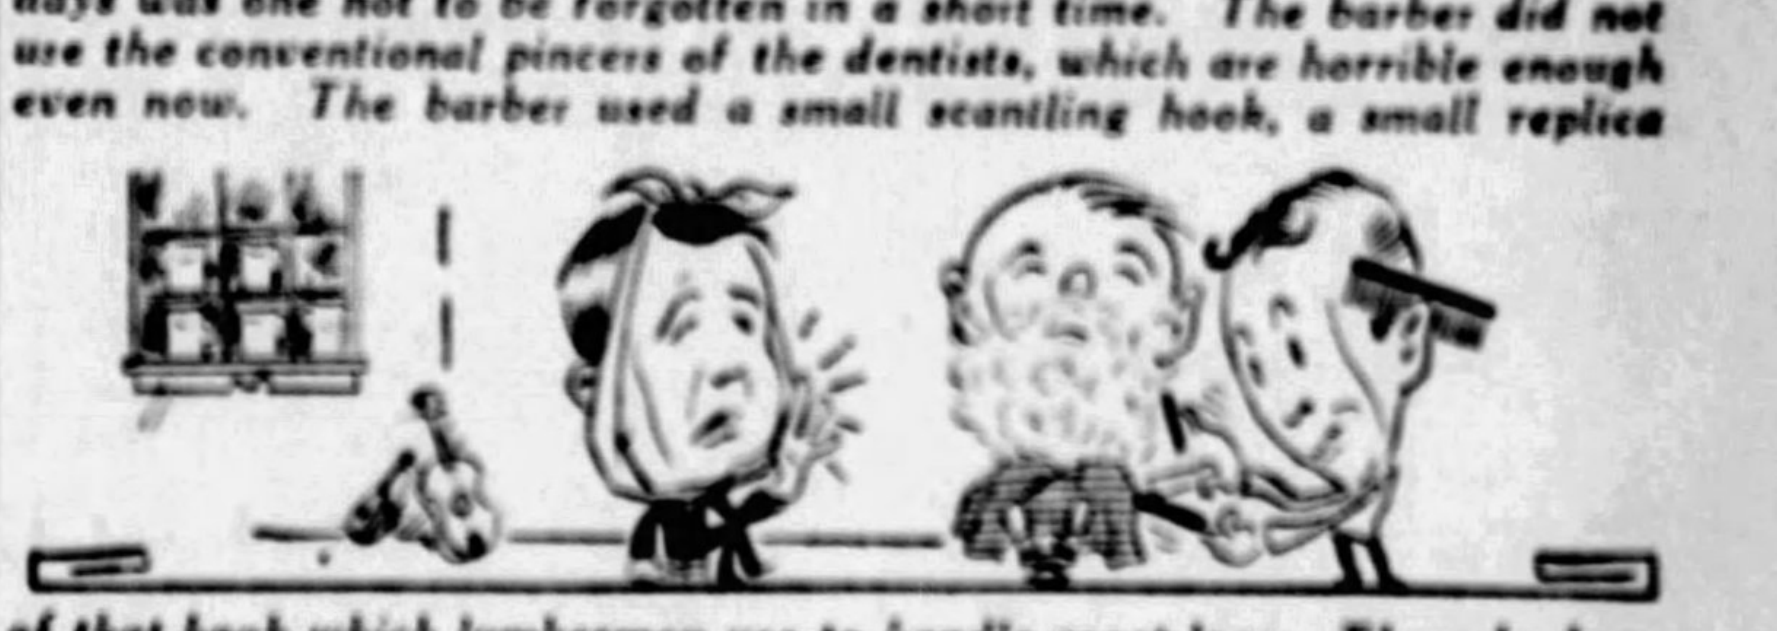
Adrian A. Downing, until two months ago top Sergeant of Troop A, state police, located at Greensburg, has been appointed county detective of Fayette County, with headquarters at Uniontown.



THE evolution of the barber shop is striking. A barber at one time had to do more things than cut hair, shave, massage and apply tonics to shining pates. There was a time when a barber pulled teeth, took care with a leech of the black eye, kept the private razors of customers on edge, besides furnishing a parking place for the private cup, the sponge and razor of the customer.

The experience of having a tooth drawn by a barber is the old days was one not to be forgotten in a short time. The barber did not use the conventional pincers of the dentists, which are horrible enough even now. The barber used a small scantling hook, a small replica of that hook which lumbermen use to handle great logs. Those barbers with their funny hooks were like the Canadian Northwest Mounted—they always got their tooth.



A barber's rack of cups in those days was a pleasant sight—gilt-edged cups, bearing the initials of the owners. There were always on hand a pink copy of the Police Gazette, featuring a heavy set member of the Black Crook brigade of chorus girls, a checker board, a deck of cards, to say nothing of a varied assortment of musical instruments. The clean boquet of perfumed soap and the blend of hair tonics gave the shop an added appeal.

From this, among the high-grade shops, have grown the newer and grander shops with soft lights, three-quarter jackets, floor-walkers, and a bevy of white-clad manicurists. The Police Gazette has been replaced by staid journals of opinion and the gilt-edged, gilt-lettered mugs are no more.

A WOMAN reports that while getting a permanent wave which, spies say, takes from two to four hours, there was a cry of "Fire" and there she was all rigged out with those wires attached to her hair. Everyone else in the shop ran out to escape the incipient blaze. It was a task that would have delighted the late Houdini, but the woman in question found no fun in trying to escape the electric wire entanglements that held her fast. Luckily, it was a false alarm.

PITTSBURGH'S various racketeers are making ready for their annual exodus to Hot Springs where they go down to boil out after an 11-month period of an upside down life. The boys in the various rackets sleep and eat at unconventional hours and sometimes find themselves pretty well run down. To get straightened out physically they take a month's vacation at a health resort. They try to be as zealous of their health as those millionaires, who have acquired all the money they need, spend the rest of their life worrying about how long they will live to enjoy it.

THE fictional portrait of big gamblers is not always true to life. You know the usual portrait—a flaming tie, large diamonds, and checkered suits. One of Pittsburgh's biggest operators dresses in a black suit, a black derby, a low-toned shirt and black shoes. He can bet "ten grand on the finger" ($10,000 with no stakeholder and no security but his word) with men from coast to coast.

MONEY LOVE by BEATRICE BURTON

(Copyright, Central Press Association.)

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Lily Lexington is the spoiled and only daughter of the Cyrus Lexingtons, who have always lived far beyond their means. She realizes her highest ambition when she becomes engaged to Staley Drummond, a rich bachelor older than herself. Downtown to meet her chum, Sue Cain, she is attracted by Pat France, a taxi driver. She asks him to drive her home. On the way she learns that he is cab-driving to raise money to finance a new kind of piston ring he has invented. Pat tells her that he is selling the cab to raise money for the piston ring, and she miserably wonders how she'll see him after that. Staley tells her the age-difference between them doesn't matter and tenderly kisses her. Lily realizes that she hates his love-making. Mrs. Lexington announces the engagement just as Lily's made up her mind to tell Staley that she doesn't want to marry him, and she feels like a mouse in a trap—helpless. The Lexingtons get a chauffeur, who turns out to be Pat. Lily confesses to her mother she loves him and leaves home. Mrs. Lexington decides to take matters into her own hands to get rid of Pat. Pat leaves, and to Mrs. Lexington's sorrow, Lily leaves with him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

HE WAS on his way to the door when she called him back. She had something bright and glittering in her hand and she dropped it into his—her engagement ring, and all the jewelry he had given her from time to time. He took it, shoved it into his pocket and went out of the house.

Mrs. Lexington got up from the couch. "We may as well go, Cy," she said, looking past Lily. "We can't do anything with her—and it's our own fault. We've never made her mind us or listen to reason about anything, so why should we expect her to now? Goodby, Lily."

"Goodby," the girl answered. "You won't feel this way a few months from now, mother, when you see how happy and contented I am with Pat. And, by the way, would you and Agnes pack up all my clothes and send them down here? I'll need them."

Mrs. Lexington shook her head. "No, your husband can buy your clothes from now on," she answered. "There are a lot of those things that can go back to the store, so your father won't have to pay for them. They weren't bought for Pat France's wife, Lily. But I'm glad to hear that there IS something you want, after all, besides your precious Pat! And, as time goes on, you'll find that there are lots and lots of things besides him that you want—and that he'll never be able to get for you. Then you'll remember that I tried to keep you from making this fool marriage!" She swept out of the house without another word, and Mr. Lexington was left alone with his spoiled daughter.

Lily never had felt so close to him as she did at this moment. For years she had seldom thought of him except as the person who paid the bills for her clothes and good times.

He was not a talkative person at any time, and of late years he had moved through her life like an actor with a small part in a play of which she was the star.

But now he was her father again—the father of her childhood, who had taken her to picture shows and circuses. Who had let her spend a whole day in his office sometimes, sitting at his desk, drawing pictures or tapping on his typewriter with her small fingers.

She clung to him. "You make Mother send me my clothes!" she told him. "I've got to have my clothes! You tell Agnes to pack them up and sneak them out of the house first time Mother is away from home."

Instead of answering, he put his hand into his hip pocket and took out a billfold. In it was a check made out to her—a check for two hundred dollars. "I brought this along, just in case things turned out the way they have," he said, as he held her tight and kissed her goodbye. His eyes were filled with tears, but Lily did not see them. She stood in the middle of the room when the door closed behind him, and her gaze was on the check in her pretty useless hands.

On her way upstairs Lily made up her mind that she did not feel like going to the Roy Jettersons' house that night, after all.

"I think I'll stay right here and rest," she told Florence, flinging herself down on the bed and folding both the pillows under her head. "I've had a pretty strenuous day, and I'm more tired than I thought I was." She yawned.

Pat's sister swung around from the toilet glass, where she was waving her hair with an electric iron. "You'd better go for a little while, don't you think?" she asked. "Sadye's probably been working hard all day to get ready for this party. And it's in your honor—Pat's and yours. Sadye will be hurt if you don't go."

"Pat can go," Lily answered, carelessly. "I don't know as I care to meet his old sweetie, anyway. I think that Jetterson woman had her nerve to invite her."

"Oh, I'm sure she would have more sense than to come," Florence said, rubbing a piece of black satin over her hair to give it gloss.

"Well, I'm too tired to go anyway," Lily decided again. "And when you see Sadye tonight tell her that my friend, Sue Cain, is going to come to my wedding tomorrow. Pat said that the Jettersons would 'stand up' with us, and if he wants Roy it's all right—but I don't need her. I have Sue, instead."

Presently Pat came upstairs and pleaded with her to go to Sadye Jetterson's house, but Lily was stubborn. "I'm dead tired, Pat," she said. "And besides, I just hate that Jetterson woman. There's no use in my trying to hide it. I don't want to go to her house, and I'm not going to!"

That was the end of it. When Lily did not want to do a thing, she simply did not do it!

The next day Roy Jetterson came to the wedding without his wife. "I suppose she's peeved," Lily said to herself, and did not care.

After the ceremony Roy shook Pat's hand heartily, gave Lily a sound kiss upon her lovely mouth—which shocked Pat's mother—and went home. Sue Cain alone stayed with the family for the simple wedding feast of chicken salad, rolls and ice cream and cake.

By 6 o'clock everything in the little house had settled down into its regular routine.

"It's all over and we're married. It doesn't seem as if it can be true," Lily said to Pat, twisting the plain gold band on her left hand.

Their wedding trip was a journey to the movie theater around the corner, and Lily told herself that she preferred it to the European trip that Staley Drummond had promised her for a honeymoon. She was breathlessly, gloriously happy.

CHAPTER XXIV.

ON THE Sunday morning after her wedding, Lily opened her eyes at 9 o'clock—the time she usually opened them in the big house on Montpelier road.

She lay perfectly still for a moment, wondering where she was.

Then she remembered, looking around the small room, with its chiffonier draped with Pat's neckties and the dresser loaded with her own gold-and-tortoise shell toilet articles. Over the foot of the cheap brass bed her combing jacket made of strips of lace and pink ribbon looked curiously out of place. So did her pink satin mules, with their gold kid heels gleaming against the threadbare rug on the floor.

She got up and stuck her bare feet into them, wrapped her breakfast coat around her, and went to the head of the stairs outside the door.

From below came the cheerful sound of dishes clattering, and up the staircase floated the tantalizing fragrance of boiling coffee and frying bacon. There was the hum and buzz of voices from the dining room. . . . The France family was evidently at breakfast.

"Pat!" Lily called, but there was no answer. From behind the closed door at the bottom of the stairs the hum of voices went on. She could even hear Pat's voice as he called to his mother in the kitchen, and her voice answering him.

"Pat!" Lily called again, but they did not hear her still.

Then she went down the stairs, holding her breakfast coat around her. It reached only halfway between her knees and ankles, and her feet were bare except for the mules.

She stopped at the mirror in the hall for a minute to see if she looked all right. She decided that she did, except for her hair, which was tumbled.

Pushing the bright, heavy mass of it back from her forehead with one hand, she opened the dining room door just as Pat's mother came in from the kitchen with a big platter of bacon and eggs in her hands.

She stopped, her blue eyes widening as she took Lily in, bit by bit—the uncombed hair, the short, scant silk breakfast coat over a short scant silk nightgown, the bare ankles and the heelless slippers.

Pat and his father, in clean, white shirts, turned and stared at her, too. So did Florence, crisp and tailored in green linen.

"Mornin,' family," Lily said, pulling out her chair from the table. She slipped into it and held out her lips, bright with scarlet paint, to Pat. Her kiss left a trace of color on his face.

Then she reached for the package of cigarets that he carried in the pocket of his shirt and put one into her mouth.

"Got a match, old darling?" she asked him.

He shook his head, and spoke hurriedly to her from behind his hand. "Better go upstairs and get dressed, hadn't you?"

Lily stared at him. "I'll bring your breakfast up to you," he added, in that same hurried undertone. He had lived with the Lexingtons long enough to know that Lily always had her breakfast on a tray in bed.

"We thought maybe you'd like to sleep late this morning, seeing it's Sunday," his mother said, her quick eyes going from Lily's cigaret to her son's face. "Pat said he'd take you a tray after a while. . . . Or would you rather get dressed and eat down here with us?"

Her words, spoken in her slow, gentle voice, made it quite clear to Lily that she did not expect her to stay there at the table and eat breakfast, dressed as she was—or rather, not dressed.

Lily jumped up from the table and ran back to her room. Her face was scarlet with humiliation, and she stamped her foot on the floor, just as hard as she could, before she kicked off the satin mules and climbed back into bed.

"I suppose your mother thinks I'm not very modest because I went down stairs in my breakfast coat and no stockings," she said to Pat a few minutes later, when he came upstairs with coffee and toast on a little tray.

He set it down on the table beside the bed, and poured out a cup of steaming amber coffee.

"Yeah, I guess she does think so," he said, in his blunt, honest way. "I wouldn't smoke cigarets in front of her, either. . . . She's pretty prim and old-fashioned, you know."

Lily turned up her nose ever such a little. "Well, I'm not," she answered, calmly. "And I have my life to live just as she has. . . . And maybe we'll get along better if she lets me live it in my own way. I've been smoking cigarets ever since I was 16—I learned from the boys at dancing school, I remember—and it's a habit that I'm not even going to try to break."

She emptied her coffee cup and leaned back against the fancy little lace pillows that Florence had brought in from her own room for her. Her face, with its starry eyes and apricot flush, was full of defiance.

Pat looked at her helplessly. If she had been an automobile that was "out of whack" he would have known just what to do. But he knew very little about girls—especially beautiful and willful girls who wanted their own way and were used to getting it—and so he said the very worst thing he could have said:

"I think she's right, Lily. I hate to kiss you when you smell of tobacco. A girl like you ought to be as sweet as a rose—"

"And what about you smelling of tobacco?" Lily broke in, sharply, her eyes blazing. "Is it any worse for me to smell of cigarets than for you to?"

He said it was. He said you expected a man to be rough and ready and tobacco smoking, but that a woman ought to be as fresh as roses and sunshine all the time.

"You talk like a sentimental sap!" Lily snapped at him. "Now, don't try to change ME—not some Dumb Dolly who sits around reading 'Pure Thoughts for Perfect Roundheels' and eating marshmallows for a thrill! You knew I smoked before you married me, and if you want to know something else, I'm going to keep right on doing it!"

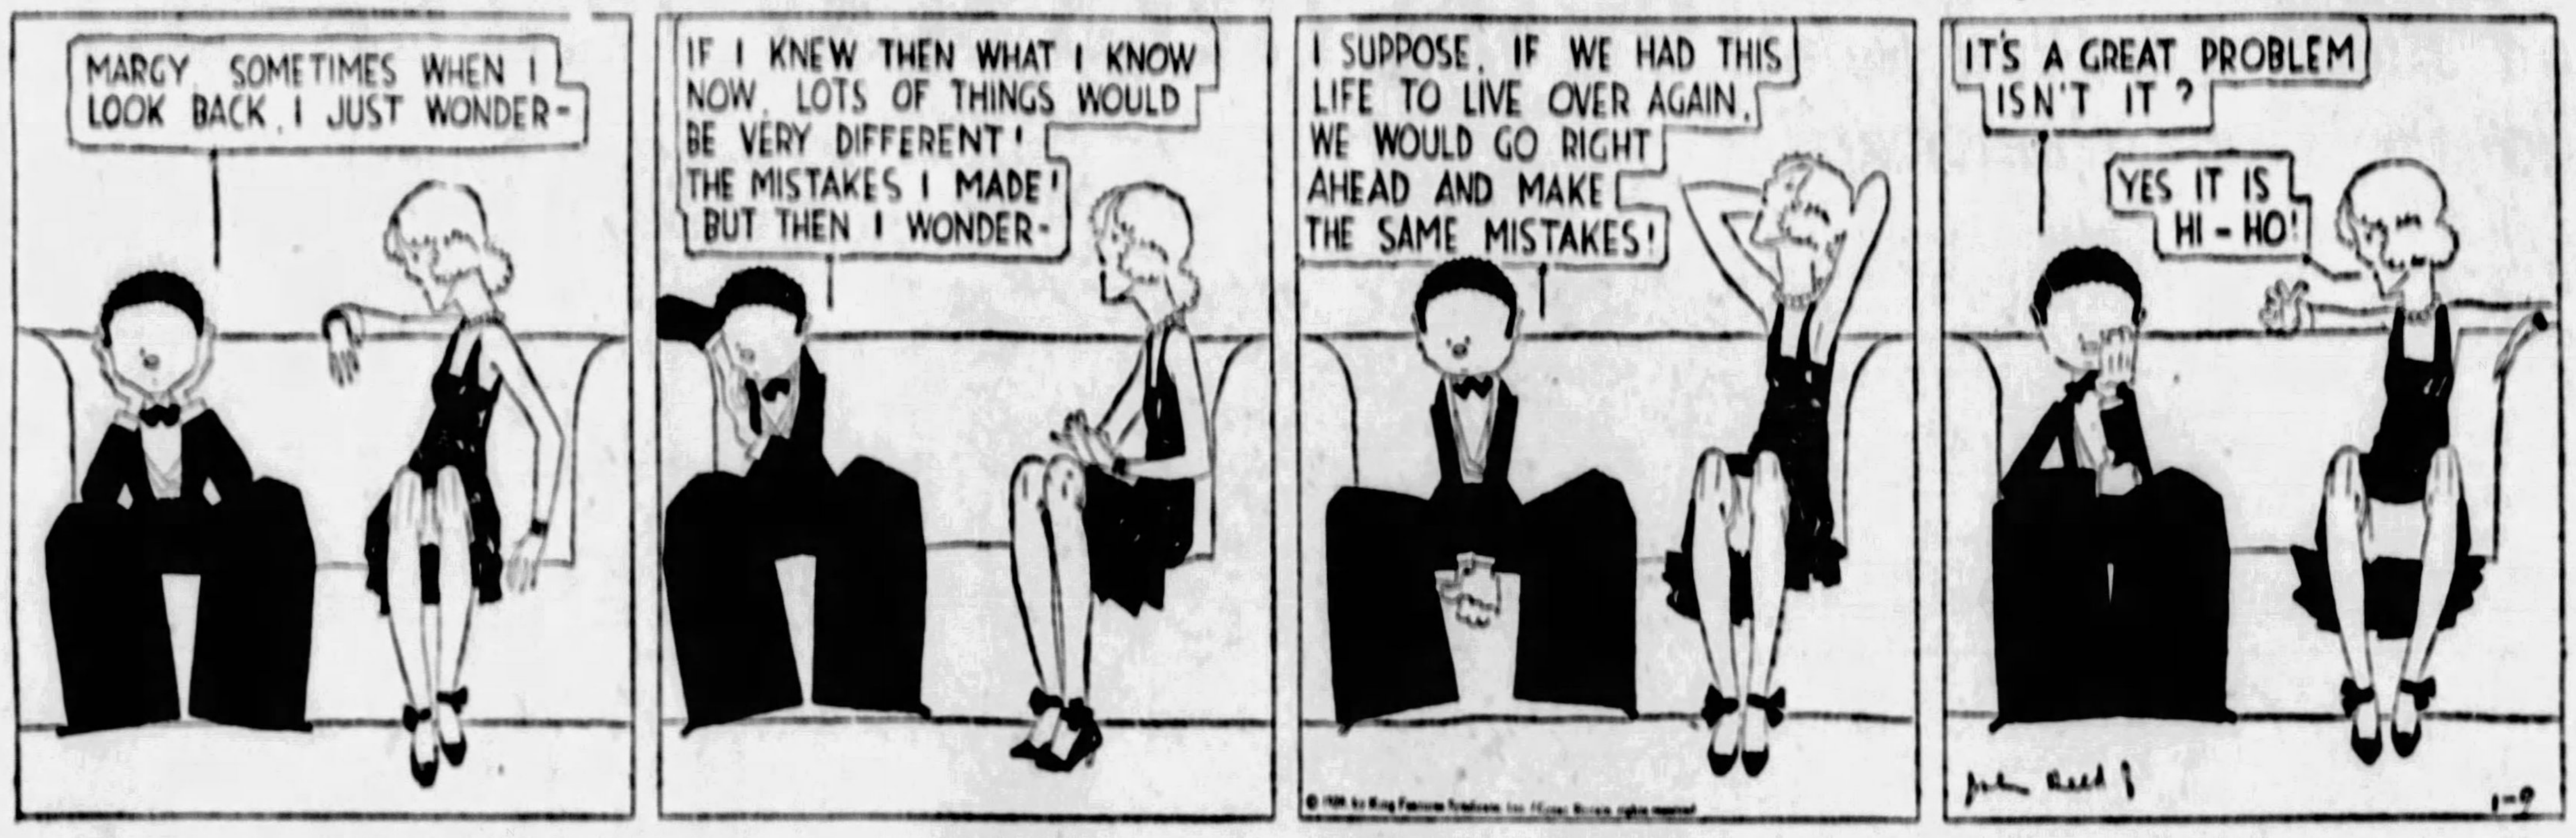
Merely Margy, An Awfully Sweet Girl

Story by Lloyd Mayer

By John Held, Jr.



MARGY SOMETIMES WHEN I LOOK BACK, I JUST WONDER-
IF I KNEW THEN WHAT I KNOW NOW, LOTS OF THINGS WOULD BE VERY DIFFERENT! THE MISTAKES I MADE! BUT THEN I WONDER-
I SUPPOSE, IF WE HAD THIS LIFE TO LIVE OVER AGAIN, WE WOULD GO RIGHT AHEAD AND MAKE THE SAME MISTAKES!
IT'S A GREAT PROBLEM ISN'T IT ?
YES IT IS HI - HO!
John Held Jr

"My dear, I'm simply SEETHing with SPLEEN at this point, no less! I mean I'm ACtually so MAD I could GARgle BUTtermilk because the way Arab conTINually CONsecrates in himSELF and his own TRIVial TROUbles, my dear, has me all iRATE and IRrigated because I ACtually think it's the MOST poisonous idea in the WORLD for a person to FOUR forth their WOES into your EAR all the entire time the way ARab does, my dear, because you'd think nobody ELSE had anything to worry about, the way he carries ON about himSELF, my dear, and you'd HONestly think he was about a HUNdred years OLD the way he RAVES on about all the misTAKES he's made in his life—can you BEAR it, my dear? REALly, you should have HEARD him the other NIGHT, my dear, because it was ACtually SCREAMing to listen to him lugUBriously inSIStihg that if he had his LIFE to live OVer again lots of things would have been DIF'rent because if he had known THEN what he does NOW, he said, he wouldn't have made all the misTAKES he's made, but I mean he's so ABs'lutely riDIC because he no SOONer gets off THAT line than he conSOLES himself by saying prob'ly NOTHing would have been any dif'rent, ANYways, even if he HAD known then what he knows NOW. But, my dear, I don't think it's a QUEStion of wondering whether he'd make the same misTAKES if he had his LIFE to live over again because considering it's ARab who's wondering I think what he OUGHT to be all hot and BOTHered about is why he keeps ON making the same mistakes NOW—I mean I Actually DO!"

Love's Embers

Absorbing Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife"

By Adele Garrison

FOR an instant I was so bewildered by Eleanor Lincoln's sudden sagging against me, and her plea to have Noel Veritzen take her place at the wheel of her car, that there was no thought in my mind save the urge to care for the illness which she said had seized her.

But even as Noel and Mary came closer to us with little exclamations of astonished sympathy, I realized that her claim of illness was only a pretense. She was frightened at something or someone she just had seen. I deduced that because of the sudden horrified widening of her eyes I had noticed. Following the direction of her eyes I saw standing among the station loungers the red-bearded man, our objectionable new neighbor of the shack in the woods, whose appearance at The Larches had upset her.

But as we hurried there to the car—my opinion of her physical condition being confirmed by her firm, rapid footsteps, with no sign of weakness in them—I told myself that the appearance of the red-bearded man at the station hardly warranted so pointed an exhibition of fear. She had seen him before, there was no element of surprise in the meeting and she could not hope to conceal her presence at the station from him.

As we reached her car, and Noel pulled open the rear door, she caught at Mary's arm.

"Please sit on the other side of me," she said, and I caught myself wondering whether the request had its origin in her wish for better concealment, or her desire to keep Mary away from the seat beside Noel. But when upon entering the car, she twisted her body to a position that sheltered her between us and gave little chance for anyone seeing her from outside, I acquitted her of any pretense. There patently were but two thoughts in her mind, one to escape observation, the other to get away from the station as fast as possible.

But we were not to get away so easily. Noel bent to the key, turned it and put his foot upon the starter. Not a sound came from it, and he turned around with an apologetic air for the battery's failure to respond.

"It may be the battery has run down," he said, "but I think the starter is jammed. I'll get down and look."

"Oh, hurry," Miss Lincoln breathed without lifting her head from my shoulder, and while Noel climbed down from the car I seized the first opportunity I had had for other than a cursory glance at the people gathered at the station.

My eyes first sought the red-bearded man. I expected to find him watching our car intently, because of his previous inexplicable interest in the family at The Larches. Instead his face was turned in another direction and I saw that the car upon which his eyes were fixed was a new one belonging to one of the local automobile dealers who evidently was either negotiating or just completing a sale to the striking young man whose dog so nearly had knocked me down in the Long Island station two days before.

The dog was still with him, sitting now beside him in the seat. But that the animal was excited and anxious to get out of the car was plain to anyone. His head was lifted, his nostrils aquiver, his eyes gleaming, while from his throat issued faint whimperings which I knew but for his training would have been clamorous barks.

His master's hand was firm upon his collar, but his master's eyes were fixed upon our car. I did not have time for anything save a flashing conjecture as to a possible connection between his interest and Eleanor Lincoln's desire for concealment before the dog with a sudden movement broke away from his master, cleared with two or three powerful bounds the distance between his master's car and ours, and leaping into the tonneau of our open car, threw himself upon us.

TRAINED NURSE HAD INDIGESTION

Tells of Blessed Relief Ten Herbs Gave; Feels Better in Every Way.

"I suffered from acute indigestion, which brought on sour, acid stomach, with formation of gas and considerable pain," was the recent statement of Mrs. Laura Martin, 18 Sixteenth Street, S. E. Washington, D. C., according to the Ten Herbs

MRS. LAURA MARTIN

Man, who is at the May Drug Store, 529 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is daily demonstrating the great natural medicine, Ten Herbs. "The disturbed stomach affected my liver, kidneys and bowels, and caused biliousness and constipation." Mrs. Martin continued. "I had terrible pains across my back, and was more or less nervous, easily excited and irritable.

"I am a professional nurse and Ten Herbs was first brought to my attention by a professional friend. This medicine being a combination of Nature products, I decided to try it. Ten Herbs began at once to sweeten the stomach and aid digestion, so in a few days I noticed a big change and began to feel normal again. It eliminated the food waste, gently stimulated the organs to proper activity and toned up my system just as was required. There was a general strengthening and upbuilding. My nerves are stronger, and I feel better in every respect. The Nature products in Ten Herbs will cleanse, purify and invigorate the digestive system. I believe that almost anybody would be benefited by Ten Herbs, and, while effective, it is mild and safe. I do not hesitate to recommend it to anyone."

Ten Herbs is used and highly recommended for indigestion, constipation, pain and agony in stomach and chest, heavy or burning feeling in stomach, belching a sour liquid or bits of food, gas and bloating, headaches, dizziness, nervousness, loss of appetite, pains or stiffness across back, frequent rising at night, biliousness, and other such disorders.

The Ten Herbs Man is at the May Drug Store, 529 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is daily meeting the public and explaining the merits of this medicine. He will be glad to tell you how to take it to get the best results. Free sample given.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Ending the Age-Old Scourge of Leprosy

FOR countless centuries mankind was terrorized by the deadly malady, leprosy. Will this disease ever find a stronghold in America?

It is improbable that leprosy ever will be a serious problem in the United States. But as Dr. Victor G. Heiser of the Rockefeller Foundation recently pointed out, the history of the disease is a strange one. It is not uncommon for it to appear and spread in sections where it had been entirely unknown.

DR. COPELAND

Until 1912 the Island of Nauru in the South Pacific, with a population of 2,100, had no lepers. An infected person moved there and between 1920 and 1922 there were 39 lepers. If the same thing had happened in the United States, on the basis of our present population, we would have well over 2,000,000 lepers.

As Dr. Heiser says, this is not likely to happen. But it is well to remember that it was not so long ago that France had 2,000 leper hospitals and England had them by the hundreds. No less than 22,000 leper hospitals were built and endowed in Europe during the Middle Ages.

The disease rapidly declined during the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries. This was the result of strict segregation and better living conditions. However it still exists in Northern Europe and there are many cases in the United States. The Atlantic states have a number of imported lepers in their larger cities. Fortunately for us the disease is not readily transmitted in the climate of North America.

Leprosy does exist to an alarming extent in various parts of the world. It is estimated that there are 2,000,000 cases. Of these, at least 12,000 are in the Philippines.

It is in the Philippines, on the Island of Culion, that the largest "leprosarium" in the world has been established.

Gen. Leonard Wood, while Governor General of the islands, became deeply interested in the Culion institution for leprosy and visited the colony many times. Just before his death, when he came here on leave of absence, Gen. Wood brought the cheering message that 1,000 of the milder cases had been cured. He declared that leprosy can be eradicated, not only in the Philippines but throughout the world. It is merely a matter of money.

Chaulmoogra oil has been used in the treatment of leprosy and other skin affections for hundreds of years in India and Siam. It was known in many Eastern countries. Its use, however, was limited because of its disagreeable physical effects.

I am glad to say improvements in the methods of using the remedy have been made. Dr. H. Windsor Wade, now resident physician at Culion, is achieving splendid results with the new treatment. There is every reason to believe, as Leonard Wood said, that science is on the right road toward complete eradication of leprosy.

Answers to Health Queries

L. Y. Q.—My baby, 2½ years old, breaks out in hives; what can cause this?

A.—This is usually due to some fault in the diet, or constipation. Watch the diet carefully to see which food or foods aggravate the condition and avoid them. It would be advisable to consult your doctor.

L. R. B. Q.—What is the best way to overcome the tobacco habit?

A.—Exertion of will-power is the only definite cure.

T. Y. Q.—What can be done for self-consciousness?

A.—This condition is due to lack of confidence. You should mingle with people more, go out to places of amusement and meet people of your own age. Read good books so that you may be conversant with topics of the day and try to be less bashful.

T. A. Q.—What should a girl weigh who is 18 years old, 5 feet 4½ inches tall; also a girl 16 years old, 5 feet 7½ inches tall?

A.—They should weigh respectively about 123 and 132 pounds.

L. L. Q.—What should a girl of 12, 5 feet 5 inches tall weigh?

2.—What should a girl of 10, 4 feet 11 inches tall weigh?

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

Tuesday, January 10

*Actions, though of seeming inconsequence, are ever more potent and productive than dreams of giant deeds.—*JOHN G. LONSDALE.

THE fiery and militant Mars, ruling this day by trine with the moon, will incite to all sorts of bold and aggressive measures and projects. The energies will feel high impetus despite a subtle opposition, with scheming and treachery. With the indomitable will and enterprise of Mars all menace should be vanquished.

Those whose birthday it is have a year of splendid constructive effort in new and important projects, despite subtlety and duplicity. Sign papers carefully and be on guard in all negotiations.

A child born on this day may be bold and adventurous, resourceful and energetic. It may invite sinister opposition by its open and aggressive measures, its uncompromising attitudes.

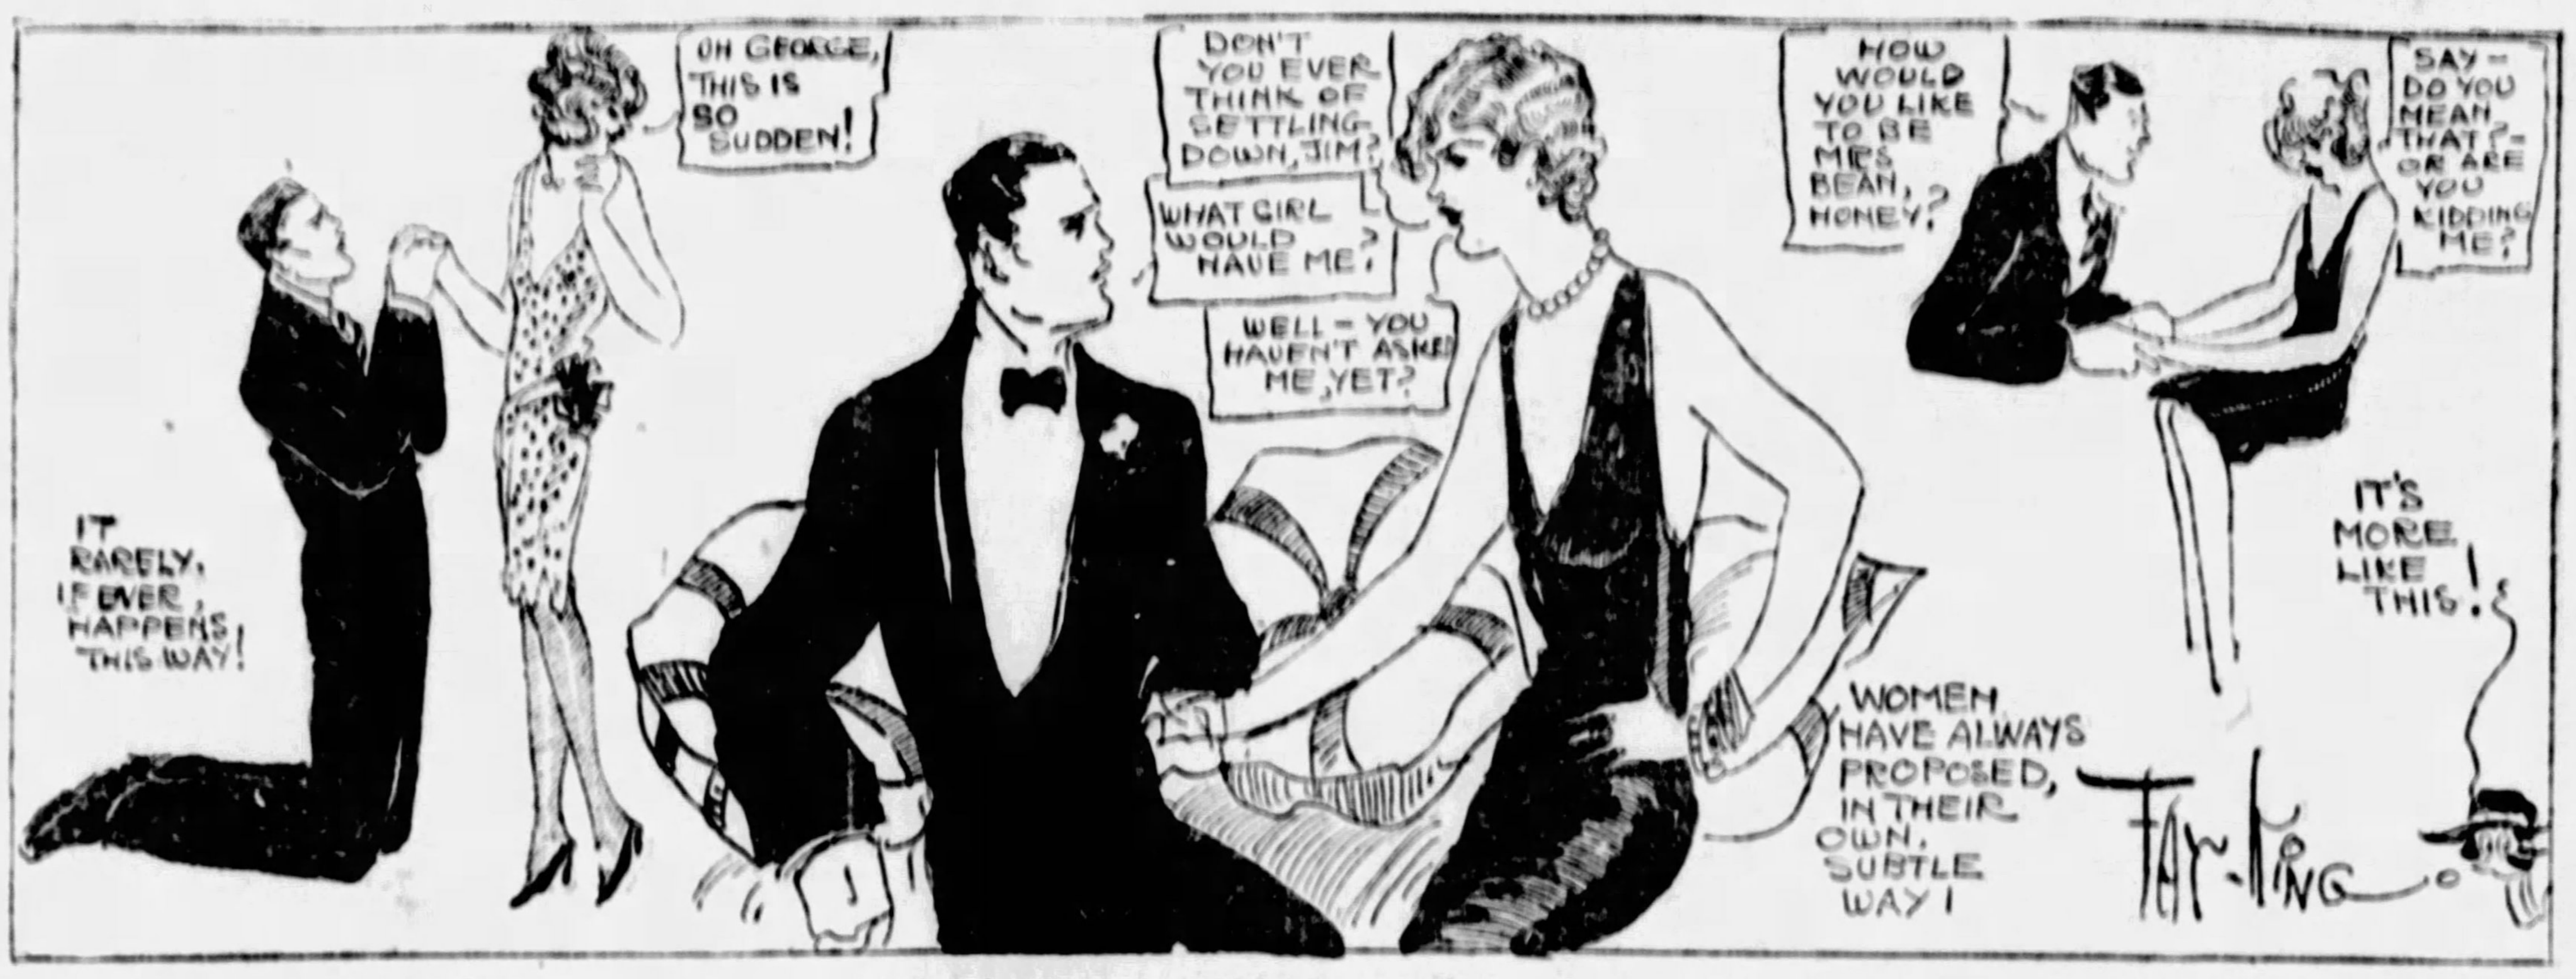
A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

Girls Propose, Leap Year or Not, Says Fay King



OH GEORGE, THIS IS SO SUDDEN!
IT RARELY, IF EVER, HAPPENS THIS WAY!
DON'T YOU EVER THINK OF SETTLING DOWN, JIM?
WHAT GIRL WOULD HAVE ME?
WELL—YOU HAVEN'T ASKED ME, YET?
WOMEN HAVE ALWAYS PROPOSED, IN THEIR OWN, SUBTLE WAY!
HOW WOULD YOU LIKE TO BE MRS. BEAN, HONEY?
SAY—DO YOU MEAN THAT?—OR ARE YOU KIDDING ME?
IT'S MORE LIKE THIS!
FAY KING

By FAY KING

THIS is leap year!

Again the discussion comes up whether women should propose or not. It is so ridiculous, because most women have always proposed!

Not in a crude way, of course, but in a subtle way always!

Regardless of what fair tales they tell about their husbands having worn out the carpet crawling around after them on their knees, the average married woman knows in her heart that she laid her plans for the proposal and he proposed.

And there is nothing to be ashamed of in that. Why shouldn't she?

Many a girl has lost the man she loved because she didn't play her cards cleverly as the girl who got him.

Many a girl has met a man that she meant to win and has even expressed the fact. The fact that she is now married to him and happy is a credit to her!

The girl who sits back and never by word or look gives the man she wants to marry any help toward proposing, is going to lose him to a girl that will manipulate her conversation so that a proposal is made and he will probably think all his life that he proposed of his own accord!

And even if he knows he didn't, he's never going to admit that he didn't, so her secret is safe.

But don't let these happily married women kid you into thinking that they never helped their husbands to propose!

MEDITATIONS of a MARRIED WOMAN

by HELEN ROWLAND

A MAN is never satisfied with his golf score, or a woman with her love score.

Now that apron strings are out of fashion, the woman who wants to weaken her husband's backbone ties him to her by her purse-strings.

* * *

A woman is not getting middle-aged until the thought of eight hours' sleep is more enticing to her than the love-making of any man on earth.

HELEN ROWLAND

Don't waste your sentiment on the man who jots down his dates with you. Until he can remember them by heart, you are merely a telephone number in his consciousness.

* * *

Forty is the fatal age, at which a man suddenly discovers that he has to stop playing the role of Romeo and begin playing the role of Santa Claus if he wants to go on being a young girl's "Ideal."

* * *

That young Chicago burglar, who first robbed the women, then kissed them goodby, probably considered that an ardent osculation would be such a sweet surprise that it would make up to a married woman for almost anything.

* * *

A woman may have to reach heaven before she tastes supernal joy; but to taste supreme punishment, she has only to watch the love-mist die out of a man's eyes.

Any man prefers to be open and above-board with a woman; but it's so hard to be perfectly frank, without ever TELLING her anything that matters!

Companionate marriage is merely taking your vows on the transient plan, with the privilege of "checking out" any day, without notice.

Then stir in quickly a cupful of blanched almonds and filberts that have been dried after blanching, and a quarter cupful of halved English walnuts. Stir rapidly as they sugar, then throw them into a large sieve and shake off all the loose sugar, seperating them if they have stuck together. Put in a box lined with wax paper and cover tightly until used.

FOR THE LOVELORN

Patsy

DEAR MISS GALE:

I have read your columns of advice for months and I have often wondered if I couldn't get a little advice also from you. I am a girl of 19 and I have been going with a fellow for about four months. I go with him off and on. The first night I met him he made a date for the following Wednesday to go to dinner and then to a show. I was so thrilled with excitement until Wednesday afternoon he called and said he was sorry but he couldn't possibly see me that night. He called next night and took me for a walk. He has made several double dates with my girl friend and I and one of his friends, only either to go for a ride or to his friend's home. What shall I do? Do you think he has another girl that he never takes me to any show when we have a date? I like him very well and think he is a very nice fellow otherwise. Should I go with him or not. I am very anxious to know, as I do not just know the ways of boys, yet I only go with him.

PATSY.

Surely you can have a good time without going to shows all the while, my dear. Accept his friendship unless he persists in breaking dates with you.

Becky

DEAR MISS GALE:

I am a girl 19 years of age and am considered good looking. There is one fellow whom I like very much and he is a few years my senior and he tells me that he loves me. But if he loves me I am sure he would come to see me more often. Sometimes he comes to see me two or three times a week and then again he won't come for a month or maybe two or three months. And when he comes it is always late and then we can't go any place. What do you think I should do—keep on liking him or forget him?

BECKY.

Try to forget him, Becky. He is not much interested in you or he would want to see you more frequently.

You Can End All Pile Misery Without Cutting or Salves.

Do you know why ointments do not give you quick and lasting relief?

Why cutting often fails?

Do you know the cause of piles is internal?

That there is a stagnation of blood circulation in the lower bowel?

Do you know that there is a harmless internal remedy discovered by Dr. Leonhardt and known as HEM-ROID, now sold by May Drug Co. and druggists everywhere, that is guaranteed?

HEM-ROID banishes piles by removing the cause, by freeing blood circulation in the lower bowel. This simple home treatment has an almost unbelievable record for sure, quick and lasting relief to thousands of pile sick sufferers, and saves the needless pain and expense of an operation. Winter Find You Stiff and Achy?

Colds and Chills Throw Heavy Burdens on Our Kidneys.

DO you get up these winter mornings feeling older and slower than you should? Are you stiff and achy—bothered with nagging backache, drowsy headaches and dizziness? Are the kidney secretions scanty and burning in passage? Then you should give some thought to your kidneys!

Colds and chills increase the poisons in the blood and bring extra work to the kidneys. When the kidneys act sluggishly, waste impurities remain in the blood and cause many unpleasant symptoms,

One is apt to feel languid, tired and achy with often nagging backache, drowsy headaches and dizziness. A common symptom of imperfect kidney action is scanty or burning secretions.

SPORT COMMENT by JAMES J. LONG

SPARKY ADAMS, midget second baseman, who has looked like a sure bet to add strength to the Pittsburgh team this year when measured by past performances alone, promises more strongly than ever to improve the club in view of the spirit manifested in his first letter to President Barney Dreyfuss, as announced in The Sun-Telegraph yesterday.

Sparky Adams.

Sometimes there are volumes in a few words, and such was the case when Adams wrote, "I am glad to be on a real ball club." It means that the transfer from the Cubs to the Pirates is very much to Sparky's liking that President Dreyfuss sent him a contract that more than satisfied him, and that the little second sacker, spurred on further by the prospect that he may get into the next world series, is likely to play better ball here than he did in Chicago.

CONSIDERABLE improvement in the general play of Adams was assured beforehand by the fact that he will have far better infield mates to work with here than he had as a Bruin, and now, with his

Leagues Gather Today

CHICAGO, Jan. 9.—(AP.)—Big and little minor league representatives will get together here today to patch up the break over the draft question, caused by the spunky resolution adopted at the Dallas minor league convention last month. In effect the minor league convention told the big five of their membership that they must hereafter operate under the complete draft plan or not at all, abolishing the modifications which protected the class AA leagues in possession of their own rookies.

These five, the International, Pacific Coast and Three-Eye leagues, and the Southern and American Associations, carried their case to the major league baseball world.

The majors demanded settlement of the dispute by January 16 or abrogation of the whole major-minor agreement, under which the minors shared the benevolent dictatorship of Kenesaw Mountain Landis without bearing any of the expense.

SMITH TAKES COAST OPEN

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 9.—MacDonald Smith, crafty veteran of the links, played masterful golf here yesterday to win the third annual $10,000 Los Angeles open tournament.

The New York professional turned in a par-shattering 69 and a par-equaling 71 in the two final 18-hole round. His total for the 72 holes of competition was 284. His share of the purse is $3,500.

Harry Cooper of Los Angeles, winner of the open in 1926, took second money, $1,500, with 287. Cooper led the field at the end of yesterday's round but his 74 this morning enabled Smith to take a decisive jump into the lead.

Abe Espinosa of Chicago took third place and $1,000 with a 290. Wild Bill Mehlhorn, now of Wilkinsburg, Pa., and Tommy Armour, National Open champion, who featured the first day's play when they figured in a three-cornered tie for the lead, had 292 and shared fourth place with Al Watrous. Splitting fourth, fifth and sixth money, each of the trio will receive $533.

SARAZEN WINS MIAMI

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 9.—(AP.)—Gene Sarazen, former American Open golf champion, yesterday won the Miami Open tournament with a card of 289 for the 72 holes of medal play. It marked his second tournament victory within a week. Tuesday he won the Miami Beach open.

In winning, Sarazen retained the title, as he won it last year also. He has also held the Miami Beach championship two years.

Jock Hutchison of Chicago was second with a score of 298.

Giants to Honor Memory of Ross Youngs

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—(AP.)—The memory of the late Ross Youngs, famous outfielder of the New York Giants, will be honored by a bronze tablet on the right field wall at the Polo Grounds, the section where he performed from 1918 through 1926.

The tablet will be placed at the opening of the baseball season. The Giants have decided to accept contributions for the memorial from Youngs' admirers, limiting each donation to $1, however.

Youngs died at his home in San Antonio last October after a long illness. He figured prominently as a player with the Giants in their pennant-winning clubs of 1921, 1922, 1923 and 1924.

INDIVIDUAL AND CLUB AVERAGES BEST

By CHARLES SEGAR.
Universal Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—One reason why the Yankees finished 19 games in front in the 1927 campaign is easily seen in the American League batting averages, released today.

A glance at the averages shows that while the Miller Huggins tribe did not have the leading hitsmith of the league, the Yanks were first in other departments.

As a team the Yankees showed the way to the rest of the league in various respects. They led the Athletics in batting by four points, finishing the campaign with a mark of .307.

The Yanks also made more than 400 more total bases than their nearest rival, made more single base hits and led in three-base blows.

Harry Heilmann, of the Detroit Tigers, is the batting king of the league. The Tiger star finished with a mark of .398, six points better than Al Simmons, of the Athletics.

Lou Gehrig was third. He finished with .373. But while Gehrig was third he was the leader in hitting for the greatest number of bases, collecting 447 on 218 hits, and

ROSENBLOOM TESTS JOHNSON TONIGHT

By HARRY KECK,
Sun-Telegraph Sports Editor.

GARFIELD JOHNSON, the Black Streak from Seattle, gets the acid test tonight when he faces Maxie Rosenbloom of New York in the 10-round main bout in Motor Square Garden. Either he is a wizard of the ring or he isn't, and, in either event, a veteran of the caliber of Rosenbloom quickly will assay his worth.

In his debut here a couple of weeks ago against the rough and ready George Gemas of Philadelphia, Johnson, unheralded and unsung and appearing in a semi-final, showed so much class that he set the town to talking. If he can do as well against Rosenbloom he'll set the nation's fistic tongues to wagging and will jump into the big money in one leap. If he isn't there against the big-timers, the fans will know it before the Rosenbloom bout is very far under way.

There is no question about the Black Streak's gameness. Gemas went after him as hard as any man seeking a quick knockout ever went after any foe in the first round and Johnson stayed right with him and finally made him break ground and after that set his own pace and won breezing. But Rosenbloom is a shiftier and smarter opponent than Gemas was and also a better boxer and will provide quite a different sort of a test. It should be a rousing fight.

Rosenbloom worked out in the Motor Square gym yesterday afternoon and showed the fans he is primed for the battle.

Frank Gordini of Hazelwood and Johnny Michaels of the Hill will box the eight-round semi-final, Nick Susnell of Rochester, Pa., and Phil Scello of McKeesport the second bout and Young Radicy of Monessen and Tony Phillips of the Hill the opening bout. Phillips is a sparring partner of Tommy Crowley, while Radicy is a new addition to the stable of Reed Brown.

All the boxers will weigh in at 3 p. m. at Motor Square Garden. The first bout is set for 8:30.

BIG AMATEUR ENTRY

The amateur tournament at McKeesport Wednesday and Thursday nights has drawn a large entry. The lists closed Saturday night with enough contestants to round out two full evenings of battling. Among the last-minute entrants were: Matty Stehl, 126 pounds, and Jackie Wildner, 160 pounds, both of the Crystal Beach A. C., of Johnstown; Jimmy Long and Thomas McCann of the Eureka Club, Johnstown, and Tony Topaz, 135 pounds; William Casey, 126 pounds; Frank Harp, 147 pounds; Donald Jones, 135 pounds, and Hughey Lablonde, 160 pounds, all of the Manchester Club of the North Side.

News that Tommy Crowley, local junior-lightweight boxer, has broken with Bill Heckman, his manager, revealed in Sunday's Sun-Telegraph, has the fans buzzing. Crowley plans to box out of Indian-

Compromise May Save Service Tussle

By Universal Service.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 9.—Although the officially announced agreement between the heads of the Military and Naval academies, in which it was stated that there will be no Army-Navy football game this year makes it appear unlikely that there will be a service classic in 1928 hope is still felt that higher authorities will intervene to save the historic classic.

Should the secretaries of the Army and Navy, or Congress request a further conference on the matter, it is felt that a compromise could be reached.

BOB FOLWELL, FORMER W. & J. COACH, DEAD

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 9.—(AP.)—Robert C. Folwell, former widely known football coach, died suddenly last night following an operation upon his hip January 3. He was believed to have been on the road to recovery after the operation, but suffered a relapse yesterday and sank rapidly. He was 52.

Bob Folwell was born in Mullica Hill, N. J. He was the son of the late Robert Cook Folwell, a brother of Nathan T. Folwell, president of the Manufacturers Club, and is a member of a family long famed in athletics.

Folwell prepared for Pennsylvania at the Haverford Grammar School. He entered Pennsylvania

NATIONAL BODY IS HIDDEN AWAY

By TOM BIRKS.

A WAVE of indignation swept through Western Pennsylvania soccer circles today when it became known that the members of the National amateur cup-tie committee had come here Saturday for an open meeting and to conduct the draw for the third round of play and had been spirited out of town by officials of the Western Pennsylvania Football Association to prevent local managers and other persons with grievances against the local body from reaching the ears of the visiting delegation with their pleas for fair play.

As a result, secrecy veiled the draw, for which all the amateur soccer teams of the nation were eagerly waiting, and it was not available for publication until today; protests were decided without

TWO high-class attractions are scheduled in the Allegheny County League tonight, the Broadway club invading the Market House to meet the Goose Goslins, while the Duquesne Lafayettes, last year's champions, appear at the Hamilton School floor to engage the McKees Rocks Business Men.

The Goose Goslins are eager to take a fall out of the Broadway club tonight, and as both teams hail from virtually the same sections a large turnout of divided supporters is expected.

The McKees Rocks Business Men, fresh from their victory over the Rauhs, will attempt to hand the Lafayettes their first defeat of the season tonight.

THE Stanos and the Somermans meet in a return battle tonight in the Pittsburgh and Ohio Valley League. The Stanos won the first encounter and it is the intention of the Somermans to turn the tables tonight.

The Stanos have been bolstered considerably, and while they are out of the running for the first-half honors, they are confident of making a better showing in the last half.

Both teams will present changed lineups tonight and indications point to a great battle, as the clubs have been showing steady improvement. This is the only game scheduled in the P. & O. League and will be played at Columbus Temple.

DRIBBLES

The Ray Schneiders will make their debut in the second half of the West Penn League tonight when they entertain the Webster Hall quintet at Javer Hall.

The Community House passers face a stiff assignment next Thursday night when they clash with the Doc Gordons, last year's A. A. U. champions, on the Community floor. Community has won seven out of eight games to date.

The Butler Veterans of Foreign Wars are reported eager to join the Allegheny County League for the second cycle of play. No action has been taken on their application.

Gene Tunney may postpone his return to Florida to see Jack Sharkey and Tom Heeney in action against each other in New York Friday night. The winner of this bout stands a good chance of being the next challenger.

George Courtney, leading middleweight contender, boxes Jess Stringham of Salt Lake City in New York tonight. Luis Vicentini, Chilean lightweight, meets Joey Knapp in Brooklyn.

Joe Dundee, welterweight champion, boxes Joe Simonich of Butte, Mont., at Philadelphia, January 24. The title will not be at stake.

BOUTS FOR DELANEY

Jack Delaney, whose contract recently was sold for $50,000, has been signed for two bouts. He meets Sully Montgomery in New York next Monday night and Jack Humbeck in Boston four nights later. A return bout with Johnny Risko in Madison Square Garden, February 10, is in prospect.

Johnny Dunn of New Kensington boxes Mike Marcelle of Rochester, N. Y., at Buffalo tonight.

Paulino Uzcudun, the Basque heavyweight, boxes Ed Keeley, the Boston southpaw, in Brooklyn next Monday night. Paulino was suspended last summer for running out of a bout with Keeley.

Matt Adgie and Harold Mays box the windup at the Arena, Philadelphia, tonight. In other 10-rounders Al Friedman boxes Jack DeMave, Tommy West meets Jimmy Francis and Young Jake Kilrain, a heavyweight from California, opposes Will Matthews of Baltimore.

Panthers Look Best

By JESS CARVER.

THE collegiate basketball situation, as it exists today, is a queer one. Favorites have been taken for rides with such a degree of consistency so far this season, and the unexpected has been pulled so often, that it is almost impossible to get a true line on matters in any of the leagues.

In the Eastern Intercollegiate League, Yale has won two games, downing both Dartmouth, last year's champions, and Pennsylvania. The Eli are riding along at the top of the heap, with more games already won than they were able to annex all last season. Penn, conquerors along with Pitt and Northwestern of the touted Michigan five, lost to the Blue last week and Saturday bowed to Notre Dame after having defeated Ohio State New Year's Day. In the Big Ten three short enders, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Purdue, are tied with Northwestern and Indiana for the leadership.

Pitt, taking 'em all on, Big Ten, Eastern League and non-league champs, is still showing them all the way, and undefeated in seven major games, stands an excellent chance of going through the season undefeated. At present just three teams seem to have any chance of upsetting the Panthers. They are Notre Dame, West Virginia and Grove City.

Locally and in the tri-state district, West Virginia and Grove City, Duquesne and Salem are in the foreground, the first two undefeated, and the Dukes unbeaten in either conference or non-conference play, though they have been beaten twice by Ohio Conference teams, Muskingum and Ohio Wesleyan.

W.-J. OPENS TONIGHT

Tonight Wash-Jeff and Bethany will both open their campaigns with a game at Washington, with the Presidents ruling as slight favorites. The Red and Black have been without the services of their coach, the genial Andy Kerr, who has been sojourning on the Pacific coast, helping to extend the football season into 1928. He will be with the team tonight, but Red Kirkman, captain of the five, who has been acting as coach, will probably run the club against the Bisons. The Bisons, by the way, may bump Wash-Jeff.

Carnegie Tech is back home after a disastrous invasion of West Virginia, an invasion that fast turned into a rout. After being soundly trounced Friday evening by D. & E. they hit West Virginia Saturday and lost another, although they made a better showing against the Mountaineers than against D & E. Tomorrow night they are on the road again, playing Geneva at Beaver Falls.

Allegheny will practice today and tomorrow and then pull out Wednesday to begin the defense of their non-conference title, which is really the district championship, by playing Wash-Jeff and West Virginia. They lost Cibula and McClurg from last year's good team and will have a tough time filling their places.

The Dukes, who got by with their first conference game with a victory Saturday, have Bethany to play tomorrow at Bethany. They are fortunate that the Bisons will be playing their second game in two days, and should get away with another victory. One more conference win will give 'em the confidence and pep needed for the tougher competition to come, against Waynesburg and Westminster.

EASTERN LOOP ACTIVE

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—(AP.)—The Eastern Intercollegiate League basketball season will be in full swing by the end of the week with all the members in action, Columbia sallying forth tonight against Dartmouth at New York.

Dartmouth was on the short end of a 26 to 22 score against Yale on Saturday night. Columbia has failed to come out on top in any of its minor engagements thus far.

Cornell will usher in the campaign at Ithaca against Yale on Saturday night and on the same evening Princeton will play at Columbia for the first time.

Yale leads the league with two victories. Last year Yale won but two games.

BUTLER HIGH WINS

NEW BRIGHTON, Pa., Jan. 9.—Butler High opened the W. P. I. A. L. season here Saturday night by handing New Brighton a trouncing by a 28 to 13 score. Butler jumped into a healthy lead in the first quarter and completely outclassed the Crimson.

SOCCER

giving the aggrieved clubs an opportunity to present their cases and the members of the national body themselves returned to their home cities yesterday voicing disgust with local conditions which permitted such a travesty to occur, and openly bitter over what amounted to their "kidnaping" by the constituted over-authorities of the local leagues.

SITUATION MORE MUDDLED

Today, soccer conditions in Western Pennsylvania, instead of being smoothed over and pacified by the visit of the national committee, as intended, have been thrown into even worse confusion than before.

Members of the national committee who visited the city included Armstrong Patterson of Detroit, chairman; William Angus of Cleveland, Thomas Smith of Detroit and John J. MacEwan of Cleveland. They came to conduct an open forum to help straighten out the tangled affairs of the West Penn Association and expected to come in contact with all of the leaders of the sport here. Instead news of their arrival was withheld from interested parties, and the committee was met at the P. and L. E. Station by officers of the West Penn Association and whisked away in taxicabs to Keown Station, where the business meeting and dinner were held while local managers and others were frantically endeavoring to trace the whereabouts of the party.

The protests of the Westinghouse Club against the McPherson team and the Corinthians against Mustard Hollow were lost in the review under the circumstances, the national committee upholding the decisions of the local commissioner. Meanwhile, Manager McKay of the Corinthians was vainly trying to locate the meeting quarters.

COMMITTEE TRICKED

When the national committee learned how it had been tricked out of meeting the majority of local soccer men, and especially those whom it had come here to interview, the body was as angered as the local fans were when they were apprised of the news, and the politics of the Pittsburgh moguls did not register favorably with the visitors, the latter let it be known at their headquarters in the William Penn Hotel before leaving yesterday.

Incidentally, the national committee was puzzled over the fact that no public announcement had been made by the West Penn Association of the fact that this district has been assessed $1,000 as its contribution to the recently-formed Olympic soccer committee, the fund being raised to defray the expenses of a team to represent the United States in the Olympic Games. Michigan's share also is $1,000, while Ohio is assessed only $750.

OLYMPIC PLANS CHANGED

The Heidelberg team, National Amateur champion of last year, and other teams of this section are competing in the present national competition under the impression that the National champion will automatically represent this country in the Olympic games, whereas an entirely separate elimination is planned by the Olympic committee. Just why this has not been made plain here is not easily explained.

The next meeting of the National Amateur Cup committee will be held in Cleveland, February 5.

3 TEAMS DEADLOCKED IN SIX-DAY BIKE RACE

CHICAGO, Jan. 9.—(INS.)—Three teams, tied for first position, today rolled along in front of 12 other combinations that make up the field in Chicago's nineteenth international six-day bike race which opened last night in the Coliseum bowl.

The three-team deadlock resulted shortly before midnight after the greatest exhibition of "first night" riding seen here since the sport was adopted. The leaders are: Petri and Hill, the German-American pair; Walthour and Fred Spencer, and Reggie McNamara and Charley Winter.

Long's Sport Comment

new zeal and more satisfying environment added it is pretty safe to predict that he will have in 1928 the best season of his career. And that will mean a whole lot to the Bucs, judging from the brilliant record of Adams in the past.

That spells another boost for the manner in which President Dreyfuss handles his men. Regardless of how much native ability he may possess, a dissatisfied ball player is not worth much to a club, but as it is, Pittsburgh not only gets a fine player to bolster its only weak spot, but gets one who comes in with the spirit that wins, and who is determined to play his head off for his new employer.

Though it was not announced at Pirate headquarters whether or not a signed contract had accompanied Adams' letter, the sentence that he is "glad to be on a real ball club" is enough to assure the fans that Sparky has enrolled.

WHILE on the subject of baseball contracts, diamond followers who have been impressed by the wider recognition won from year to year by Frank (Bull) Brown of this city as one of the best umpires in the business, will not be surprised to learn that President Harry A. Williams of the Pacific Coast League has lost no time in getting the Pittsburgher in line again for the 1928 season.

One of Williams' first acts in the new year was to make sure that he would have Brown on his staff again, so he proceeded to rush a 1928 contract to him. Frank received the document, and evidently the terms were tempting, as he signed it and mailed it to President Williams at once.

HARRY HEILMANN of the Detroit club is making the odd record of leading the American League in batting every other year. Official averages for 1927 show that Heilmann again tops the hitters, with an average of .398, beating out Al Simmons by six points.

Al Simmons

Odd - number years appear to be favorable ones for Heilmann as he took the batting honors in 1921, 1923, 1925 and 1927. By leading four years he has tied with Larry Lajoie for the distinction of being second to Ty Cobb in number of batting championships won in the American League. Cobb headed the list four times.

THOUGH Heilmann carried off the batting honors of the junior major circuit in point of average, the outstanding feature of the year, part from Babe Ruth's 60 home runs, of course, was the record of Lou Gehrig of the Yankees. He was 25 points below Heilmann in average, but in slugging and run-getting respects he far surpassed the league leader.

Harry Heilmann.

Playing in 14 games more than the Bengal batsman, he scored 149 runs to Heilmann's 106, and in addition made 218 hits to Heilmann's 201 and Ruth's 192. He made 52 doubles to Heilmann's 50 and Ruth's 29, 18 triples to Heilmann's nine and Ruth's eight, and in total bases on hits led the entire league with 447, whereas Ruth himself made only 417 and Heilmann only 311.

With 47 home runs added to his 52 doubles and 18 triples, Lou made a total of 117 extra-base hits, just two short of Ruth's American League record and within three of the National League record, held by Ruth and Hornsby, respectively.

Truly, Gehrig contributed a remarkable hitting performance to baseball history in 1927.

JUST how far Garfield Johnson is likely to get in his bid for high fistic honors after he reaches New York on his tour from Seattle may be shown here tonight, when the Negro battler from the Northwest meets Maxie Rosenbloom in the main bout at Motor Square Garden.

Garfield Johnson.

Johnson made a fine impression in his first Pittsburgh appearance recently. His style is much like that of the late Harry Greb, and many Pittsburgh fans who saw him in action are of the opinion that he will kick up considerable commotion in the light-heavyweight ranks.

Tonight's bout ought to furnish a good line on his chances in that direction, for while Rosenbloom is not a champion he is good enough to make the best of them step some when in top form.

TONIGHT'S show at Motor Square Garden, by the way, will be next to the last local fans will have a chance to see for two or three weeks.

After next Monday night's bill has been run off, the Garden will be shut down for at least two weeks as far as boxing is concerned on account of the annual automobile show being held there.

Whether a showing of motor trucks will follow has not yet been decided, but if this exhibit also is held at Motor Square it will mean a third week of waiting for the glove fans before Manager Hernon and Matchmaker Ray get busy again and boxing is resumed.

beating Babe Ruth for this honor. The Big Bam finished with a total of 417.

The Babe, however, established a new world's home run mark for the majors by hitting 60. He also led the league in runs scored, being accredited with 158. Earl Combs, the Kentucky school master, was first in making hits, accounting for 231 during the season.

ONCE AT W.-J.

with W. & J. elevens caused him to be chosen head coach at his alma mater, the University of Pennsylvania, where he played on the famous 1907-08 elevens of that institution. Penn once ruled pre-eminent in football, but had fallen by the wayside.

It was hoped by its followers that he would pull Penn out of the rut, but, like others who attempted the task, he found it too difficult, due to politics, and he went to the United States Naval Academy, where he was in charge for several seasons. Later he was identified with professional teams.

MADE FINE RECORD

The late Penn star developed some of the great teams in the history of football at W. & J. He had only fair success in early season games in 1912, but produced a team which won from all district foes, including Pitt.

Folwell's 1913 team, which was much more powerful, defeated Pitt, Penn State and West Virginia that season, in fact, all foes except Yale, which was played to a scoreless tie. That team won so much prestige that W. & J. was invited to meet Harvard in 1914.

With such stars as Fleming, Goodwin, Spiegel, Cruikshank, the Younkins brothers and others, the 1914 team played a terrific schedule and won over all foes except Harvard, which defeated the Presidents, 10 to 9. A missed point for touchdown cost the Presidents a tie with one of the mightiest teams in fair Harvard's history. Folwell continued successful in 1915, losing only to Pitt. It was the only time that the Panthers were able to beat the Presidents during his regime.

NEMESIS OF YALE

While here Folwell made a record without parallel in the competition with Yale. His teams played Yale four years in succession, lost in 1912, 13 to 3, played a scoreless tie in 1913 and then won two years in succession, 14 to 7, in 1914, and 16 to 7 in 1915.

Folwell was one of the pioneers in the use of the forward pass, much of the success of his teams being due to his use of the aerial attack. During his years at W. & J. opponents of the Presidents were unable to develop a defense against it.

NIXON

cided to resume his baseball calling. Retiring from business which has occupied his attention for several seasons, Billy is negotiating for a minor league managerial berth in which role he would be a playing pilot.

The aggressive Pittsburgher was a star outfielder for Portland of the Pacific Coast League. He and Billy Southworth, former Pirate and now manager of the Syracuse club, were teammates in Portland. Nixon also starred for New Orleans of the Southern Association and was owned by Cleveland for a time. In Cleveland, he was a good friend of E. S. Barnard, then secretary of the Indians, but now president of the American League.

MANAGED FRANKLIN CLUB

Military service checked the career of Nixon just as it interfered with the baseball activities of John Miljus, Joe Harris and many other athletes. And Billy fought in the same division with Miljus and Harris—the Eightieth. He was a member of the Three Hundred and Nineteenth Infantry.

The managerial qualities of Nixon quickly came out when Billy, after returning from France, was made boss of the Franklin club, which team had a lot of furious tussles with Oil City. In the course of time, however, this two-town league was discontinued and Billy decided to take a business opportunity which presented itself.

MAY BE IN MID-ATLANTIC

A slowing down of business, coupled with a loss of money sustained when a bank failed, caused Nixon to return to the game which previously had claimed all of his attention. There is a chance that he will be associated with the Mid-Atlantic League. He surely would give this circuit a fine flavor and at the same time be an asset to the club he represents as well as to the whole league.

Men of the diamond profession who have played with the Pittsburgher in various circuits all speak of his aggressive, smart play. They were sorry to see him leave the game and will be glad to know that he is back again.

in the fall of 1904, and was a substitute in the backfield in his freshman year.

In the season of 1905 he played fullback on Torrey's team and the following year was moved to right halfback, where he remained for the rest of his college football career. He was captain of the 1907 team. Folwell was a strong line plunger and a great defensive man.

After leaving Pennsylvania he accepted an offer to coach Lafayette and for two years turned out winning elevens at Easton, beating Princeton, Lehigh and Swarthmore, while tutoring the Maroon and White. He left Lafayette and went to Johns Hopkins for a year and then took the position of coach at Washington and Jefferson.

GAME TONIGHT.

Detroit at N. Y. Americans.

ODIE CLEGHORN'S Pirate icemen today own a record that they gladly will relinquish to the lowest bidder—that of not having scored a goal in three consecutive games. Until Saturday night, when the Detroit Cougars took a 2-0 fall out of the Bucs at Duquesne Garden, interest was centered in the feat of the defensemen, they not having allowed an alien goal in three struggles. The sluggishness of the Pittsburgh attack was overlooked in the 0-0 ties with Boston and the New York Americans, but this soft-pedal offense hurt when the Cougars denied the Pirate mesh.

George Hay, brilliant Detroit wing, was the man who contributed most to the Bubs' discomfort. George scored both Cougar goals, in the first period, and strengthened his position as leader of All-American Section scorers. Joliat of the Canadiens is the only man in the league who tops him in the business of piling up points.

Veteran Roger Smith, one of the "fixtures" of Pittsburgh hockey, is being victimized by a small girl with a big voice. Whenever Roger is rushed to the relief of a tiring defense man he is greeted by this fair fan's lusty, piercing and prolonged cries of "PUT McKINNON IN." The young lady, who has not missed a game here since the season opened, started her campaigning for McKinnon at the inaugural, and she has kept it up ever since. Until Saturday her plaintive appeals were vain, but when Roger was sent in against Detroit she became so persistent that other leather-lunged rooters came to her aid and made it a chorus. Manager Odie Cleghorn withstood the serenading for about two minutes, after which he took Smith out and permitted McKinnon to play through the final period.

Spasm In Stocks Ominous? Business Opens Year Well.

By B. C. FORBES

THE first week of the year has brought 40 advances in commodity prices and only 16 declines. It has brought rather cheerful reports from industry and business as a whole.

But Wall Street already has begun to experience the trouble it has so boldly courted by its prolonged speculative exploits.

"DO you want hokum or do you want straight talk?"

That was fired at me when I sought to get the views of a citadel of finance from which no views for quotation ever come—though such views are always in eager demand.

Here is the pith of it.

The boom in many stocks has been carried on under the impetus of the excellent earnings during 1926 and the first part of 1927, and by the stimulus of cheap money. But in most instances earnings started to fall off by the middle of last year and have not yet stopped falling off. The outlook for 1928 is not actually regarded by many high-placed forecasters as optimistically as their published statements represent. If 1928 does as well as 1926 did, there will be reason for satisfaction. Another 1926 is out of the question—so runs this analysis—this year.

THE time will come when the momentum gathered during the period of high earnings will lose its force and when cheap money will not prove a sufficient stimulus to keep stock quotations at record-breakings heights. Net earnings—dividends—will in time reassert themselves and bring a readjustment of stock market prices just as inevitably as water finds its own level.

To load up with securities at current prices would be short-sighted even should money rates continue extremely low, it was emphasized. True, it was natural that our excessive supply of funds should seek an outlet in the security markets seeing that there had been no growth during the last year in the demands from commercial sources. And this same outlet may continue to be sought for some time to come, thus maintaining or even intensifying the inflationary effect already recorded.

"But don't get caught out on the end of a limb when the readjustment of stock quotations to a sound level based on net earnings and reasonable prospects sets in," was the final word of caution.

NOW, it is for you to take this advice or leave it.

I am hopeful that 1928 will turn out better, businesswise, than the expectation here voiced. But the logic employed concerning the position of boomed stocks cannot, in my humble opinion, be disputed. After all, the superabundance of money, because of restricted commercial demands, cannot maintain permanently record-breaking quotations for the stocks of companies whose earnings are decreasing rather than increasing. Remember that Wall Street thus has not brought stock exchange average quotations down in harmony with the decrease in business activities of the last six months.

THE stock market did experience a rather severe shaking on Thursday. Over-boomed issues suddenly dropped $5 to $20 a share and the whole list declined an average of several points. It was perhaps significant that the signs of weakness brought a deluge of liquidation which exceeded the turnover of even the busiest days of the upward movement and smashed all records except that scored when the market had its collapse at the opening of March, 1926.

But support appeared on Friday morning and quite an impressive recovery was achieved during the day. The net result was that average quotations ended the week near year-end level.

President Coolidge apparently took note of the market's spasm of weakness, for he made it known that he did not regard the unprecedented expansion in brokers' loans as unnatural or alarming—the New York Stock Exchange reported the loan total as $4,432,907,321.

It is earnestly to be hoped that the speculators' tug-of-war will not have an outcome disturbing to general business.

THE price-cutting announced by all the leading makers of low-priced cars may prove prophetic of what is in store in other highly competitive industries. Victory, during 1928, will rest with those organizations that can cut costs and at the same time conduct superior salesmanship campaigns. Advertising is destined to be employed more forcefully than ever before to win and maintain volume, without which it threatens to be unusually hard to earn satisfactory net profits.

A syndicate composed of Union Trust Company of Pittsburgh, W. E. Hutton & Co., Harris Forbes & Co., the Guaranty Company, Kidder Peabody Company and Field Glore & Co. of New York, and the Fifth-Third Union Company and Central Trust Company of Cincinnati, is offering $25,000,000 5 per cent debentures of the American Rolling Mill Company at 99½ and interest, to yield 5.04 per cent. The debentures are due in 1948. Proceeds will be used to retire $4,462,000 15-year sinking fund 6 per cent notes, $1,625,300 preferred 7 per cent stock and for additions to property.

Youngstown Activities.

Steel making is increasing in the Youngstown area with 37 independent open hearth furnaces under power this week. One hundred sheet mills are rolling and improvement is noted in output rates of tin plate, merchant bars, strips, plates and shapes. Carnegie Steel is moving operations up to between 65 and 70 per cent from 55 per cent in the district, and has started two more blast furnaces, one at the Ohio works and another in Western Pennsylvania.

Good Inquiry for Copper.

Copper in domestic dealings was firm at 14⅛ cents a pound delivered in Connecticut Valley. While actual business today was small a large number of inquiries were reported in the market. Business in the export division was done in very good volume at 14.40 cents a pound, cost and freight, Hamburg. Demand in this section continued strong.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—The raw sugar market was firmer early today with prices 1-32c higher. Sales reported were 25,000 bags of Cuban for January shipment to a local refiner at 4.61c.

The raw sugar futures market opened firm at advances of 2 to 3 points on covering and some buying by trade and European interests, which was due to the firmness of the London market and to the better tone of the raw sugar market. There was considerable realizing or liquidation on the upturn, however, and partial setbacks followed with the market at midday net 2 points higher.

The announcement of the formation of the sugar institute at the close of last week had a steadying effect on the refined sugar, although it failed to inspire any aggressive demand. The institute plans call for the adoption of more uniform trade practices, improvement of method of tribution, the collection and dissemination of statistics and the encouragement of increased consumption. As a result of the meeting several refiners have announced that henceforth they would be firm at the public list quotation. Prices were unchanged with all refiners quoting 5.90c for fine granulated.

General List Quiet, Prices Steady

Resumption of activity in Carnegie Metals marked the opening of the week on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange, with the stock going to a new high record on a sharp uprush in the first hour of trading.

The advance carried the price to $22 a share, a large fraction over Saturday's best figure and a full point above the previous high registered in 1926. Above 21, however, there was plenty of stock for sale and while the uprush was not halted until the 22 level was reached, the volume of offerings attracted by the higher price was sufficient to bring a quick reaction to 20¾. Aside from the reports that the company is showing a sizeable profit from operation of its two Mexican silver mines, there was nothing further to account for today's activity.

The miscellaneous list was moderately active but rather narrow. Arkansas Gas was handled around the previous closing level, but there was nothing to indicate that traders were anxious to take on the stock as a result of reports that a deal with Cities Service is nearing consummation.

CITE LAWYERS IN WABASH SUIT

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—The Supreme Court today cited attorneys for receivers of the Wabash Pittsburgh Terminal Railway to show why their suit against the estate of George J. Gould and other should not be dismissed.

The court indicated a belief that the case had not been disposed of finally in the lower courts.

The receivers sued George J. Gould, now dead; Myron T. Herrick, ambassador to France; Joseph Ramsey, Sr., and James Hazen Hyde for alleged mishandling of funds of the Pittsburgh Terminal Railway Company.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—The cotton market opened easy today at a decline of 13 to 17 points under liquidation and local selling, apparently inspired by relatively easy Liverpool cables and reports that sales of fertilizer tags for December showed an increase of 52 per cent over last year, and for five months ended December, an increase of 17 per cent over last year.

These increased sales evidently were regarded as tending to strengthen expectations of increased acreage, but offerings tapered off at the decline to 19.95c for January, or about 26 points from Saturday's closing quotation. The market steadied up a few points from the lowest toward the end of the first hour.

Private cables reported general realizing and short selling in Liverpool, which was steadied by trade calling, but later eased again under continued selling. Trade in cotton yarn and cloth at Manchester was improved all around.

The decline was checked by the appearance of an increased trade demand below the 19-cent level for March, and after selling off to 19.94c for that position the market stiffened up on covering. Trading became quiet later, but the market at midday was fairly steady at rallies of 9 or 10 points from the lowest, with the active months ruling about 16 to 18 points below Saturday's closing quotations.

STOCK MARKET MOVES LACK UNIFORMITY

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—(AP.)—Price movements lacked uniformity in today's stock market. Standard industrials were inclined to heaviness, particularly after the call money rate was marked up from 4 to 4½ per cent, but aggressive bullish operations were conducted in a small assortment of foods and specialties. Trading failed to measure up to the terrific pace of last week.

Higher call money rates followed the calling of about $25,000,000 in loans, which was expected in view of the sharp deficit in reserve shown in last Saturday's clearing house statement. Otherwise, there was little in the day's news to influence the price movement.

U. S. Steel common was reactionary despite the predictions of a substantial increase in tonnage in the December figures to be published at noon tomorrow. Yellow Truck was bid up more than 2 points, but all the other motors were reactionary. The announcement of an increase in Hudson Motor prices caused some surprise, following as it did a series of price reductions on models of other manufacturers.

New peak prices for the year, or longer, were registered by American International Kraft Cheese, National Bellas Hess, Devoe & Raynolds and American Encaustic Tiling.

Rails attracted more of an investment following. Texas & Pacific soared 6 points to a new record high at 107. Bangor & Aroostook common was bid up 3½ points and Missouri Pacific preferred advanced 2.

Office of
THE UNION TRUST COMPANY OF PITTSBURGH, TRUSTEE
Pittsburgh, Pa., January 9, 1928
Notice to Holders of
GULF OIL CORPORATION OF PENNSYLVANIA
Twenty Year Five Per Cent Sinking Fund Debenture Gold Bonds dated February 1, 1927.

Tenders will be received up until noon, Tuesday, January 31, 1928, at the office of The Union Trust Company of Pittsburgh, Trustee, under Indenture of the Gulf Oil Corporation of Pennsylvania, securing an issue of $35,000,000.00 par value Twenty Year Five Per Cent Sinking Fund Debenture Gold Bonds, dated February 1, 1927, for the sale to it as said trustee for Sinking Fund purposes of all or any part of as many bonds of the issue above described as the sum of One Million Five Hundred Thousand ($1,500,000.00) Dollars then available in the Sinking Fund will pay at prices not exceeding the principal amount of the bonds plus interest accrued thereon to the date of purchase.

Right is reserved to reject any or all proposals in whole or in part. No tender will be received after the last business day of said month of January.

In case any tenders are accepted the parties making them will be notified as soon after January 31, 1928, as is possible and accepted bonds will be paid for upon their presentation and surrender to The Union Trust Company of Pittsburgh, Trustee, on February 1, 1928.

Interest on these accepted bonds will cease February 1, 1928.

THE UNION TRUST COMPANY OF PITTSBURGH, TRUSTEE.

NEWS AND VIEWS

Seminole Output Up.

The Seminole area for 24 hours ended at 7 a. m. Saturday produced 249,151 barrels crude oil against 245,305 barrels Friday and a peak of 527,400 barrels on July 30, 1927.

The Seminole area has produced approximately 144,000,000 barrels of crude oil since the area was opened in July, 1926.

Rails' Market Position.

Railroad shares are receiving more attention from those who make investment recommendations. The point is made that many of the standard dividend paying rails are selling on a much more attractive return basis than the leading industrials and therefore are in a position to attract investment funds. In addition to this view it is certain that the rail shares are not in as vulnerable position as some of the industrials, because they have not been subject to as much speculation and could show more resistance in any declining market which might develop.

Chesapeake and Ohio.

Discussing the Chesapeake and Ohio, Standard Statistics points out that should the Interstate Commerce Commission decision on the Chesapeake and Ohio application to acquire control of the Erie and Pere Marquette be favorable, it would be bullish on Chesapeake and Ohio immediately, for it would provide it with a big profit on its Erie and Pere Marquette holdings. In case of a negative decision, Chesapeake and Ohio would be in a position to either distribute these shares to its stockholders or retain its holdings, which will eventually yield a larger income and thereby add to non-transportation income. At present the market value of Chesapeake and Ohio holdings of these two roads is equal to about $31 a share on each share of Chesapeake and Ohio.

Southern Places Record Order.

Southern Railway Company has placed orders for 2,000 coal cars, 2,250 automobile box cars, 250 ballast cars, 203 caboose cars and 21 all-steel mail and baggage cars for delivery in the spring and early summer. This, with recent order for 63 locomotives, is the largest equipment order ever placed by Southern.

Fisher's Index Higher.

Prof. Irving Fisher's index number of stock exchange prices for the past week is 259, against 254.6 the previous week and 233.5 a month ago. Prof. Fisher's index number of commodity prices for the past week is 95.1 against 95.9 in previous week and 96.6 a month ago.

Refunding Third Liberties.

The United States Treasury's plan for refunding the $2,147,000,000 outstanding 4¼ per cent Third Liberty loan issue calls for issuance on January 16 of 3½ per cent Treasury notes exchangeable for the Third Liberties. The 3½ per cent notes will be confined solely to refunding the Liberties and no outside subscriptions will be accepted, the Treasury's announcement says. Amount of the new issue will be determined by the amount of Liberties offered for exchange. The new notes will bear interest from date of issue and will mature December 15, 1932, but will be callable in 1930. The Third Liberties mature next September 15 and will be accepted in exchange as of January 16 with interest in full to March 16, which, the Treasury estimates, will compensate holders for the present premium at which they are selling.

Giannini Optimistic.

Consolidations and mergers will be the chief factors for prosperity in 1928, in the opinion of A. P. Giannini, president of Bancitaly Corporation. "They are logical developments to meet changing conditions," Mr. Giannini said. "Better methods, more economical operation and a greater convenience are the result of doing business on a large scale and these qualities are the ones that count when competition is keen. This coming year people are going to have work to do and money to spend. That means prosperity. There will be a market for the average business man to 'shoot at.' The fact that more business will be there to be had during 1928 is going to make competition to get it keener than ever before. The fellows who know the game and have the best organizations are the ones who will profit most. The big rewards will be for those who have planned ahead, and are now ready to step out and give the people what they want, at the right price."

Impaired Locomotives Gain.

Locomotives in need of repair on the class 1 railroads on December 15 totaled 9,148 or 15.1 per cent of the number on line, according to the American Railway Association. This was an increase of 187 locomotives compared with December 1. Shipments of railroad steam and electric locomotives during 1927 totaled 1,071, against 1,755 in 1926, Commerce Department reports. December shipments totaled 72, against 4 in November and 185 in December, 1926. Orders unfilled at the end of December were for 232 locomotives, against orders for 145 at the end of November and 398 at the end of December, 1926.

Westinghouse Air Brake.

Westinghouse Air Brake was active around the highest levels reached since the four-for-one splitup of the old shares. This strength was due to accumulation based on the possibilities of the company's new line of manufacturing activity, the vacuum brake for motor cars. Westinghouse has American manufacturing rights under Delander patents for this brake, which has been used on several foreign cars for some time. The brake is standard size for all types of motor cars, facilitating production. An initial order, making it standard equipment on one American make, has been received. Moreover, Westinghouse's automatic train control business, through Union Switch and Signal, is expected to be exceptionally large this year, and may exceed regular equipment business for the first time.

FARMERS DEPOSIT NATIONAL BANK.
Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 9, 1927.
The annual meeting of the shareholders of this bank to elect directors to serve for the ensuing year and for the transaction of such other business as may properly come before the meeting will be held at the banking house, corner of Fifth avenue and Wood street, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, Tuesday, January 10th, 1928, between the hours of 11:30 a. m. and 12:00 noon.

At this meeting the shareholders of the bank will also be called upon to elect a trustee to serve as one of the three trustees holding the shares of stock of the Farmers Deposit Trust Company in trust for the stockholders of the Farmers Deposit National Bank, this election being necessary to fill the vacancy among such trustees caused by the death of J. H. Reed. Under the resolution of the board of directors appointing three trustees for this purpose, the vacancy must be filled by a vote of a majority in interest of the holders of shares of stock of the Farmers Deposit National Bank at a meeting called for that purpose.
Yours very truly,
J. H. JONES, Cashier.

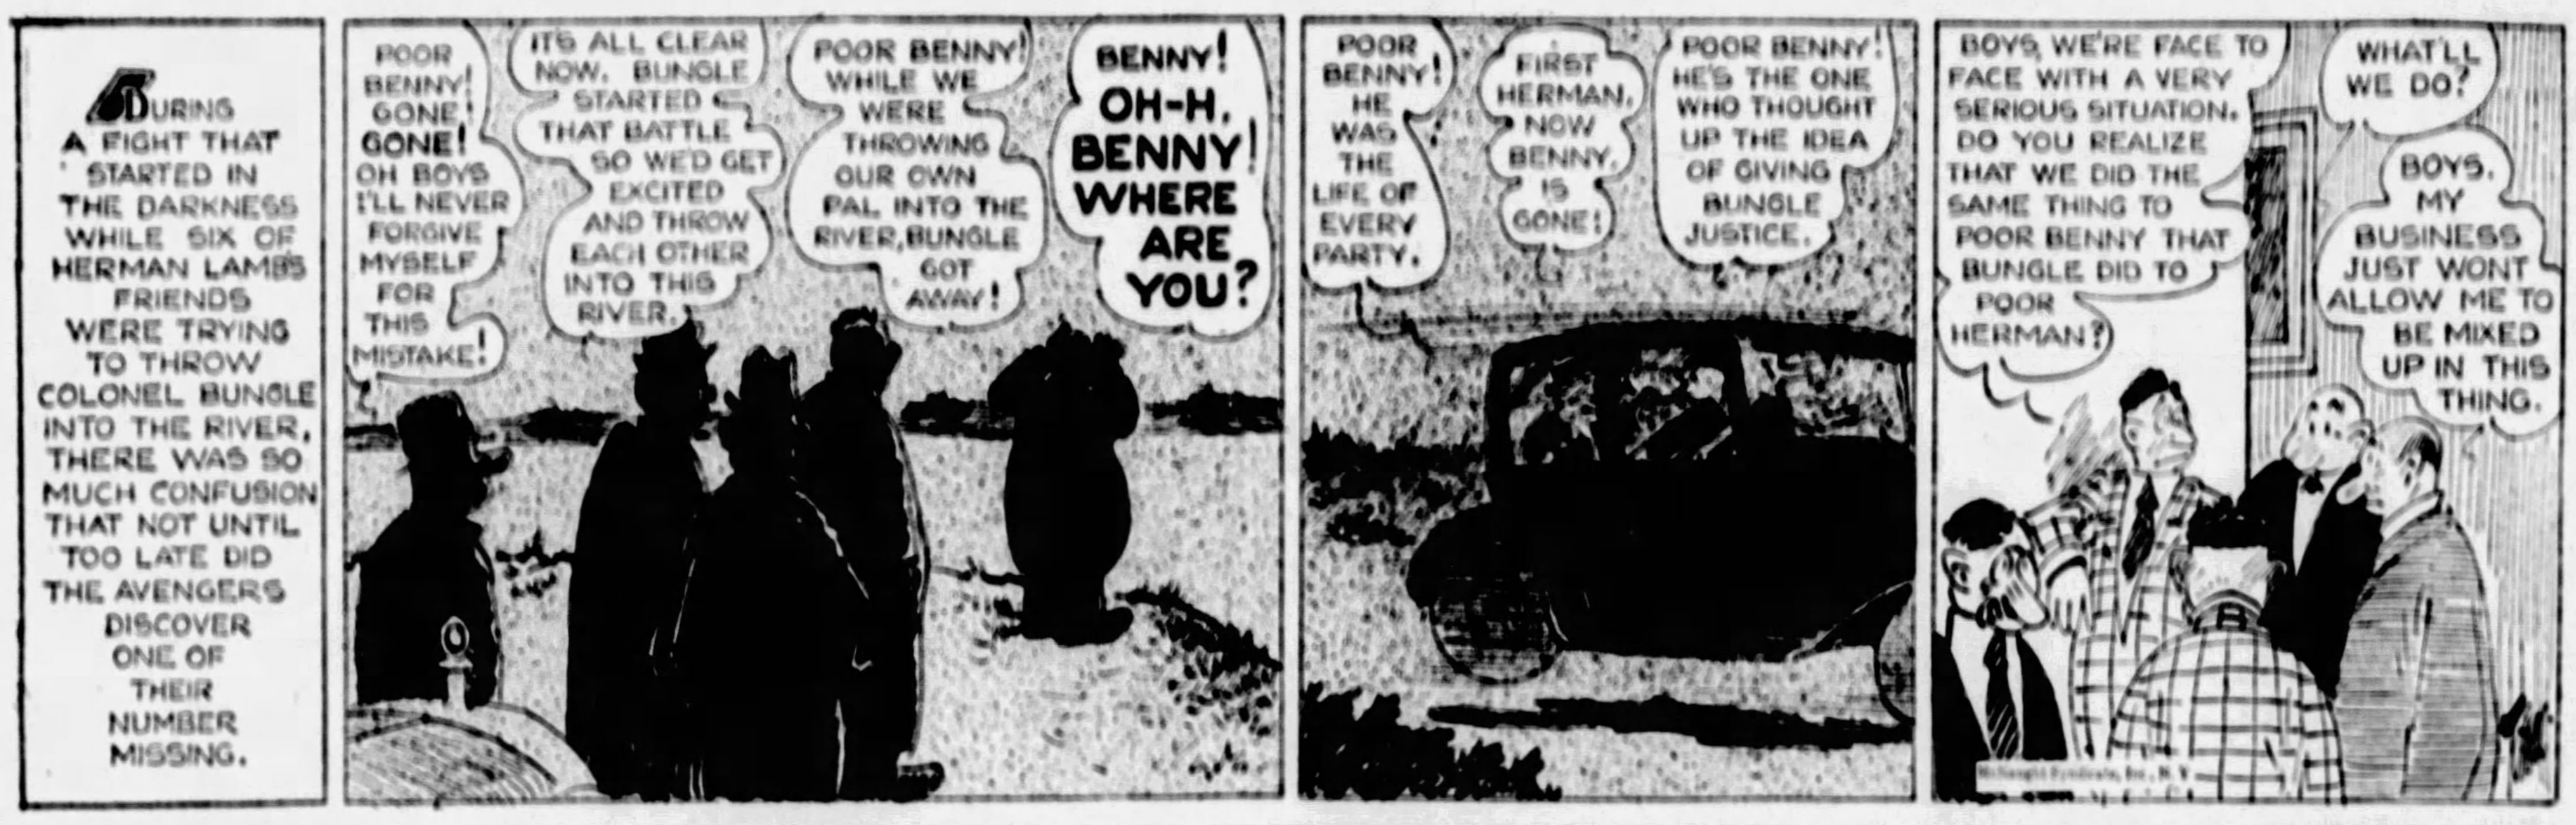
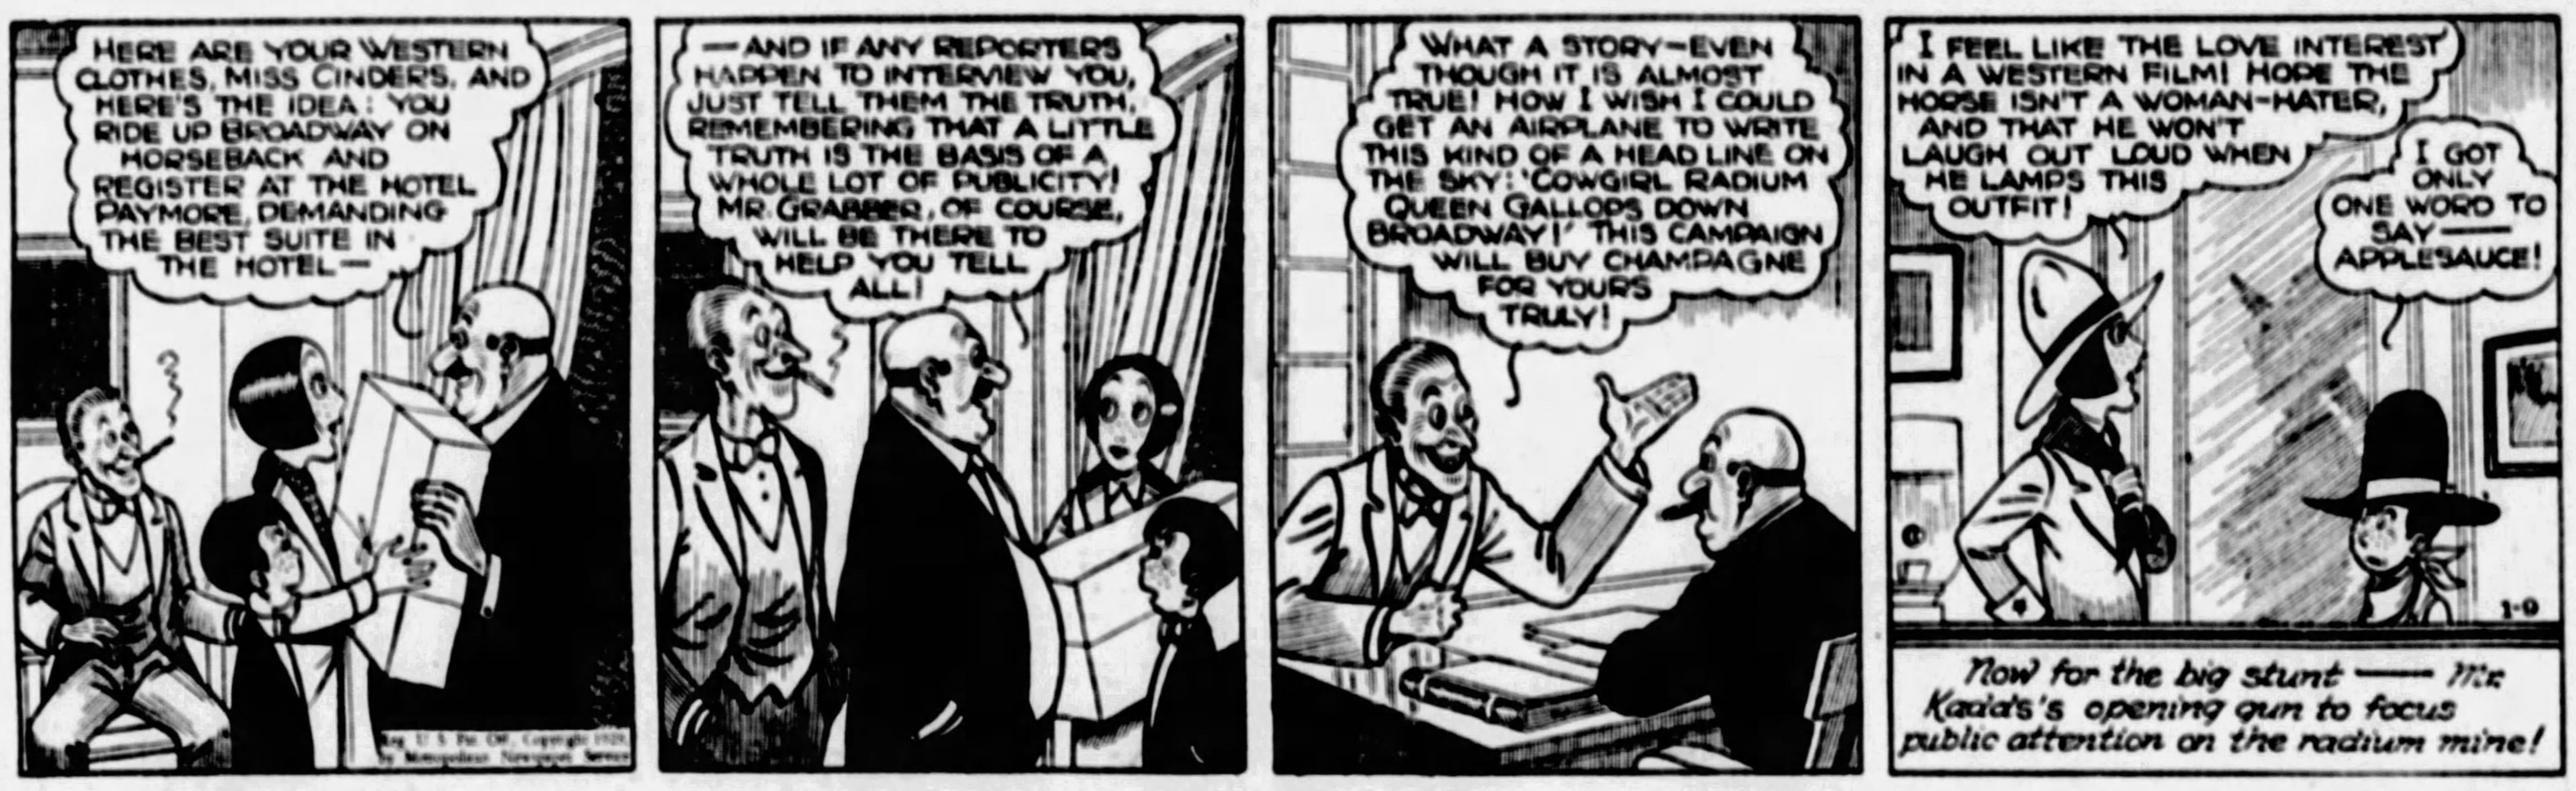
THE BUNGLE FAMILY — Bad Luck



DURING A FIGHT THAT STARTED IN THE DARKNESS WHILE SIX OF HERMAN LAMB'S FRIENDS WERE TRYING TO THROW COLONEL BUNGLE INTO THE RIVER, THERE WAS SO MUCH CONFUSION THAT NOT UNTIL TOO LATE DID THE AVENGERS DISCOVER ONE OF THEIR NUMBER MISSING.
POOR BENNY! GONE! GONE! OH BOYS I'LL NEVER FORGIVE MYSELF FOR THIS MISTAKE!
IT'S ALL CLEAR NOW. BUNGLE STARTED THAT BATTLE SO WE'D GET EXCITED AND THROW EACH OTHER INTO THIS RIVER.
POOR BENNY! WHILE WE WERE THROWING OUR OWN PAL INTO THE RIVER, BUNGLE GOT AWAY!
BENNY! OH-H, BENNY! WHERE ARE YOU?
POOR BENNY! HE WAS THE LIFE OF EVERY PARTY.
FIRST HERMAN, NOW BENNY, IS GONE!
POOR BENNY! HE'S THE ONE WHO THOUGHT UP THE IDEA OF GIVING BUNGLE JUSTICE.
BOYS, WE'RE FACE TO FACE WITH A VERY SERIOUS SITUATION. DO YOU REALIZE THAT WE DID THE SAME THING TO POOR BENNY THAT BUNGLE DID TO POOR HERMAN?
WHAT'LL WE DO?
BOYS, MY BUSINESS JUST WON'T ALLOW ME TO BE MIXED UP IN THIS THING.

ELLA CINDERS — For Publicity Purposes



HERE ARE YOUR WESTERN CLOTHES, MISS CINDERS, AND HERE'S THE IDEA: YOU RIDE UP BROADWAY ON HORSEBACK AND REGISTER AT THE HOTEL PAYMORE, DEMANDING THE BEST SUITE IN THE HOTEL—
—AND IF ANY REPORTERS HAPPEN TO INTERVIEW YOU, JUST TELL THEM THE TRUTH, REMEMBERING THAT A LITTLE TRUTH IS THE BASIS OF A WHOLE LOT OF PUBLICITY! MR. GRABBER, OF COURSE, WILL BE THERE TO HELP YOU TELL ALL!
WHAT A STORY—EVEN THOUGH IT IS ALMOST TRUE! HOW I WISH I COULD GET AN AIRPLANE TO WRITE THIS KIND OF A HEAD LINE ON THE SKY: 'COWGIRL RADIUM QUEEN GALLOPS DOWN BROADWAY!' THIS CAMPAIGN WILL BUY CHAMPAGNE FOR YOURS TRULY!
I FEEL LIKE THE LOVE INTEREST IN A WESTERN FILM! HOPE THE HORSE ISN'T A WOMAN-HATER, AND THAT HE WON'T LAUGH OUT LOUD WHEN HE LAMPS THIS OUTFIT!
I GOT ONLY ONE WORD TO SAY— APPLESAUCE!

THIS WAGGISH WORLD

by Roy K. Moulton

SCIENTISTS PLAN A GREAT YEAR.

THE scientists, those dear, absent-minded gentlemen of retorts but no repartee, are planning for us the greatest 1928 we have ever known. They have been achieving great things in this country ever since they invented the rubber oysters for church socials in 1888, but, according to plans, this year will knock all previous 1928s cold.

PROF. IGNATZ MUGGLEBERG, noted savant of the Unterstuetzungverin Gesselschaft Dog and Cat Hospital of Berlin, announces that in 1928 he will isolate the anti-antique germ. Millions of nice old ladies and gentlemen throughout the world are afflicted with the antique bug, a deadly germ which makes them rush about spending their money for fake Salem bean pots and phony telephones used by George Washington. The anti-antique germ will be introduced to fight the antique germs. An interesting battle is expected.

Dr. Voronoff will introduce a monkey gland into a hippopatumus and make the latter climb a tree.

An English scientist announces the discovery of an anti-freeze mixture for apartment house radiators.

ADDRESSING a meeting of the Car Barns Society for Scientific Research, Prof. Jeremy Skingullet, of Hokum University, said: "I am on the eve of making known to the world the most startling discovery of latter years. It is that, beginning next year, by a proper use of the atmosphere, air will become a driving force which will operate many business institutions in this country—the cheapest fuel ever known. Our industry will be revolutionized.

We can't give Prof. Skingullet anything on his wonderful discovery, for there is nothing new in it. A good many business industries have been run by air for many years—hot air.

Hod Binks, the Bucyrus, O., genius, will give to the world in 1928 his masterpiece of invention, a carpet-stretcher which contains a music box in the handle and plays while the carpet is being stretched. The handy little appliance will also contain an opener for beer bottles, a nail-clipper, a cigar cutter, a screw driver, skeleton key and a small automatic pistol—an appliance that no society man can afford doing without.

A radio receiving set to wear inside of derby hats is announced by Station WOOF. This is recommended for use in the hats of United States Senators and Congressmen to give them something to think about.

IT IS stated on good authority from the University of Leipsig that Prof. Gottleib Dinglehoofer has isolated the chills and fever germ and will, during the year 1928, treat some European statesmen with some serum which they seem to need. All we have to say for the chills and fever germ is that if he is isolated—in Germany—he must be a lonesome little cuss.

Hank Tobias, of Centerville, O., has invented a thermometer to be used up in the Weather Bureau which will register the same as the ones down in the street level far below, so the public can learn the truth about the heat once in a while. Hank is crazy. The people don't want to hear the truth and wouldn't believe it if they did.

Science this year is going to outdo itself and civilization will advance nine holes toward perfection. The entire mode of living will be changed and the modus operandi of the business world will be revolutionized. One bird is going to connect up a wireless telephone line to heaven.

The first thing science knows, it will blow up and bust.

Must Be County Audit If Only to Vindicate

The decision of Judge James B. Drew that he has no legal authority to grant the petition of Controller Robert G. Woodside to conduct an audit of the county finances shall not, it is strongly hoped, end efforts to have such an audit made. The court, in effect, states that it is a matter without its jurisdiction, something in which it can have no directing hand, one way or another.

Commissioner McGovern, when he was controller, advised by his own counsel, insisted that the law defining the controller's duty gave him ample power to conduct an audit. Controller Woodside, undecided as to what his next step toward obtaining an audit will be, likely also will be guided by counsel. So, probably, will be the county commissioners should a request for funds to pay for the audit come before them.

It is commendable that all of our officials should be so cautious in seeing that the law is adhered to and there is no public disposition to feel that the statute will be used as a shield for evasiveness. All of the officials concerned with county finances have expressed themselves too openly as favoring an audit to cause any such feeling.

For their own vindication, if for nothing else, the majority county commissioners desire an audit. The position of the minority member of the board is well known. Controller Woodside naturally wishes to know ''where he is at'' in taking charge of the county's books. The public has no doubt that, in a general way, everything is as it should be, but it would like to see the haze that envelops the whole situation lifted.

Checks for County Pay the Proper Modern Plan

In announcing payment of county employes by check instead of currency hereafter, County Treasurer John Francies adopts a system that many large private concerns have found to be more efficient. There is a large measure of safety, too, in the plan, as danger of holding up the paymaster is eliminated.

The change will work a little inconvenience for employes, but the benefit to the county at large and the removal of the risk of robbery and perhaps death for the paymaster should outweigh the factor of slight individual inconvenience.

A more significant thing about the change is evidence that modern business methods are being employed in county offices.

Congress Should Pass Anti-Third Term Bill

President Coolidge's wise determination not to accept another term as President is a patriotic continuation of the precedent set by Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe and Jackson, and followed by all our great Presidents since.

This precedent is so vital to the public welfare that it ought not to be left to the choice of the individual. It ought to be embodied in an amendment to the Constitution, forbidding any President to serve more than eight years.

Such an amendment is proposed in a Senate resolution introduced by Senator Dill, of Washington.

The resolution ought to pass the two houses of Congress by the required two-thirds vote, after which it will undoubtedly be ratified by the necessary three-fourths of the state legislatures.

It is a matter of record that, in the constitutional convention, it was originally voted that the President should be chosen for seven years and not be eligible for re-election. Jefferson, a member of the convention, later wrote, regarding the matter:

"That this continuance should be restrained to seven years was the opinion of the convention at the earliest stage of its session, when it voted that term by a majority of eight against two, and voted by a simple majority that he should be ineligible a second time.

"This opinion was confirmed by the House as late as July 26, referred to the Committee of Detail, reported favorably by them and changed to the present form by final vote on the last day but one of their session.

"Of this change three states expressed their disapprobation: New York by recommending an amendment that the President should not be eligible a third time, and Virginia and North Carolina that he should not be capable of serving more than eight in any term of sixteen years."

Just two months after Washington in his farewell address had refused a third term, the House of Representatives resolved, in an address to him:

"We cannot be unmindful that your moderation and magnanimity, twice displayed by retiring from your exalted stations (Commander-in-Chief of the Army and President), afford examples no less rare and instructive than valuable to a republic."

It is the good fortune of this country that it has had no President willing to attempt to break this precedent. Plenty of them could have done so. President Coolidge, when he retires on March 4, 1929, will have been President five years and seven months. There is no doubt that he could have had another nomination and another election, extending his period of service to nine years and seven months.

With the eight-year precedent thus broken down, another popular Chief Executive could go further, and both seek and obtain a third election.

This is the time and the occasion to settle this matter once and for all, and to put the eight-year bar on the presidency.

But for President Coolidge's renunciation, such action might be looked upon as a political move against him. Now it is simply a confirmation of his judgment and his action. Though Senator Dill, who introduces the resolution, is a Democrat, he deserves the support of Republicans and Democrats alike in an action that is not partisan but American.

OPTIMISM

Garrett P. Serviss Says:

Electric Life

WHEN the nineteenth century set, it left glowing on the scientific horizon the idea of measurement limiting knowledge. "All that we can measure we can know—but no more." And by measurement was meant, strictly, mechanics. It was a constricting idea.

The twentieth century sunrise has suffused the mental firmament with a widened illumination, overspreading the old without destroying it. Even the so-called scientific mind now admits that we may have other perceivable contacts than with matter, since science has fundamentally changed the definition of matter. We are told that matter is a form of energy, and energy is electricity in one of its states. But then, electricity, in another phase, might be likened to spirit. So matter and spirit would be connected through a series of intermediate states, to which simple mechanical measurement would not apply. Surely, if man is not purely material his knowledge cannot be bound by material limitations. Even in the narrowest scientific sense it must expand with the enlargement of the definition of matter and its relations.

Professor Albert P. Mathews, of the University of Cincinnati, says that the effects of "the new conceptions of the nature of time and mass and energy, which have already upset all the foundations of mechanics and physics," are already beginning to be felt in biology, and that "no one can say what they will do to and for this science; they seem, however, to have the effect of putting mentality of some kind into the inorganic as well as organic, and thus to open entirely new vistas in biology. They suggest a method by which matter can be made, and they offer, or seem to offer, an escape from the purely mechanistic theories of conduct and life."

A curious alternation in the electrical resistance, or the electro-motive force of the body takes place under the influence of emotion, and Dr. George W. Crile has found reason for thinking that there is some kind of reciprocal variation in electric resistance between the liver and the brain.

And Professor Mathews says: "I have a feeling that the investigation and elucidation of these curious electrical disturbances which are usually correlated with oxidative changes and with the emotions, will ultimately throw great light on the nature of vitality and also perhaps on the causes of disturbed personality, states of mind, which have at present no tangible clue as to their origin."

Some people think that there has been a revolution in literature since the "Victorian era" of the nineteenth century; perhaps there has, but the contemporary revolution in science quite overshadows it with its immensity.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

The Old Book

UPON the old man's knees the old book lay
With leaves aflutter; but how far away
His thoughts! For something on the yellowed page,
Had drawn time's curtains and, as on a stage,
He saw strange figures in a setting strange,
That had been near and dear before the change
The years with slow, relentless skill can trace
Upon the mind and soul, as on the face.
Old friends, old loves, old fears and fancies gay
From that old volume rose, as all the day
He sat, divested of the cloak of age,
And read loved tales, not on the printed page.

Avoidance

GOV. JOHNSTON of Oklahoma, who had a monkey and parrot time with his Legislature and other sorts of holiday troubles, has issued a bitter ukase condemning all gossips. He claims they have caused him all his worry.

Perhaps he is right, but the Governor should know the way to avoid the gossips. The very best way to fool those birds of prey is to stay out of politics.

Worth It

A CALCULATION of the outlay of press organizations to date on news and pictures of Lindy puts it at $5,000,000.

There have not been many spendings of $5,000,000 in the history of the human race which have given a higher average of satisfaction.

LISTEN, WORLD! ELSIE ROBINSON Says: "And Ye Shall Find"

"Ask and it shall be given you; seek and ye shall find it; knock and it shall be opened unto you. For everyone that asketh receiveth; and he that seeketh findeth; and to him that knocketh, it shall be opened."—Matthew 7:7.

YOU often hear people say this—"All this psychic stuff's the bunk. There's no use trying to solve the mysteries of life and death. We weren't meant to understand things like that."

If they are religious people they say—"God doesn't intend that we shall understand things like that."

They think that settles it. It doesn't. It's never safe for a mere man to broadcast God's intentions. Once we said that God didn't intend that men should monkey with lightning. Today we have electric lights—and there's no sign of divine displeasure. Men also said that the earth was flat and that God would raise Cain with anyone who tried to peek over the edge. Along came Mister Columbus.

In short, we have ample evidence to prove that God is willing to let us understand anything we want to understand. And that no mystery needs to remain impenetrable.

Consider the radio, the airplane, the wireless, the X-ray.

These things violate and annihilate the most ancient and dread mysteries of time and space. If your great grandfather had suddenly presented them to his generation he would have been accused of commerce with witches and devils and probably burned at the stake. Yet we accept them as commonplaces. We know that there was no witchery or deviltry in connection with their discovery. They came about naturally. They came as naturally as the first thatched hut came.

Man needed a cover from the sun and loneliness. Man IMAGINED a cover, and copied his hut from that image.

Other things came as fast as man needed and imagined them. Axes, arrow heads, dishes, sandals. Always things came in the same way. First the urgent need. Then the mental image. Then the Thing, created after that image.

AS FAST AS MEN NEEDED A THING AND WERE ABLE TO IMAGINE THAT THING THEIR NEED WAS SATISFIED. Nearly always the creation of the new thing violated some ancient taboo. Always men said it COULDN'T and SHOULDN'T be—always it WAS, as soon as men went after it in earnest.

MEN COULD GET ANYTHING THEY COULD IMAGINE.

They didn't get it at once. Sometimes it took years or generations of labor and experiment. But in the end they always got it, if they went after it in earnest.

So light came into man's dark life. So the chains were broken, the barriers went down, the mysteries became realities.

Why should the process stop? Why should there be anything in man's life which man's spirit cannot conquer? I DO NOT THINK THERE IS.

New York Day by Day

by O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Up to discuss a lecture plan with James B. Pond and numb at the thought. So to breakfast with Howard Acton and his son and back to my lodgings to do the daily chore.

In the afternoon it came on to snow and the view from my window so entrancing I sat until dusk, doing no work but speculating on the phenomena beyond me, and was stirred out of my reverie with word my bank account was overdrawn.

To dinner with Lee Olwell and to the Winter Garden. Later joined my wife and some others at George Olsen's club and a quartet sang a modern version of the chorus from ''Rigoletti,'' the most absurd bit of nonsense I ever heard. Late to bed.

Those performers known in the stage world as ''hoofers'' are enigmas even to their own guild. They generally come in pairs from nobody knows where.

They are able to "stop" shows in innumerable instances with intricate dance steps and are essential ingredients of every revue. The hoofers, off stage, have none of the strutting manners of the usual performer. And seem apart from the world of Broadway. Often they create a big sensation for one season and are never seen again. They are usually in their twenties and due to exacting physical demands of "laying the leather" are mostly temperate and clean living.

A revival of fans is observed in smart places. And are being displayed in fashionable shops. A style expert declares fans come into popularity every 10 years. O. K. with me and I can bear it if you can.

* * *

Last night in a supper club there was a human cameo out of the past. He was bald, old, parchment faced with a neck shriveled like a turkey gobbler. His eyeglass ribbon had a dollar-sized amethyest slide resting in the center of his shirt bosom and on the table before him was a snuff box from which he took frequent pinches while looking on. I expected him any moment to pop up and snap into a clog dance as a surprise comic of the entertainment. But the waiter said he came in now and then alone—sipped a drink which he poured from a canteen-like flask and toddled out to his waiting automobile.

Every now and then in New York will be seen a withered and fluttery old dodo capering about like a colt. In Broadway pleasure marts they are called "grandpas." People laugh, but they offer an ineffable sadness. Some day I suppose all of us will want a last fling. Heigh ho and lack a day.

* * *

Those who think New York is all whoopee should visit the reading rooms of various public libraries. The visitors are not always elderly people. There are many young and middle-aged who do not attempt to escape from reality by false pleasure but in perusing fine books. As Mr. Brisbane might observe, that is interesting.

* * *

It is comforting to hear the famous name Delmonico is to flourish again—this time on Park avenue. "Dear Old Del's" was for years a cafe that drew expert gourmets. It had a distinction and glamour that few American restaurants achieved. And a rather pitiable side of it is that the owners of the new Delmonico's are said to have acquired the name by paying debts of the old company. It floundered several years before sinking.

* * *

I shall never forget my first meal at Delmonico's. I thought it would be fancy to order a creme de menthe at the finish of the meal. Of all the sillies. The waiter desired to know if I wished it frapped. I nodded pleasantly and added brightly that I would like it iced. I didn't blush, but Allan Dwan, who was my host, died. Come to think of it, he never asked me to dinner again.

Endurance

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Importance depends on endurance. Endurance is the retention through time of an achievement of value. Thus says whitehead in Science and the Modern World.

Endurance is the real test of a man. It is something that we can all have. If we can do nothingg else we can hang on and remain the same.

Sometimes this is mere pigheadedness and stubbornness. But in this world of fluctuating values and fluctuating men it is a pleasure to find something stable.

One of the strongest pleas of the Roman Catholic Church is that it has endured throughout the ages and is still going strong.

Whatever has endured for a length of time must have some merit to it.

The life of an organism depends upon its ability to adjust itself to its surroundings. Life is a tragedy for the unfit.

A man is in perfect health when he can breathe the air, enjoy the sunshine and partake of the food that is offered him, and his lungs, his stomach and his other organs are attuned to his environment.

If they become out of tune or, in other words, he becomes unfit, nature eliminates him.

Emerson said that the best test of a book and the finest critic was time, and advised us, as a whole, to read no book that had not been printed 20 years.

Time has dealt harshly with some popular favorites, while others have survived.

Some of the popular songs our ancestors sang are still popular. No one could tell at the time which they were, but the passing of the years has tested them.

It is perhaps a wise thing not to build a monument to a man before he is dead. Time must have its opportunity to pass upon him.

There is something in mere endurance, and the man who is able to stick a thing out to the bitter end has the advantage over one who is constantly changing.

Do not stick to a thing simply because you have chosen it, but after choosing it wisely keep your feet firm and do not vacillate.

Once Overs

By J. J. MUNDY

Don't Wait

ARE you doing your share for the old folks at home?

Since you left home, are you allowing your brothers and your sisters who are nearer by, to meet the demands of your parents?

Why should you consider that you have no financial responsibility as far as your parents are concerned if they need assistance?

Is it right for you to sidestep your duty and make other members of your family do more than their share?

You doubtless spend enough in entertainment to meet your portion of the expense in keeping your parents in a comfortable condition.

Why should you think that your duty to them ceases with your leaving the home town?

If you don't know what they need, and you are afraid to ask, you are certainly ungrateful for all the care they have bestowed upon you in the past.

If they are proud, too proud to want to accept money from you, you can help them without asking them anything about it.

Your parents have a just claim on you.

Don't wait for brother or sister to remind you of your duty.

Tales That Are Told

Retort Courteous

A CHORUS girl, deliciously pretty but decidedly lowbrow, somehow found herself at a very select party given by a famous society woman.

The girl, lonely and uncomfortable as a fish out of water, was leaning against the wall, framed against the dark oak, when the hostess took pity on her.

"My dear," she said, kindly, "you look just like an old Rembrandt."

"Well," retorted the damsel, sharply, "you don't look too darned snappy yourself."

Much Older

THEY had been up to town to see a musical comedy and were discussing its merits as they traveled home in the train.

"I think I liked the villain best of all," declared the girl. "He was so very natural and—oh, what lovely hair! So black and curly."

The young man beside her cursed inwardly. He was very fair.

"What do you think of the big chorus of 21?" he asked, changing the subject.

"They were more than that," replied his friend decisively. "There wasn't one under 30, in my opinion."

A Tool of Two Trades

HE WAS a stranger in a strange land and had entered the only barber's to get his hair cut.

"How long will it take you to cut my hair?" he asked the man in the shop.

"In no time, sorr," answered the other, and lifting his voice, he called to the somnolent youth who assisted him in his arduous labors.

"Michael, me bhoy," he said, "just run over to the newspaper office an' tell the editor that Oi should loike my scissors if he is finished editing the paper, as there's a gintleman waitin' for a hair-cut."

Resourcefulness

A NEWLY-RICH man who had bought a country house awoke one night to find that his watch had stopped, whereupon he called the butler.

"What time is it, Henry?"

"Well, go out and look at the sundial."

"It's dark out there, sir."

"Well, you fool, can't you get a lantern?"
